NAVY PROGRAM SWAMPS EVERY U. S. SHIPYARD

138 Craft Building or Under Contract.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—By awarding contracts for five new naval vessels, the navy today brought the total number of warships building and under contract to twice the capacity of America's government and private shipbuilding facilities.

The total number of vessels building and under contract is 138. Government and private shipyards only have ways for the building of 62 vessels. Under the defense expansion program, the navy plans to add 200 more vessels to the fleet, thus swamping building facilities even more hopelessly.

Of the 138 ships under construction, on paper and in yards, 87 were put in this classification within the last three weeks. These 87 include two battleships, four aircraft carriers, 15 cruisers, 38 destroyers, and 28 submarines.

Long Delays Possible.

Unless government and private shipbuilding facilities are increased, some of these ships may not reach shipbuilding ways for three or four years. At present production schedules, all of the 200 proposed ships might not reach the ways until present designs become obsolete. The government plans to spend more than 100 million dollars in providing additional facilities, but has not yet perfected its program.

In an emergency, it was said at the navy department, the navy might use some dry docks as shipbuilding ways. The navy has 27 docks in its various yards and private yards have even more. However, these are needed to keep existing vessels in repair.

The capacity of various government and private shipyards for various types of vessels was reported by the navy department as follows:

*Battleships and aircraft carriers may be built on the same ways.

Navy officials reported additional private shipbuilding facilities in the country which might be developed for naval construction. It was estimated that possibly 15 might be developed to take care of smaller craft.

Careful Planning Necessary.

Navy officers denied that the navy department is ordering more ships than yards can build in order to make a showing on paper for the billions the administration is spending on national defense. They said the paper planning of a warship is an important step in putting a vessel to sea.

The officers said it is imperative that the navy and the nation know what the navy's building plans are, so these can be measured against existing facilities for the adoption of a schedule. If the schedule is found unsatisfactory, steps can be taken to speed construction. In this connection, it was recalled that the navy is planning to expand its facilities and is hopeful private yards will do the same.

The number of vessels in the navy, the number building or on contract and the number proposed under the

Mexican Army Mobilized for Election Vigil

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, July 3.—Troops began mobilizing in small detachments thruout Mexico today as army, rural police, and special federal investigators prepared to keep peace in next Sunday's presidential elections. This national poll will test whether President Lazaro Cardenas' communistic régime is strong enough to impose its candidate upon a majority of the Mexicans, who appear to favor a return to more conservative paths.

Police Issued Rifles.

Helmeted infantrymen, cavalry with rifles and bayonets began to appear in virtually all towns and villages. In Mexico City and other large centers rifles and bayonets were issued to police to augment the automatic pistols they usually carry. All Mexican civilians are forbidden by a federal decree, issued today, to carry arms between now and July 15.

These preparations increased the tension, already at the breaking point, over the year long campaign, bitter and bloody, in which the issue has been squarely placed before the people. The extent of the mobilization gave the lie to statements of all officials that no violence was expected. Many civilians believe there will be bloodshed on election day.

Machine Backs Camacho.

Cardenas is retiring and officially he has taken no part in the electioneering. But his political machine, the only organized political agency in Mexico, is backing his long time friend and associate, Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, former war minister. Cardenas' machine is the PRM [Mexican Revolutionary Party] created by him in 1936.

Camacho's only serious opponent is Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, senior army general who carries the ribbons of the citizens who want a return to san economics and governmental operations and relief from the dictatorial labor unions that have plagued Mexico for five years.

From his palatial villa here in suburban Coyoacan, where he is awaiting election day, Almazan issued what may be his final pre-election word at 1 o'clock this morning. He said, "The impositionists, realizing the unquenchable desire of the Mexicans to express their own will and make it respected, have been putting out an inadmissible report that the government of the United States has given or will give approval to the imposition of the official candidate.

"Such a maneuver is not only stupid but calumnious. The United States knows that only a national government in the strictest sense of the word could honor pacts and international agreements which Mexico might make with other countries of America."

SONG OF LIBERTY BELL RINGS OUT TODAY THRU 164 YEARS OF FREEDOM

It is now 164 years since the Continental congress voted to accept Thomas Jefferson's draft of the Declaration of Independence, which declared that "these united colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states."

The Liberty Bell.

The news was first broadcast to the people of Philadelphia by the ringing of the Liberty bell in the old Pennsylvania statehouse [now Independence hall]. Then cannon were fired and horsemen set off to inform the people all over the colonies of what had been done. Four days later the old bell was rung again—July 8, 1776—to summon the people to a public reading of the document.

Probability grew yesterday that the name of Postmaster General James A. Farley will be placed in nomination at the Democratic national convention, opening July 15. On Tuesday Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana let it be known that his name would be proposed to the convention. Early arrivals at headquarters in the Stevens hotel think Vice President John N. Garner will follow suit.

Won't Discuss Third Term.

Farley, national chairman during both the Roosevelt terms, came here from New York but refused to comment on his own position. However, since Farley has made no counter declaration since he granted permission to the state chairman of Massachusetts, William H. Burke, to work in his behalf, it was assumed that his name would go before the convention.

"What about the third term issue?" the national chairman was asked.

"I can't discuss the effects of that until the convention nominates," Farley replied. "I am satisfied, tho, that a majority of people want the Democratic party to remain in power."

Bankhead to Be Keynoter.

The postmaster general confirmed an earlier prediction that the convention resolutions [platform] committee will be headed by Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York. Speaker William B. Bankhead of the house of representatives will be the temporary chairman and keynoter and Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, the majority floor leader, will be permanent chairman.

Fisherman's Paradise! Dip 'Em Up with Buckets

ENGLISH LINER DESTROYED ON WAY TO CANADA

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—One thousand persons, most of them Italian and German prisoners of war, were reported tonight to have drowned when a German U-boat torpedo sank the 15,501 ton British liner Arandora Star off Ireland as it was taking 1,500 enemy aliens and others to Canada for internment.

The luxury liner, stripped of its finery for prison ship service, carried about 1,500 internees and 500 British guards. This presumably was the second consignment of prisoners for Canada, where the first contingent arrived last week.

It was attacked just after daylight [presumably yesterday] without any warning, and some of the 1,000 survivors who reached Scotland tonight said many prisoners were killed in a mad fight for places in the lifeboats.

The water was filled with bodies and debris, the witnesses related. Hundreds were asleep when the torpedo struck and were unable to cope with the stampede for lifeboats.

Rescued by Canadians.

A German communique had announced the sinking of the liner a few hours before the bedraggled survivors reached a safe harbor in a Canadian rescue vessel.

The Canadian vessel, first to answer the SOS, quickly reached the scene, in the North channel, the strait between Ireland and Scotland.

"She loaded herself to the hilt with men plucked from the water by whaleboats she sent out," a survivor said.

Some of the survivors were clad only in pajamas or trousers. Few had shoes.

"It's a wonder any one was saved," said one man. "At one time 30 men were fighting with each other to be the first to slide down a rope into a lifeboat."

Altho the sinking took place at 6 a. m., in daylight, there was little light below decks because the lighting system failed at once.

The torpedo must have ripped the ship open, as "she began to settle rapidly," a survivor said.

Italian Losses Highest.

The vessel owners, the Blue Star line, said their first reports indicated crew losses were not extensive.

One German internee was praised for rallying some of those in the water until they managed to right a capsized lifeboat into which other struggling swimmers were pulled.

The 13 year old Arandora Star, 512 feet long, was used by the Cunard-White Star Line early in the war to take Americans home from Europe. On he rfirst trip last fall with 441 passengers the ship's officers said they had eluded nine German submarines in crossing.

The Arandora Star was a luxurious cruise ship before the war. It was used for round-the-world cruises and also made a spring trip to the West Indies, a Christmas trip to the Mediterranean, and an autumn Baltic cruise.

Mine Sinks French Ship.

BERLIN, July 3.—The German radio tonight reported the sinking by a mine of the 28,124 ton French liner Champlain. It sank a few days ago off La Pallice, near La Rochelle, France.

The broadcast said the ship was ready to leave for the United States with a large number of passengers and a heavy cargo when there was a sudden explosion. The boat listed heavily and sank in a short time, the announcer said. The bay was calm, lessening the difficulty of rescue work, and all passengers were saved, but a few stokers and several stewardesses were reported drowned.

The announcer gave no explanation for the statement that the ship was sailing from German occupied territory for the United States.

The Champlain had accommodations for 1,053 passengers on her regular trans-Atlantic run. She carried a normal crew of about 575.

Since the war began last September the Champlain had taken two loads of refugees to New York from Europe.

Fleet of Beaten Nation Resists; Warships Fight

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 4, Thursday.—Great Britain yesterday seized units of the French navy in a movement to take over all French warships in British ports.

Some of the warships of conquered France resisted the British and the former allies were engaged in a naval battle off Oran, Algeria, this morning, the London ministry of information said.

A statement issued by the ministry said the French admiral refused to accept conditions laid down by the British to keep the French vessels from falling into the hands of Germany and being used against Britain. The admiral was warned, the statement added, that the British were "prepared to take every step."

Other Ships Taken.

French warships not engaged in the battle are said have been taken into port by the British.

No official information on the naval action beyond the details in the statement was available, but unofficial reports suggested that two casualties mentioned in the statement involved the French warships Strasbourg and Dunkerque. Earlier reports from French sources indicated they are in the area where the action took place.

[The Strasbourg and Dunkerque are France's second largest class of battleships. They both are 26,500 ton vessels, carrying a normal complement of 1,381 men.]

Churchill to Report.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill has promised to make a statement to parliament this afternoon. He is expected to describe the naval battle, disclose the identity of the ships involved, and reveal other steps being taken by Britian to bring the French fleet under her control.

The ministry of information's announcement stated:

"It will be recalled that the French government, relying upon the promises of Germany and Italy not to use her fleet against France's former ally, undertook by the terms of the armistice to allow their fleet to pass into the hands of the enemy.

"His majesty's government, having lost all faith in the promises made by the governments of Germany and Italy, felt they were compelled not only in their own interests but also in the hope of restoring the independence of France and the integrity of the French empire to take steps before it was too late to insure that the French fleet should not be used against them by the common enemy.

Act to Seize All Warships.

"With this object in view, steps were taken early on the morning of July 3 to place all French men of war in British ports under British control.

"This operation was successfully carried out with only two casualties, which occurred owing to a misunderstanding. At the same time French vessels in the ports of North Africa were offered certain conditions designed solely for the purpose of keeping them out of German hands.

"It was explained to the officer in command that if none of these conditions were accepted Great Britain was prepared to take every step in order to insure that none of these vessels should be used against her for the future prosecution of the war.

French Admiral Balks.

"His majesty's government deeply regret that the French admiral in command at Oran refused to accept any of the conditions proposed, with the inevitable result that action had to be taken against the French vessels in that locality. These operations still are proceeding. A statement will be made to parliament later today."

[Experiences of the French fleet since the armistice with Germany are recounted in a story on page 2.]

British Fascists Strive to Free Leader Mosley

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—British Fascists "in secret hideouts at some 50 points in London and home counties" are building up an organization in hope that their leader, Sir Oswald Mosley, will be freed from jail, the Daily Herald said tonight. Supporters of the Fascist leader have filed a petition asking his release, and a hearing is scheduled for Tuesday.

GERMANS MASS ALL FORCES FOR PUSH ON BRITAIN

Air Raids Viewed as Prelude to Attack.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, July 3.—Military experts here who are well informed on German war tactics today expressed a belief that the present wave of air raids over the British Isles is for the purpose of scouting and a prelude to a vast German attack on the British Isles.

Virtually every seaworthy craft at the disposal of Germany was reported being concentrated at strategic points along the coasts from Bordeaux, France, to Bergen, Norway. Likewise, all aircraft was reported being assembled and serviced for the attack. The exact date for the launching of the assault is a closely guarded secret, but it will occur in July, informed sources asserted.

[A dispatch from Stockholm last night said that reports filtering into Sweden indicated that German military authorities in Norway are looking forward to July 9 or 10 as "Der Tag," on which the invasion of England is to begin. In Italy Il Telegrafo, the newspaper of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, said preparations for the attack against Great Britain have been virtually completed by the axis powers and the attack itself is a question of "days if not hours."]

Predict Pattern of Attack.

Military experts who observed the German blitzkrieg tactics in previous campaigns, said the same tactics, which have been successful so far, probably will be employed in the invasion of England, with the changes necessary for the accomplishment of the new objectives. These experts expected the invasion to follow a pattern something like this:

There will be a general mass bombing attack on all vulnerable points of the British Isles by wave after wave of big bombers until the weakest point is discovered to be converted into a bridgehead.

Immediately after the first phase of the attack, ships will be assigned to guarding the bridgehead, while the bombers swing back to the English channel to keep the British navy from blocking the channel lane leading to the bridgehead, or landing place of the invading forces.

Simultaneously with the water crossing, air infantry will go into action, together with the parachute troops.

Observers here believe that Germany is intent upon a clean sweep by using her striking force to the fullest extent while its efficiency is at the maximum.

Moving Train Bombed.

LONDON, July 4, Thursday (AP).—The first German bombing of a moving train in Great Britain killed the engineer with bomb fragments in the climax of prolonged raids unleashed by the Nazi air force yesterday and last night against the British Isles.

Seven persons were reported killed and 77 wounded in the day's aerial attacks, putting the 24 hour total of air raid casualties at 20 dead and 197 wounded. Most of Tuesday's casualties were in three Tyneside towns which were hit.

British antiaircraft guns and fighter planes brought down six and damaged four of the German bombers that roared solo in waves in the almost continuous raids.

The only passengers on the bombed train were two women and two children. A woman related that they crouched on the floor. She said the toe of her right shoe was blown off. The train was filled with fragments of flying glass. Two explosions were heard close to the train and others down the tracks.

Range Far Along Coast.

German raiders ranged all over England, from Scotland to the southern coast in the accelerated prelude to the expected Nazi attempt to invade Britain.

Ten persons were reported injured in a southeast coast town when a raider, caught in the glare of searchlights, jettisoned 12 bombs which fell on working class houses.

The British dead yesterday were in southeastern villages. They included a grandmother and a baby, and several workmen. Sixteen persons were wounded in northeast industrial areas. Censorship does not permit the towns to be identified.

As the air assaults became more

Officials described the raids as "hit and run." Some of the bombs dropped were of the "whistling" variety, calculated to inspire terror.

Use American Planes.

Britain used American made bombers to strike back Tuesday night at the Nazi island air base of Texel, the Netherlands, and at Ijmuiden, in northern Holland. Other British planes ranged the German Ruhr, Westphalia, Hamburg and Dortmund, flew as far north as Denmark and strafed the German held Belgian port of Zeebrugge.

Flying under the coastal command, Lockheed-Hudson bombers, newly purchased in the United States, attacked in the Netherlands Tuesday night. One brought down a German Messerschmitt fighter with his rear gun, near Amsterdam. The British, too, lost one plane.

[D. N. B., the official German news agency, reported last night that 16 persons, including 12 children, were killed yesterday in an air raid at Harmbeck, a suburb of Hamburg. Twenty persons were injured.]

Announce Shipping Sunk.

BERLIN, July 3 (AP). — German submarines and warplanes have struck heavy new blows against British shipping, the high command announced today, reporting also that air raids were made last night against Newcastle and ports of southern England.

The communiqué said that German fighting planes yesterday sank two freight ships of 12,000 and 6,000 tons and another freighter was badly damaged. The ships were in a convoy in the English channel.

The high command declared that among 34,000 gross tons of shipping sunk by one submarine was the British freighter Athelaird, 8,999 tons.

Another submarine torpedoed the armed British steamer Arandora Star of 15,000 tons west of the north chanel, the communique said.

Bomb Armament Plants.

On the Scottish coast and at Newcastle German fighting planes bombed British armament plants and made several attacks Tuesday night on harbor establishments on the south coast of England which, the high command asserted, resulted in numerous fires and explosions.

"During the day three British fighting planes of the Bristol Bienheim type attempting to enter Holland were spotted early and forced to fight. We succeeded in shooting down two of these planes in an air fight," the communique stated.

"Last night again enemy planes dropped bombs on Holland and northern and western Germany, most of which fell in open fields, causing little property damage and hurting no one."

REPORT ENGLAND HAS LOST 72% OF HER IRON IMPORTS

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 3.—The German counter blockade against England has succeeded in cutting off Great Britain from 72 per cent of her sources of iron, thus placing her in imminent danger of a serious shortage, it is claimed in Berlin. The British armament industry, it is asserted, cannot fail to suffer seriously as a result.

The occupation of Narvik, Norway, it is stated, deprived Britain of 35 per cent of her iron supply by stopping the flow of Swedish ore which, it is estimated, made up 25 per cent of the British imports. Britain also lost Norwegian ore which, it is said, amounted to 10 per cent.

With the occupation of France by the Germans it is stated further that Britain lost about 37 per cent of her iron supply—6 per cent from France and 31 per cent from Tunis and Algeria, the latter being ores with an iron content of 50 per cent. Iron imports from Spain and Spanish Morocco, amounting to about 16 per cent of total British imports, are said to have become very problematical.

M'CHORD FIELD, NORTHWEST AIR BASE, DEDICATED

Tacoma, Wash., July 3 (AP).—Uncle Sam's air arm was extended to the Pacific northwest today with the dedication of McChord field, a 2,000 acre, $18,000,000 air base.

McChord will serve as the base for an air armada charged with the protection of Washington, Oregon, Montana, and Idaho and Wyoming north of the 43d parallel, as well as augmenting forces in Alaska.

The 17th Bombardment group, the 89th Reconnaissance squadron, and the 19th Base squadron, part of the first wing, general headquarters air force, have been assigned to the base.

More than 400 buildings will be built in addition to the four large hangars, barracks for 1,200 men, a 20 bed hospital, and several other structures now available.

Big French Liner Reported Sunk by Mine

The 26,124 ton liner Champlain, which according to the German radio struck a mine and sank as it was about to leave France for the United States. All passengers were reported saved.

STRANGE HISTORY OF FRENCH NAVY GROWS STRANGER

Battle with British Adds a Chapter.

The French fleet, almost an aggregation of warships without a country, has had both a tragic and mysterious rôle in the momentous events of the last few weeks.

Before the war on the western front started on May 10 the French fleet stood as a mighty armada of 187 ships which, combined with the British, gave the then allies a great preponderance of sea power.

But with the lightning success of the Germans on the land and the eventual capitulation of the French government to Adolf Hitler, the hitherto proud French navy became more of a diplomatic pawn than a fighting instrument.

Ordered Fleet Interned.

The German armistice terms, dictated to the French at Compiegne, ordered the French fleet interned. The Germans, however, solemnly vowed not to use it in any subsequent attack against the British Isles. France's acceptance of these demands aroused Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England to cries of indignation and amasement.

Before Britain had released France from its obligations not to make a separate peace, Churchill said, French leaders had pledged to deliver the fleet into British hands. This was not done, Churchill declared, and all Britain was angry.

Since the armistice signing, however, the exact disposition of the French fleet has been kept a closely guarded secret. There have been many reports on that subject. Most of them, indicated, that a great part of the French fleet was not lowering its colors in acknowledgment of defeat. A large number of ships was reported at Casablanca, on the Atlantic coast of French Morocco.

Vows to "Fight it Out."

Other powerful units were said to be still flying the tricolor at Alexandria, Egypt, great British base in the eastern Mediterranean. At Casablanca the French North African commander, Gen. Auguste Nogues, was said to have declared soon after the armistice:

"We will fight it out."

Commanders of the French warships near the port were reported to have given their approval of that decision to Gen. Nogues.

Washington, D. C. was the source of another report on June 21 which said that the "bulk" of the French fleet had been taken over intact by Britain.

The information received in the American capital was that one French battleship, thought to have been the Jean Bart, was taken from a French navy yard and towed to an English port. The Jean Bart was to have been commissioned this month. The Washington sources also heard that other French warcraft under construction—but not advanced enough to tow as in the case of the Jean Bart—had been destroyed by the French before the advancing Germans took over yards at Brest and several other points.

Claim Capture of Two Ships.

The Berlin newspaper Der Angriff, in a message printed June 21, said that the Germans in their conquest of Brest, had seized two other French battleships, the Clemenceau and the Richelieu, both of which were under construction. They were 35,000 ton vessels.

The whereabouts of two other big battleships, the Dunkerque and Strasbourg, has been strouded in even greater mystery than that which surrounded their sister ships.

The French fleet, a few days after the armistice had been concluded, formally expressed its sorrow by flying its colors at half staff. But they were raised again in apparent anticipation of a fate other than complete surrender. Britain's seizure of them yesterday may once again put the French ships into a battle line against Germany.

Demolition of Ports Hinders Nazi Attack, British Believe

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, July 3.—British troops, in withdrawing from France, did an extensive job in the demolition of some of the ports nearest England, and military observers today expressed the opinion that at least some of them cannot be used for some time as German bases for the expected attack on England.

The ports of Calais, Dunkirk, Boulogne, and St. Malo were badly damaged before their evacuation. St. Malo, observers believe, is out of action for some time.

British and French units hung on in Boulogne and Calais even after they had been passed and partially encircled by the Germans and had time to destroy vital harbor facilities before they withdrew.

Dunkirk Doubly Blasted.

Dunkirk was the port of the great withdrawal from Flanders. The Germans themselves did much damage by bombing and shelling, and British engineers, during the hasty flight, did as much blasting as they could to make the port unusable for the Germans.

When the Germans had mopped up the Flanders trap and started the drive on France, a second British expeditionary force was in danger of being trapped when the Nazis drove to encircle Cherbourg and Brest.

In this trap the British used St. Malo as their port of withdrawal. Speaking of St. Malo and other ports, a naval authority said:

"We always managed to put a few sticks of dynamite wherever we evacuated troops, except, of course, Bordeaux." [The French government was at Bordeaux when the last British troops left there.]

The naval authority indicated, however, that in some of the ports of withdrawal the British did not do as thoro a job of demolition as they might have.

Rotterdam Repeatedly Hit.

Of ports on the coastline of Holland and Belgium which the Germans might use as bases for attacks on England, some suffered damage by German bombers, and Rotterdam, the largest port, suffered heavily.

In the initial German attack Rotterdam was the target of a systematic bombing by hundreds of German planes. Blocks of buildings and many parts of the harbor facilities were destroyed. Also, since the Germans have held Rotterdam, the British have kept up a steady series of raids on the port.

The Germans took over the larger ports in western France so swiftly that they were practically undamaged. These included Le Havre, Cherbourg, Brest, and St. Nazaire. At Brest and St. Nazaire they captured the shipbuilding works and warships on the stocks.

The French armistice conceded to the Germans several completely undamaged ports, such as La Rochelle, Bordeaux, and Bayonne.

COAST GUARD GIVEN WAR SAFETY CONTROL OF PHILADELPHIA PORT

Philadelphia, Pa., July 3 (Special).—The United States coast guard today took control of the port of Philadelphia under war safety regulations more rigid than those enforced here in the world war period.

The title of captain of the port was revived and conferred by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau on Commander Lester E. Wells, 45 years old, veteran of 22 years of service in the coast guard. With four fast cutters and 70 men for water patrols and with a promise of reënforcements soon, Commander Wells was put in command of shipping and related shore activities on the Delaware river from Trenton, N. J., to Lewes, Del. He will work in close coöperation with Raymond Raff, collector of the port.

The navigation commission for the Delaware, which has jurisdiction over anchorages and the registration of ships moving in and out of the port, will report directly to Commander Wells, who also will have final word on the operation of the city department of wharves, docks and ferries.

BRITAIN DEFINES HER POLICY ON PRESS LIBERTY

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—The British government's policy is to interfere as little as possible with the liberty of the press to comment on the conduct of the war or peace overtures, Laborite Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal, told the house of commons today. Statements which give information to the enemy or are calculated to impede the war effort, he said, might be stopped.

Asked by Seymour Cocks, Laborite, why the press was told a fortnight ago not to criticize the composition of the present government, Attlee reiterated the government was opposed to interference with a free press.

On June 19, Prime Minister Winston Churchill demanded that "every minister shall be respected, and their subordinates must know that their chiefs are not men who are here today and gone tomorrow. Without this concentrated power we cannot face what lies before us."

BRITISH AIRMEN CLAIM 60 ITALIAN PLANES DOWNED

Believe Foe's June Losses May Total 85.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 3 (AP).—The British air force shot down 60 Italian planes in the near east in June and probably 25 others, an authoritative British source declared today.

British losses were not disclosed, but they were said to be "exceedingly small."

Rhodesian flyers from the south are attacking Ethiopian bases frequently, causing "considerable damage," this source said. Scores of gasoline and bomb dumps have been fired.

The misnamed British camel corps [actually composed of motorized units of Somali desert tribesmen] is causing heavy damage to Italian military concentrations in Ethiopia, he said.

Bomb Military Bases.

British activity on the western Libyan frontier has been confined principally to bombing military bases.

The latest attack on Macaca airdrome, near Assab, Eritrea, brought destruction of three Italian planes, exploded a bomb dump, and set fire to a gasoline depot.

Operating from the Sudan, British bombers attacked an Italian military concentration at Metemme, Eritrea, starting fires in the quarters of native troops and damaging machine gun and artillery posts.

Bomb Italians in Moyale.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, July 3 (AP).—A British communique issued today said:

"Yesterday our aircraft again attacked Italian defenses at Moyale [on the Kenya-Ethiopian border], directly hitting more gun positions, bombing and machine gunning machine gun posts, and also machine gunning reënforcements sheltering a ravine.

"An explosion suggests that an ammunition dump was destroyed."

Raider Downed at Malta.

VALLETTA, Malta, July 3 (AP).—A raiding plane was shot down in flames today during a heavy raid, presumably by Italian planes, on this British stronghold.

Italian Communique.

ROME, July 3 (AP).—The high command communique today said:

"In East Africa strong British forces launched an attack against the garrison of Metemme, Italian troops launched vigorous counterattacks, forcing the enemy to flee.

"The enemy left on the battlefield 60 dead and a number of machine guns and ammunition. We suffered insignificant losses.

"During air raids the enemy lost two planes which were shot down by antiaircraft fire. The Italian air force successfully bombed air and naval bases at Aden."

MONTREAL, Quebec, July 3 (AP).—More than 1,000 refugees from Britain, of whom about 300 were children, arrived today in Canada's sanctuary after a rough 10 day voyage.

Frau Engelbert Dollfuss.

One after another they asked: "Has Britain been bombed seriously?"

Another was George St. Lawrence Ponsonby, 5 year old son of Lord and Lady Bessborough. He was born in Montreal while Lord Bessborough was governor general of Canada.

BRITAIN ASSURES VATICAN IT WON'T BOMBARD ROME

ROME, July 3.—The British government yesterday notified Pope Pius that it recognizes the especial character of Rome and that so far as is possible it will not bomb, or shell, or damage the city, it was learned in authoritative Vatican quarters today. This assurance was given to the pontiff by D'Arcy Osborne, British minister to the Vatican.

At the start of the war between Italy, France, and Britain, it was learned, Pope Pius asked the French and British governments to spare Rome from aerial bombardments. He did this on the basis of Rome being the center of Catholicism, and a city with more than 1,000 churches. It would be difficult to drop a bomb on Rome without hitting or endangering a religious edifice.

It is believed that the controversy between King Leopold and the refugee Pierlot government is about to end due in part to the intervention of the Vatican. Msgr. Valerio Valeri, papal nuncio to Paris, has been actively engaged in bringing about a conciliation between the refugee government and the king, it was learned today.

SAY NEW FRENCH BASIC LAW WILL BE 'DICTATORIAL'

Aimed at 'Parasites and Plutocrats.'

GENEVA, Switzerland, July 3 (AP).—The new French constitution of the Petain government is designed to wipe out "parasites, favoritism, and plutocracy which have done so much evil to the country," said the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble, France.

In a dispatch today from Vichy, the paper indicated that the new constitution would be authoritarian, altho "within the framework of the republican constitution, and will give back to the state its authority, sovereignty and prestige."

[A dispatch by Havas, French news agency, from Vichy to London yesterday said that the French government would call a national assembly "to give France a new constitution under the high authority of Marshal Premier Henri Philippe Petain."]

Britain Maintains Relations.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—The British government "is in relation with the Petain government of France thru the French chargé d'affaires in London," R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons today, but added, "I cannot further define how our attitude to the Petain government will develop."

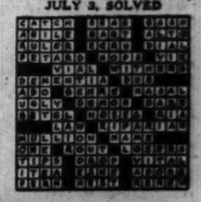
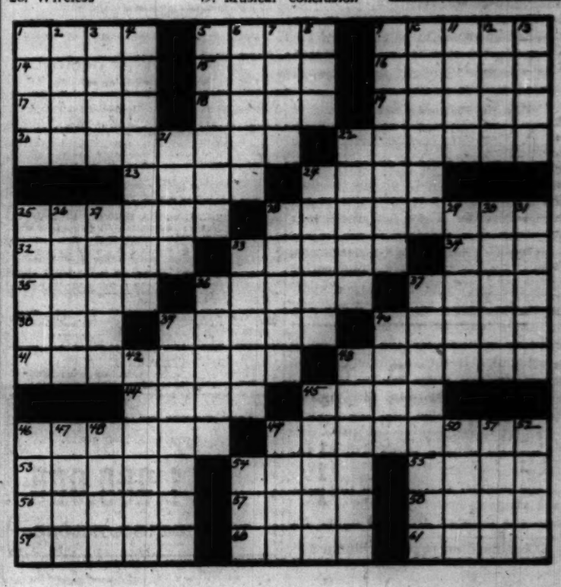
PUZZLE OF WEDNESDAY, JULY 3, SOLVED





RUMANIA TURNS CONVICTS LOOSE TO JOIN COLORS

Nazi Disclaimer of Aid Jolts King.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 3 (AP).—Rumania, almost despairing of the help she had expected from Germany, opened her prison doors tonight in a desperate search for every available man to meet threats from within and without her borders.

Dr. Vaida-Voevod [top] and Gen. Ion Antonescu.

It was announced that prisoners whose sentences would have been finished between now and Nov. 15 and those serving sentences of not more than six months for minor offenses would be turned loose.

On guard against violent anti-Jewish demonstrations, which already had weakened the country internally in her hour of grave outer peril, police in armored cars followed by truckloads of gendarmes paraded the main boulevards of Bucharest tonight.

[The British Broadcasting corporation in a French language announcement picked up in New York said the entire Rumanian radio network went off the air shortly before midnight last night. No explanation was given.]

The news from Berlin that Germany had backed away from the idea of giving formal assurances of help against any further attacks on Rumanian frontiers fell heavily upon officials who had hoped for a close tie-up with the reich after renunciation of Franco-British ties.

Carol Sees Pro-Germans.

It came just as King Carol was giving audience to three pro-German politicians who are Transylvanians—natives of the area which Hungary wants to regain from Rumania.

To Carol's palace went Gen. Ion Antonescu, former war minister in the Goga [pro-Nazi] cabinet; George Bratianu, a dissident liberal leader, and Dr. Alexander Vaida-Voevod, a former premier who in 1934 prophesied that the Nazi Iron Guard would some day lead Rumania.

Thus it appeared that the king, despite Berlin's disclaimer of assurances of aid for Rumania, still was seeking urgently to come to an agreement with Adolf Hitler and likewise was discussing with his advisers Hungary's demands for Transylvania.

Formal Day of Mourning.

The monarch was reported in close communication with Johann Fabricius, the German minister, and there were signs that the Berlin government was interesting itself in all the details of the Rumanian situation.

As matters stood, however, there was a vital question as to Rumania's future policy in the event of new attacks on its frontiers.

The country observed a formal day of mourning over the loss to Soviet Russia, under Moscow's ultimatum, of one-sixth of its territory—Bessarabia and northern Bukovina.

A general staff communique announced the new frontier with Russia as beginning at the mouth of the Danube at Vilkof, proceeding up river to Reni, and thence up the Prut river to a junction with the southern tip of Russian Poland.

Still Remove Equipment.

While noon today had been fixed as the deadline for the retirement from the ceded areas, the Rumanian command said that the removal of personal effects and military equipment still was going on, the movement having been "retarded by transport difficulties caused by bad weather."

Despite the official mourning, there was no slackening of defense preparations, in view of Hungary's insistence upon recovering Transylvania and Bulgaria's demands for southern Dobruja.

Posters called upon the public to report all foreign planes seen and to hold by force any parachutist who might land. New regulations require all citizens to deposit firearms with the police and forbids foreigners to travel from one community to another.

The king and his government were busy in an attempt to restore internal order and unity and to put down violent outbreaks of anti-Semitism attributed by some diplomats to the efforts of Iron Guardists to embarass the monarchy.

Demonstrations Continue.

Riots and anti-Jewish demonstrations were reported continuing tonight. Tomorrow, it was learned, the king will meet with Constantine Bratianu, a Liberal leader and uncle of George Bratianu; with Dr. Nicolai Lupo, former Peasant party leader, and with Juliu Maniu, a former premier and Peasant leader.

Some of these men have been completely outside of Carol's influence for years and are known for open attacks on the influence of Magda Lupescu, the king's feminine associate, upon him.

Hungary Moves More Troops.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 3 (AP).—A stream of Hungarian military reservists poured into concentration points along the Rumanian frontier today for the third successive day. In the cities and towns of this country, which is demanding the return of Transylvania from Rumania, air raid precautions went forward. Anti-aircraft guns were set up in the railway yards of Budapest, vital key to the country's communications.

The government controled news agency in dispatches from Transylvania contended, meanwhile, that the German minority in the province which Hungary claims is endangered by threatened disorder.

The agency, which previously had reported mistreatment of the Hungarian minority in Transylvania, said the commander of the national guard in the German areas had demanded reënforcements. The dispatch added that Saxon and Swabian residents were being kept under close watch.

Passenger traffic on the Danube in Hungary will be brought almost to a standstill tomorrow, it was announced. Cancellation of public events scheduled for July and August was ordered. The mobilization of thousands upon thousands of men—some 50 years old—jammed every highway and railway line in the eastern section of the country.

From Belgrade, Jugo-Slav economists reported that harvests in southeastern European states probably would be 25 to 30 per cent less than normal. In consequence, it was said, there would be 100,000 fewer railway cars of wheat for export to Germany. From Jugo-Slavia itself, it was added, there will be no export of wheat.

G-MEN RACE STEAMER; WIN AND NAB GERMAN DOCTOR AS NAZI AGENT

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York News.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, July 3.—Federal agents racing from Washington, D. C., by plane today had won a race with a Japanese steamer and arrested a German doctor believed connected with a youthful Nazi agent seized in Los Angeles five days ago. The prisoner, Dr. Emil Wolf, was held under $10,000 bond on a narcotics charge after federal men seized code books and documents found in his baggage and the United States attorney said it was of "considerable importance to the government that a substantial bail be fixed."

ASKS HUNGARIAN JEWS BE BARRED AS AUTO DRIVERS

Nazis Offer Drastic Bill in Parliament.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 3 (AP).—Segregation of Jews in special railway cars is one of the provisions of a new anti-Jewish bill introduced in parliament by the Hungarian Nazi party.

The bill is even more drastic than Germany's Nuremberg law. It forbids Jews to:

Become midwives.
Hoist the Hungarian flag.
Buy anything from a peasant.
Sign any legal document.

Restriction on Marriage.

In order to "restrict the propagation of Jews" in Hungary, the bill also provides that only the eldest sons and eldest daughters of Jewish families may marry.

The bill further provides that Gentile men who marry Jewish women will henceforth be classed as Jews.

Jews with "Hungarian family names" would be required to change them to "Hebrew" names.

Jews would be permitted to buy, sell, or read only books written in Hebrew or Yiddish.

Restriction on Visas.

No foreign Jews would be given visas to enter Hungary.

Jews would not be permitted to employ Gentile women under the age of 40.

All business establishments employing one or more Jews would be classed as Jewish enterprises.

NEW COMMISSAR OF RUSSIAN OIL INDUSTRY NAMED

MOSCOW, Russia, July 4, Thursday (AP).—The presidium of the supreme soviet has relieved Lazarus M. Kaganovich of his duties as commissar of the oil industry, replacing him with M. Sedin, Tass, official soviet news agency, announced today.

Kaganovich, former commissar of transportation, was named to the oil commissariat in October, 1939.

His brother, Mikhail M. Kaganovich, was relieved Jan. 10 of his duties as commissar of aviation in the defense industry commissariat. Tass later reported he had been transferred to another post.

He reported the loss of 13 quarts of whiskey, 3 wool blankets, a combination radio-phonograph, a barometer, and a clock. The loot was valued at $189.

BRITISH TO FIGHT NAZIS IN SPIRIT OF 'GAY ADVENTURE'

Attack, Not Defense, Is What Lords Want.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 3.—If the Germans manage to get a foothold on British soil, the British fighting forces will counterattack "in the spirit of a gay offensive and adventure." Brig. Gen. Sir Henry Page Croft, parliamentary undersecretary to the war office, used that phrase in discussing the possibilities of invasion in the house of lords tonight.

Lord Mottistone.

Lord Mottistone, in the subsequent discussion also said, "We should approach the problem of invasion not with the idea of hiding behind tank traps and barbed wire but in a spirit of gay fighting and adventure."

Lord Croft declared "the army is anxious to get at the enemy." This did not mean, he said, that the counterstroke would be haphazard. "While the offensive spirit naturally has inculcated all ranks because that is the tradition of the British fighting services, we intend to meet the attackers with the soundest principles of war," Lord Croft asserted.

Problems for Canadians.

Lord Mottistone suggested "giving the problem of engaging the enemy, wherever he lands, to a Canadian division to solve as best they can." He explained that "Canadian and other units from overseas and from the wider spaces have more novel conceptions of warfare."

"Give to an Australian the job of solving the problem of meeting landings from the air," Lord Mottistone urged. "You want leopards in leash to fly at them the instant they land."

"The enemy may attack not once but frequently, not at one but at many points," Lord Croft warned. "Our intention and hope is to defeat the invader at sea or even before he embarks. If not there, then in the process of landing."

He predicted that the enemy would utterly disregard its losses, but "should he succeed in gaining a foothold anywhere, we intend to strike him with the full weight of our forces," expressing in the same sentence, however, the hope that "the royal navy may intercept the invading armada, causing great destruction of ships and transports."

Duties of Air Force.

The air force also is expected to "engage the enemy long before he reaches our shores, bringing further great losses to the invader," Lord Croft said. The hope also was expressed that the government would get "early information of the enemy's intentions," but Lord Croft added: "In this uncertain world and under the cover of dark nights, sea mist, and fog we must be ready anywhere."

If the enemy did get a foothold he said he believed that "no German will pass any defense work or block except over the dead bodies of the garrison."

Lord Mottistone urged that in defending England the "principle must be aggressive instead of defensive." He disapproved of the order some weeks ago suggesting retirement "to a defensive line miles away from the coast," and said, "Our purpose must be to engage the enemy hand to hand. This has been a pointblank war. Pointblank shooting has been effective."

Gold Glitters

BRENDA FRAZIER.

New York, July 3 (AP).—Brenda Diana Duff Frazier's income last year was $135,300. She has a life income from trust funds having a present market value of $3,500,000. The income of the 1938 debutante glamor girl was disclosed today in Surrogate court when a $5,000 legal fee was approved for services in the administration of her estate.

URGES SHAKEUP IN NAVY OVER TORPEDO ERROR

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Representative Carl Hinshaw [R., Cal.] told the house today that a shakeup in the navy department was "desirable and necessary" as a result of construction of ships equipped with 18 inch torpedo tubes, which he said were obsolete.

"Congress," said Hinshaw, "should ask the secretary why ships were equipped with 18 inch torpedoes, which already were obsolete. Some one should have himself looked into—some one is incompetent."

Hinshaw made the statement in a speech on a "mosquito boat" fleet now under construction. These vessels recently were scheduled for sale to the British until President Roosevelt revoked as illegal an arrangement under which they would have been released by the navy to the manufacturer, who would have sold them.

At the time, it was brought out that the craft were equipped to fire 18 inch torpedoes.

Rifle 'Amazons' Organize for Defense of Britain

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—An "amazon defense corps" has been formed to teach English women how to use rifles. Mrs. Venetia Foster, wife of a British naval officer and a leader of the "amazons," said today she hoped to persuade the government to permit women to serve with the local defense volunteers as home guards.

BUSINESS CHIEFS ACT AS AGENTS IN PEACE MOVES

Swedes Try to Pacify London, Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 3.—Foreign diplomats in Berlin are working feverishly drafting reports for their governments on the terms of a possible forthcoming French-German peace and on the possibility of a peace compromise with England.

Authorized sources warned the foreign press to abstain from conjecture on the possible future national boundaries or peace terms of any kind. In view of the conflicting nature of reports, one might say there is a smoke screen of rumors in the German capital.

Americans Talk of Compromise.

One fact looming clearly is that prominent Swedish business men have been trying to establish contact between English business men and German circles. Prominent American business men also have been traveling extensively thru Europe, telling friends that a peace compromise between Germany and England is the only sensible solution.

In Germany their talk is ineffectual, since Germany's policy and action are dictated by Adolf Hitler personally. How far they were able to influence their English friends cannot be judged from here.

Germany is convinced of her strength, Nazis said, and is ready to use it unless she gets all the concessions she desires before the decisive offensive starts.

Sympathy for Hoare Displayed.

The Nazis, in discussing the leading statesmen of England, speak with a certain amount of sympathy for Sir Samuel Hoare as "a man of understanding." Hoare, now ambassador to Spain, formerly was lord privy seal.

[A suggestion was made in the house of lords on June 29 by Lord Strabolgi, labor leader, that Hoare should retire from public service along with Neville Chamberlain, cabinet member, as an aid "to the cause for which we are fighting." Hoare's past association with the "appeasement" group was recalled by Lord Strabolgi.]

German official circles stress that the statements issued in connection with the recent expulsion of the Swiss newspaperman, Dr. Reto Caratsch "must under no condition be interpreted as indicating that Germany intends to take any action against Switzerland."

"Germany is merely interested in stopping the activities of those whose reports may complicate the relations with foreign countries," these circles said.

GERMANS EXPOSE ALLIED 'PLOT' IN SEIZED PAPERS

BERLIN, July 3 (AP).—Documents purporting to show that the allies planned early this year to wear down Germany by cutting off or destroying her ore and oil sources in foreign countries and by entangling neutrals in the war were published here today.

Scandinavia, Rumania, Turkey, Greece, and Jugoslavia were named as objects of allied attention.

The German official news agency, DNB, said the documents were seized by German troops in the conquest of France.

One, purporting to have been signed by Gen. Maurice Gamelin as allied commander in chief, said, "Germany must be forced to come out of its present waiting position."

This was to be achieved, DNB quoted Gen. Gamelin as recommending, by bombing Russian oil fields, by seizing Norwegian harbors to cut the ore supply route from Sweden, and by entangling other countries in the war.

NORSE CHILDREN SLIP GOLD PAST GERMAN GUARDS

Baltimore, Md., July 3 (AP).—A story of how 9 million dollars in gold was slipped past Nazi sentries by Norwegian children who pulled it on sleds to a small freighter hidden in a secret fjord was told by the News-Post today. The gold shipment, the paper reported, arrived here Monday on the Norwegian ship Bomma for delivery to New York.

From a source whose identity was not revealed, the News-Post learned the gold was part of large amounts hidden in secret caches by the Norwegian government after the German invasion. When the German offensive on the western front broke, the paper's informant said, the small tramp steamer moved into the fjord, where it was quickly covered with tree branches to escape detection by German flyers.

For days afterward children pulling sleds—a common sight in Norway—trudged inconspicuously toward the vicinity. On each sled was a small box of gold, taken from a hiding place in the rugged countryside 35 miles from the fjord. Six weeks were required to transfer the gold to the ship. Then, on a moonless night, the freighter slipped out to sea.

Report Doris Duke Offers Aid to 500 BritishChildren

New York, July 3 [Special].—Mrs. James H. R. Cromwell, the former Doris Duke, has offered to take 500 English refugee children and to spend $250,000 a year for their support, the New York Post said today. The offer was made thru Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to England, the newspaper said. Whether the wealthy tobacco heiress, who expects the birth of her first child in August, plans to care for the refugees in one group or to place them in satisfactory homes could not be ascertained. The Cromwells now are in their half million dollar house in Honolulu.

LAKE GIVES UP BODY.

The body of an unidentified man about 45 years old was washed ashore yesterday at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. All marks of identification had been removed from the suit. The man weighed about 165 pounds, had brown hair and eyes, and was 5 feet 9 inches tall.

TRICKSTER POSED HIM BESIDE NAZIS' FLAG, SAYS KELLY

Mayor Explains Pictures of German Day Fete.

Mayor Kelly charged last night that when he talked last Sunday at the annual German day celebration in Riverview park he was tricked into appearing in front of a Nazi flag. His statement was made in reply to scores of letters of criticism which he received after newspaper pictures showed him standing on a platform flying the Nazi swastika.

"I am satisfied," Mayor Kelly said, "that the trickery was not engineered by those in charge of the German day celebration. It was evidently worked by some individual who would like to have a picture indicate that I favored or sympathized with Hitlerism. Nothing is further from the truth.

Told There'd Be No Nazi Flag.

"When I entered the park I informed the German day celebration committee that I would not appear on any platform where there were any foreign flags. I was told there would be none.

"After leaving the park I learned that while the German counsul was talking, before I arrived there, the Nazi flag was unfuried and that it was then rolled up again. I assume that this was done because of the German counsul's status as the official representative of the government in Germany."

"I never knew there was such a flag there at any time.

Suspects a Trick Picture.

"It is very likely that a small part of this flag was exposed for a short time to permit a picture to be taken and so manipulated that I could not see it while I was talking or afterward.

"I believe that no one in Chicago needs any explanation as to my sympathies regarding Americanism and democracy. I am and always have been against racial and religious persecution. I do not want any part of Hitlerism in America."

Mayor Kelly said he went to the meeting to talk to the Chicagoans gathered there about Americanism and democracy, and added: "I believe that if more people would talk to such groups in the way I did, and talk democracy and what America stands for, it would do much to destroy propaganda which is being used to try to mold the minds of people of German ancestry."

Nazi Consul Tells Stand.

Dr. E. L. Baer, German consul in Chicago, defended the unfurling of a swastika at the picnic.

"Whenever an official of a foreign nation appears at a function in his official capacity, it is customary that his nation's flag shall appear," he said. "That is in conformity with the rules of international courtesy. The flag of the host nation should, of course, have the position of honor—the right side. That was done Sunday. The American flag was on the right, the German on the left.

"I am frank to say that if they had not had the German flag, I probably would have refused to speak. I probably would have left. I would have considered it an insult, inasmuch as I was appearing in my official capacity."

Michael Belden, secretary of the German day association, said that only one swastika banner was shown at the picnic, and that solely out of respect to the German consul. American flags and red, white, and blue bunting were everywhere, he said, and 2,000 tiny American flags to be pinned on coat lapels were distributed free.

German General Who Got '18 Armistice Terms Dies

BERLIN, July 3 (AP).—Gen. Detlef von Winterfeldt, retired, who was a military representative of the German government at the first Compiegne forest armistice conference in 1918, died today after having lived to see the day of the second Compiegne forest armistice at which Germany wrote the terms. He was 73 years old.

Rush for Citizenship

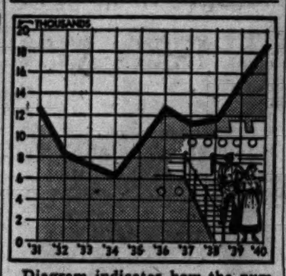

Diagram indicates how the number of aliens getting second papers of citizenship in this area has increased in recent years until it reached a new record in the fiscal year just ended.

18,633 CHICAGO ALIENS BECOME CITIZENS IN YEAR

First Papers Granted to 12,163.

The rush of Chicago aliens for citizenship papers in the last year set a 10 year record, Fred J. Schlotfeldt, director of immigration and naturalization in this area, reported yesterday. A total of 18,633 new citizens were naturalized in the fiscal year ending June 30, while first papers were granted to 12,163 more.

Following are the numbers of first and second citizenship papers granted in this area since 1931:

1932	3,881	8,963
1933	3,292	7,135
1934	3,135	6,168
1935	9,278	9,127
1936	13,473	12,553
1937	9,306	11,150
1938	9,637	11,406
1939	10,449	15,290
1940	12,163	18,633

Poland topped the list of more than 50 nations represented with 4,750 citizens naturalized. Germany was next with 4,000, followed by Italy, with 3,000; Great Britain, 2,800, and Russia, 1,500.

Offices Jammed Daily.

Increased naturalization is general thruout the country, it was said. The Chicago office is about eight months behind in its work. The present rush, which has kept the immigration bureau's offices in the new postoffice building jammed almost daily since the European war started, is expected to set an all time record in the coming year, Schlotfeldt said.

The naturalization bureau's staff has been increased to handle the extra load and arrangements have been made to hold naturalization hearings twice a week during the summer.

Aid From School Board.

The board of education has assigned Charles Raley of the adult education division to the bureau to aid aliens in arranging to satisfy educational requirements, Schlotfeldt said.

Whenever an applicant is turned down because he cannot read or write or answer the questions on American history, he is sent to Raley, who assigns him to an evening school class. It takes about three months of classroom work to prepare most aliens to take the examination.

PREDICTS HUNGER MAY PERIL NAZI VICTORY BY FALL

Economist Finds Supply of Food Shrinking.

By September, if England holds off the anticipated Nazi invasion, the disastrous pinch of lessening food supplies may be felt in Germany, Italy and the countries they dominate, in the opinion of Col. Edward N. Wentworth, noted food economist.

Col. Wentworth, director of the live stock bureau of Armour & Co., surveyed the world food situation in a talk yesterday at the Army and Navy club, 600 South Michigan avenue.

Despite her conquest Germany has not gained sufficient food insurance for a long war, Col. Wentworth said.

Drouth Reduces Harvest.

"For example," he said, "there has been a drouth in Europe. It has helped the success of the blitzkrieg. But the drouth is likely to hurt Germany. Europe's wheat crop will be 150 million to 500 million bushels under last year's crop."

In spite of restrictions and deprivations, neither Germany nor Italy is self sufficient to feed itself, he said.

"Czecho-Slovakia is rich but is essentially industrial, and cannot feed Germany," Col. Wentworth said. "Poland will be of little help.

The Situation Elsewhere.

"Denmark's millions of hogs and red cattle have been slaughtered or are being slaughtered by the Germans. Little breeding stock is left, and thus Denmark cannot be deemed a long period market. Norway's food situation is on balance; there is no food surplus there.

"Holland and Belgium are among the largest food importing countries, and from the standpoint of food represent a potential menace to German chances of success.

"France, being balanced agriculturally and industrially, has no food surplus. Spain is a food importer, and has no excess food.

"Russia, of course, is a question mark. Nobody knows what Russia can do, but it never has been able to produce surpluses for export."

So far as Great Britain is concerned, he said, she has been able thus far to keep sea lanes open for her own needs.

ILL, ARGENTINA'S PRESIDENT QUITS JOB TEMPORARILY

BUENOS AIRES, July 3 (AP).—President Roberto M. Ortiz of Argentina tonight temporarily relinquished the duties of his office because of ill health. Ortiz assumed office Feb. 20, 1938. He long has been a sufferer of diabetes. He announced he is leaving office for an indefinite period on the advice of three physicians.

The Argentine constitution provides that during absence of the chief executive the work of the presidency shall fall upon the vice president. The transfer of presidential power to Vice President Ramon S. Castillo may be significant because Castillo and Ortiz differ widely in their concept of the powers of the state and those of the provinces.

Ortiz and Castillo were elected in 1938 for six years terms. The decree, signed by Ortiz himself as required by the constitution, came unexpectedly for Argentina. It had not been known widely that the chief executive's condition had become more serious.

FALL OF FRANCE SHAKES CHILE'S POPULAR FRONT

Reds Serving Aguirre Are Criticized.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 3.—The collapse of France made a greater impression on Chile than on any other South American country. The reason is not far to seek. Chile has the only remaining popular front government in the world.

In a speech at Talca, President Pedro Aguirre demanded industrial peace and increased production. He gave a clear indication to the workers who elected him under the frontist banner that they would be called upon to work longer hours.

Critics of the administration claimed that this speech supplied evidence that Chile was suffering from under production like that which existed in France under a similar leftist governing combination.

The official daily La Nacion admitted editorially that "the present universal mourning for freedom and democracy" is because "France reduced working hours, discussed arms and declared strikes" while neighbors "reduced rations and increased working hours."

Appeal for Single Command.

Another official organ, La Hora, referred deprecatingly to "the assemblies, sections, groups, and party organizations" which hamper the "higher direction of national interests," as in France, and appealed for a "single command" by the president to insure Chilean salvation.

The communists, too, have become exposed to criticism for the first time. The Reds are linked with the radicals and Socialists in the popular front. At their own request they are not represented in the cabinet, but they have obtained many key jobs in central and provincial administration.

Demands for the elimination of the communists have grown since the French lesson was emphasized to Chileans. President Aguirre has not revealed whether he has changed his attitude of loyalty to all popular front elements, but some members of his own party, the radicals, are active in a move to outlaw communism. The Santiago branch of the party asked the Reds to define their international position.

Call for Labor Peace.

The Chilean popular front was formed two years ago, modeled on Spanish and French designs to secure electoral victory. Since it assumed power there have been strikes in all lines of production for higher wages and more social protection laws.

Altho Chileans still have a long way to go to catch up to American or European living standards, Aguirre has told them the "hour of sacrifice" has arrived. It would be necessary, he declared, to "work with maximum intensity in factories and mines and on the farms, and employers and employés must settle their differences without dismissals and without strikes."

BRITAIN REFUSES TO STOP ARMS ON MANDALAY ROAD

Defies Jap Demands to Cut China's Supplies.

TOKIO, July 3 (AP).—Britain was reported authoritatively tonight to be standing firm against Japanese demands for closing of the motor road from Rangoon, British Burma, to Chungking, China—"the road to Mandalay"—over which military supplies have been passing to the Chinese armies of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Defeated France already has bowed to similar Japanese demands relating to French Indo-China.

An informed source said a note refusing to close the Burma road had been received from London by the British embassy. Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie was said to be asking his government for final instructions before its delivery to the Japanese government.

New Crisis Threatened.

It was believed a British refusal would bring a new crisis in relations of the two powers, recently improved by an agreement over Tientsin. Current moves of Japanese troops near the British colony of Hongkong have been interpreted in some quarters as pressure to induce closing of the Burma road.

Some two weeks ago France agreed unconditionally to permit Japanese inspectors to enter French Indo-China to make certain that munitions traffic to China was stopped.

[A government spokesman told the house of commons in London that Britain was considering "questions that would arise with the United States" if she yielded to Japan on this issue.]

Britain's decision was being made against the background of disclosures that Japan's dominant army leaders were complaining of the government's new "Asiatic sphere" policy.

In Hongkong today the Japanese consul-general disclaimed any Japanese intention to blockade that British crown colony.

Move Perils U. S. Shipments.

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—China's ability to obtain vital war supplies from the United States would be jeopardized if Japan succeeded in having the Burma road closed.

American supplies have been reaching China mainly over two routes—thru French Indo-China and Burma. Effective moves have been taken to close the door between Indo-China and China. Barring of the Burma routes would be make it difficult for American supplies to reach the Chinese government. The third chief route is from soviet Russia.

Exports of arms and munitions from the United States to China amounted to $1,276,762 during the first four months of this year.

Keep Lifeline Open

CLIPPER BRINGS REFUGEES FROM PORT OF LISBON

New York, July 3 (AP).—The Atlantic Clipper of Pan American Airways, with 23 passengers from Lisbon, arrived today.

Among the arrivals were Sir Charles and Lady Mendl, and their adopted son, John McMullin. The Mendls who fled from Piarritz June 20 carried their scanty possessions in canvas beach bags. Sir Charles retired on May 1 as special counselor at the British embassy in Paris.

Also aboard were a group of aviation company and General Motors corporation officials.

Gustaf Miesegaes of the Netherlands East Indies declined to discuss the half million dollars worth of cash and securities which he carried.

NEW ARMS BILL HITS 5 BILLION; BILLION TO NAVY

Roosevelt, Aids Revamp Defense Plans.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—President Roosevelt this afternoon whipped into shape a 5 billion dollar supplemental defense program with members of the defense advisory commission.

Mr. Roosevelt reworked the program which was to have provided 4 billion dollars in appropriations and authorizations for the army to include 1 billion dollars for the navy. The program will be presented to congress in a special message, probably on Monday.

This five billions is in addition to a total of $5,082,210,080 that has been provided for defense by this session of congress. The arms expenditure for the fiscal year that has just started would rival the all-time record for arms outlay of $11,011,387,000 for the 12 months that started July 1, 1918.

Half to Be Appropriated.

Until Mr. Roosevelt broadened the program to include the navy, it had been expected that the plan would be presented to congress today as he prepared to leave for Hyde Park, N. Y., his boyhood home, to spend the holiday week-end.

It is expected that as much as half the 5 billion dollars will be asked in appropriations and the remainder in authorizations. One of the primary objectives under the fund will be to move the air force toward the goal of 50,000 planes set by the President.

The army phase of the program also will call for mechanization. Provision is to be made for purchases of tanks, combat cars, trucks, and other heavy material, as well as guns and ammunition.

Two Ocean Navy Bill O. K.'d.

The navy's share of the fund will go to pressing forward with the naval construction program. The navy now has 138 vessels building or on contract, and is seeking to have the construction of another 200 fighting craft authorized.

The senate naval affairs committee today unanimously reported the two ocean navy bill which calls for a 70 per cent increase in naval strength. The bill, which already has been approved by the house, will be passed by the senate probably next week.

In announcing his intention last week to call on congress for more money for national defense, Mr. Roosevelt said he was being influenced to take such action because he considered it a wise move to make long term commitments to manufacturers which would enable them to keep their plants running for some time after present orders are filled.

Pershing Letter Is Read.

Meanwhile, Gen. John J. Pershing, chief of the American expeditionary force in the world war, led military men in urging enactment of compulsory military training. In a letter read to the senate military affairs committee Pershing said such training would work to keep America out of war.

"First of all let me say that if we had adopted compulsory military training in 1914, it would not have been necessary for us to send partially trained boys into battle against the veteran troops of our adversary, and certainly we could have ended the conflict much sooner, with the saving of many thousands of lives and billions of treasure," wrote the general of the armies, now 79 years old.

"Such a measure, in my opinion, would promote democracy by bringing into intimate contact and on an equal footing young men in all walks of life. Moreover, it might well be the determining factor in keeping us out of war."

Pershing Cites Advantages.

Pershing also cautioned the members of the committee to remember that in modern war "the advantage is decidedly on the side that is ready."

Other military men, who called for support of the Burke-Wadsworth bill, which would require registration of all men between 18 and 65 years old, and training of men between 21 and 45 for the armed services, included Col. William J. [Wild Bill] Donovan, commander of New York's "Fighting 69th" in the world war.

TROOPS DEMAND LITHUANIA JOIN RUSSIA IN UNION

10,000 Marchers Cheer Red Speakers.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 3 (AP).—Nearly 10,000 Lithuanian soldiers were reported tonight to have marched from the Kaunas garrison and demanded formal union of their country with soviet Russia.

The correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen reported from Kaunas that the soldiers congregated in Kaunas' sports palace and cheered Russian military speakers. The men were said to have carried huge portraits of Lenin and Stalin, Premier Foreign Commissar Vacheslaff Molotoff and Klementi E. Voroshiloff, chairman of a Russian committee of defense and former war commissar.

Officers attempted briefly to interfere with the demonstration, but it was carried out without untoward incident. The soldiers demanded the removal of reactionaries in the army and it was reported that eight high officers had been discharged.

OUST FARM CHIEF

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, July 3.—The Lithuanian ministry of agriculture today announced that it had discharged its director, Stashis Elsberg, following his announcement of land "reforms."

Elsberg's statement, which was published yesterday in the government newspaper, Lietuvos Aidas, and the communist newspaper, Tiesa, was branded as fanciful and incorrect. The department of agriculture reports that it is continuing to work on the draft of the land reform law, but that until it is completed all explanation must be regarded as unfounded.

The Elsberg program provided for the reallocation of all agricultural lands, limiting the holding of any individual to 110 acres and collectivizing other properties. It also proposed the seizure of church lands. Demand was made for immediate doubling of farm production.

Alarm Over Changes.

Elsberg's statement caused much alarm thruout Lithuania. The government professed anxiety not to demoralize the farmers in midsummer when so much important work must be accomplished to insure a good harvest. Thus far conditions have been unfavorable to the crops.

The communist parties in the Baltic states and the new government of Lithuania have reiterated that no attempt will be made to collectivize the land or to liquidate individual holdings. However, it is planned to absorb tenant farmers. The confiscation of large estates whose owners live in the cities also is being discussed.

Army Chaplains Dismissed.

Yesterday all chaplains were dismissed from the army. Their place in army life will be taken by political instructors. This followed by a few hours the reorganization of the "people's army."

The newspaper Lietuvos Aidas announced that the government will give no privileges to the church.

In Latvia and Estonia it is proposed to discontinue religious instruction in the schools. Parents will be permitted to employ private religious teachers.

Disband Crowds at Statue.

The new Riga chief of police yesterday ordered the public to cease congregating to admire Latvia's imposing and beautiful Statue of Liberty, located in the center of Riga. The local communist newspaper, Cina, attacked this spontaneous manifestation as discourteous to Latvia's new protector, the soviet government. The police then forbade crowds to gather or place flowers there.

In Tallinn, Estonia, it was announced today that the government intends to liquidate the Salvation Army and the Y. M. C. A. The Salvation Army was organized by missionaries from England and the Y. M. C. A. movement by the parent organization in the United States. The Y. M. C. A. was the first to introduce soccer, football, basketball, and volleyball in the Baltic states.

BOMBAY PROHIBITION ORDINANCE ILLEGAL, HIGH COURT DECIDES

BOMBAY, India, July 3.—After 11 months of legal turmoil prohibition in Bombay and its city suburbs virtually ended today with the decision of the high court that the provincial legislature had no power to prohibit the possession of liquor. Since the revenue from liquor comes under the jurisdiction of the central government, the court also ruled the provinces cannot prohibit its import.

It is understood the Bombay government will accept the court's decision and the city will go wet again. Generally the prohibition law has been only partly enforced because Europeans and others not domiciled in India or who did not consider India their permanent home were able to obtain a monthly ration on permits.

EUROPE'S LOSS OF REFUGEES IS CALLED OUR GAIN

Shailer Mathews Terms Them New Pioneers.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Europe's ill wind is not wholly bad for America, in the view of Dr. Shailer Mathews, dean emeritus of the divinity school of the University of Chicago. Yesterday the Midway scholar pointed to refugees as proof that this country will be enriched in the future, just as it has been in the past, by those who flee Europe's persecutions.

While praising Jewish refugee organizations for the aid of expatriates of that faith, Dean Mathews stressed needed aid for Christian refugees whose plight, tho not regarded as dramatic as that of the Jews, is no less serious. Dean Mathews is chairman of the Kenwood-Hyde Park-Woodlawn group of the American Committee for Christian Refugees. The American committee has its central west headquarters at 77 West Washington street.

Researchers Among Them.

"I think most people imagine refugees only as poor additions to our American life, but I have met a number whom I had already known as international authorities in their fields of research," Dean Mathews said. "We have a man from Vienna here who is a world authority in comparative religion. He had to quit—he was neither a Jew nor a Nazi—because his estate was seized and he was driven out. There are about 10 refugees on our campus and hundreds thruout the country who are more than likely to be significant in the economic and scientific life of America.

Dean Mathews said present refugees are among the highest class immigrants ever to reach American shores. They represent the leading business and professional men of European countries, who are capable of creating entirely new employment areas without displacing administrators or employés of any going concern, he said. Dictators, said Dean Mathews, are not liquidating or exiling the docile peasant groups who fight their wars and do their menial work, but the men and women of idealism and business and educational leadership.

Cites Sikorsky and Seversky.

Answering the complaint that refugees will take jobs away from American labor, Dean Mathews cited Igor I. Sikorsky and Alexander de Seversky, Russian refugees who have created hundreds of jobs for American technicians and workers in the aviation field, to say nothing of their part in giving leadership to the United States in the air. More than 200 non-competitive new businesses have been established by refugees, he said.

"And Einstein did not take an American's job," said the dean. "These refugees make their own way while making jobs for others. They are our new pioneers. We've got to get ready to let these men operate. They can contribute an appreciation of our American institutions by virtue of the contrast they have experienced with institutions of European countries."

IRISH HANG SON OF FORMER CORK MAYOR AS KILLER

Executed I. R. A. Chief Slew Detective.

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 3 (AP).—Tomas MacCurtain, 22 years old, son of the former lord mayor of Cork, was hanged today in Mountjoy prison for the fatal shooting of Detective John Roche on Jan. 4.

The elder MacCurtain, commandant of the outlawed Irish Republican army, was dragged from his bed and shot in a Sinn Fein disorder of 1920.

At the inquest into the father's death, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of "wilful murder" against David Lloyd George, then prime minister, and other British officials.

Son Takes I. R. A. Helm.

Young MacCurtain eventually replaced his father as I. R. A. commandant in Cork and frequently was arrested by Roche. He shot Roche when the detective sought to question him on a downtown street.

Young MacCurtain went on a 55 day hunger strike during imprisonment and his trial was postponed several times on account of his physical condition.

He pleaded he had frequently been beaten by unknown assailants, carried a pistol in self-defense, and did not recognize the officer.

Arsenal Raider Sentenced.

Thomas Grogan, an I. R. A. leader, was sentenced by a military court today to 12 years' imprisonment for participating in an ammunition raid on the Phoenix park arsenal last December.

A band overpowered the arsenal guards and seized 22 tons of machine gun and rifle cartridges. Most of the ammunition was recovered. Grogan, arrested with several others, went on a 55 day hunger strike while awaiting trial.

Sentenced Over Nazi Radio.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—William Saxon-Steer, a 42 year old violinist, today was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for pasting in a telephone booth a label giving the wavelength of a German broadcasting station masquerading as British.

Three Harbors of Ireland Put Under Military Rule

DUBLIN, Ireland, July 3 (AP).—The harbors of Dublin, Cork, and Dumaoghaire were placed under military control today. Port officials will act under orders from military authorities.

Firemen Injured

New York, July 3 (AP).—Two dozen firemen were overcome today in a six hour fight to quell a fire that severely damaged the afterholds of the Algonquin, a 5,945 ton Clyde-Mallory liner. The vessel dipped sternward at its Hudson pier as masked firemen poured thousands of gallons of water into the smoking mixed cargo. When the fire was discovered approximately 160 passengers were waiting to board the vessel, scheduled to sail for Miami and Houston. Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy said he thought the blaze resulted from "spontaneous ignition," but withheld an official statement pending investigation.

ULSTER CALLS OUT VOLUNTEERS FOR 2 A. M. DUTY

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 3 (AP).—An emergency mobilization of Northern Ireland's [Ulster's] defense volunteers was carried out today. Every volunteer in the counties of Antrim and Down on the east coast was called out at 2 a. m. They remained on duty until daybreak. There was no immediate official explanation.

The North Ireland cabinet decided today that a precautionary scheme of voluntary evacuation of school children from densely populated Belfast should be put into effect "at an early date and at short notice."

Beaverbrook Urges Unity.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard declared today that "Ireland is in peril and her peril is ours."

The newspaper, urging unity of Northern Ireland and Ireland for defense purposes, said that added military preparedness in the island "is more than halved by political differences."

"The people of England implore the people of Ireland that they should search for compromise," the Standard said.

Report Premier Hepburn of Ontario Is Gaining

Battle Creek, Mich., July 3 (AP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, a patient in a sanitarium here, was reported by his physician today to be gaining in strength. Dr. M. A. Mortensen, attending "the premier, said: "He is up and about a part of each day. The condition which had affected his kidneys seems to be clearing up satisfactorily. His wife and children are with him here, and he goes riding for a few minutes each day with them."

FIREMEN TO JUMP FROM THEIR BEDS AT THRILL SHOW

Demonstration of Speed Rehearsed for Event.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

Firemen can wake up and get out of bed before you can say "Jack Robinson. If you drawl it, they can be sliding down the brass pole—dressed.

But you needn't take their word for it. They'll demonstrate at the third annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field on Sunday afternoon, July 14.

There aren't any brass poles in Soldiers' field? Well, there will be. With the same precision and speed with which they go to fires, Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan's smoke eaters will produce a complete portable fire station before your eyes, complete, that is, except for the walls. They'll leave the walls off so you can see their bunking exhibition: Getting out of their bunks, into their bunkers, down the pole, upon the truck, and on their way.

Engine Company Rehearses.

Engine company 5 rehearsed its bunking yesterday in its headquarters at 324 South Des Plaines street. A skeptic, fully dressed and on his feet, started when the alarm was sounded to show that he could run down the stairs and catch the truck before it left the station. He missed.

Bed to Street—10 Seconds.

The firemen roll out of bed in one motion that puts them inside their bunkers, which are their rubber pants and boots. Terribly sleepy firemen take nearly 5 seconds to reach the nearest brass pole. Since they sleep in shirt, all they have to do is snap their pants at the waist and they're practically dressed.

They don hats and coats as the truck rolls out the front door. That will be 10 seconds from the time they got the alarm—2 seconds longer than when they're up and around.

The bunking exhibition will be one of the features of the Thrill show, which is sponsored by the Chicago police and fire departments and the Chicago Park district, in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

PROFESSOR SAYS U. S. MUST LEAD AMERICAS IF HITLER IS WINNER

Prof. W. H. C. Laves.

If Hitler is victorious in the European war, the Americas, including Canada, Central and South America, will have to organize under United States leadership, Prof. Walter H. C. Laves of the University of Chicago predicted yesterday.

"Canada no doubt will want to come into this system and in any case will be encouraged or compelled to come in," Prof. Laves told the Norman Walt Harris Foundation institute at the university.

"Hemisphere unity will be encouraged by all means of democratic coöperative devices, but if this proves too slow, whatever other methods are necessary will be employed in defense against a highly organized, skilfully directed, and increasingly successful Fascist method of expansion."

100 VOLUNTEERS RETURN IN ANGER FROM FINLAND

New York, July 3 [Special].—One hundred young men who left their homes in America and Canada to fight for Finland and Norway returned today aboard the 3,641 ton Mathilda Thorden, first Finnish ship to reach New York since the Russian invasion. Also aboard was Col. Hubert Fauntleroy Julian, known as the Black Eagle of Harlem.

The returning volunteers were an embittered, disillusioned band. Their rendezvous with war left them physically exhausted and in many cases spiteful toward the very people they went to save. They complained they were sent home in the cramped hold of the ship while cabin space was saved for paying refugees from central Europe. They had to cook their food on a field kitchen lashed to the deck.

Julian, who previously had flown for Ethiopia, came home as a captain in the Finnish air force, having offered himself to that beleagured nation 13 days after the armistice.

Churchill Asks Parliament for 'Time Out' in Air Raids

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill proposed today that parliament adopt special rules permitting it to take "time out" in event of air raid alarms while it is sitting.

WOMAN ACCUSES ROBBER-COP AT JURY FIX TRIAL

Tells Promise to Make It 'Worth While.'

John Howe, former state highway policeman who is under sentence of one year to life for armed robbery, was described as a jury fixer yesterday by a witness in Criminal court. The testimony was given by a woman member of the jury allegedly bribed to free two Democratic politicians from election fraud charges last December.

Mrs. Helen Verheecke.

Howe and three co-defendants are on trial before a jury in Judge James Fardy's court on charges of bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the acquittal of Sam Orlando, 11th ward precinct captain, and Joseph Vinci, his aid. The other defendants are Attorney George M. Crane; James Creed, former court bailiff and now superintendent of city dumps, and Orlando.

Tells of Fixing Deal.

Howe's accuser was Mrs. Helen Verheecke, a bride of three weeks, who lives at 1447 West 79th street. Mrs. Verheecke's last name was Kenneally when she served on the fixed jury.

"The day I was selected for the Orlando-Vinci case Howe came to my home and asked me if I'd go along with the defense," she testified. "He said it would be well worth my while.

"I told him I would, and when the time came I voted not guilty in the case."

Judge Joseph A. Graber, before whom Orlando and Vinci were tried last December, took the stand in an effort to discredit testimony of Marvin Olson, a three time convict, who said he acted as a go-between in the alleged jury fix.

Judge at Two Parties.

Olson testified that Creed, Judge Graber's bailiff at the time of the trial, conferred with him [Olson] on two dates, Dec. 8 and Dec. 12, in the 18th ward Democratic headquarters about bribing jurors. Judge Graber testified that on the date of the first meeting Creed and he were attending a party in the chambers of Judge William J. Lindsay, and on the date of the second meeting he was with Creed at a party in the Morrison hotel.

Accounts of alleged attempts to bribe other jurors were given in court yesterday. Mrs. Kathryn Sheridan, 111 North Lamon avenue, a court reporter, testified that Attorney Crane told her to ask her sister's fiance, Mathias Schumacher, a member of the fix jury, to "go along." She said Crane had promised that there would be a suit of clothes in it for Schumacher.

Another Juror Balks.

Testimony that Orlando tried unsuccessfully to bribe another member of the jury was given by Joseph Spizzirri, 3233 South Union avenue, a postoffice guard. Spizzirri admitted that he acted as a go-between for Orlando in contacting Clarence Coleman, the juror.

"I went to see Coleman, but he wouldn't consider the offer. So I told him to forget it," Spizzirri said.

FIREMEN OPEN CARNIVAL TO PAY FOR EQUIPMENT

Winfield Seeks a New Pumper Truck.

Volunteer firemen of the village of Winfield turned showmen yesterday to raise funds for new fire fighting equipment. Assisted by residents of the community, they opened a carnival complete with high rides, side shows, refreshment stands, and a dance pavilion in the grove at the junction of route 59 and Old Roosevelt [Batavia] road, two miles west of the village.

The carnival will continue thru Sunday. At a July 4 celebration tonight at 6 o'clock Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak.

Seek New Fire Truck.

Residents of the village, proud of the volunteer fire organization, decided to modernize the equipment by adding a second truck with booster pump and 300 gallon supply tank.

The Winfield department, organized 11 years ago, serves 550 persons in the village and surrounding rural territory within a radius of a mile. The department numbers 15 residents of the community.

Volunteers Man Apparatus.

Chief John Karkowski and his sons, Chester and Marion, man the truck in case of an alarm. The chief sounds a siren to summon the members of his department. The members telephone the Winfield operator, learn the location of the blaze, and join the chief at the fire.

A parade from the Winfield Fire house to the grove marked the carnival last night. The West Chicago and Bartlett fire departments, deputy sheriffs, and the Buckaroo Motorcycle club of Wheaton joined in the march.

A fireworks display will be held in the grove tonight.

Stratoclippers Will Begin Latin AmericanHopsToday

Miami, Fla., July 3 (AP).—The nation's first fleet of Stratoclippers will go into service tomorrow between Miami and Latin America, providing faster passenger service and bringing six day a week mail service to every capital in South America. Three 20 ton, four engined land planes will provide the key to Pan-American Airways' new service by cutting traveling time between Miami and Baranquilla, Colombia, from two days to about six hours. These planes will maintain fast schedules by flying high above bad weather, at about four miles altitude. They have air conditioned cabins.

POLICE OFFICIALS TO SEE W-G-N'S NEW SPY DRAMA

'Wings for America' Will Have Gala Premiere.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Leaders of Chicago's police department will be special guests at the première tomorrow evening of "Wings for America," W-G-N's new dramatic series exposing fifth column activities in America. Elissa Landi, stage and screen star, and Phillips Holmes, young American actor, will play the leading rôles in this series to be aired over W-G-N and the Mutual network thruout the summer.

"Wings for America" reveals possible activities of subversive elements against America's defenses. It will provide behind the scene glimpses of a great radio station and newspaper. Miss Landi, as Lorna Carroll, a Chicago Tribune reporter, and Holmes, as a W-G-N newscaster, compete for scoops in reporting the activities of foreign agents.

Get Aid of Spy Experts.

Blair Walliser, author and producer of the show, said the scripts are being prepared with the coöperation of law enforcement agencies and experts on spy operations. Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, former assistant chief of the American Expeditionary force, 1st division intelligence staff, is giving W-G-N the benefit of his long experience in spy work in the preparation of this series.

Among the police officials expected to attend the broadcast tomorrow, starting at 7 o'clock, are Capt. John C. Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police; Chief of Detectives John Sullivan, and Capt. David Flynn, chief of the traffic division.

Supervising captains who are to attend include: Richard Gill of the 1st division; John Ryan, 2d and 3d; John Stege, 4th; Joseph Goldberg, 5th, and Andrew Barry, 6th. Many other captains and lieutenants will be in the studio audience.

Title Symbolic of Action.

The title "Wings for America" is symbolic of the action of the drama which takes place on the air and in the air. Radio communications and aircraft construction are portrayed as keystones of defense. In the first episode Miss Landi as Lorna unearths activities of the Advance Front, fifth column terrorists.

Supporting players include William Green as Commissioner-Major Voight, Verne Smith as Lieut. Mullaney, Lewis Krugman as a spy, Dewitt McBride as Sergt. Grady. Special musical effects will be provided by the W-G-N orchestra, directed by Harold Stokes.

The broadcasts will be supplemented each week with a pictorial version of Friday's episode in the Graphic section of the following Sunday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Much of the radio action takes place in the W-G-N studio building. Some of the scenes are set in the Tribune pressrooms; the Tribune's fleet of boats for carrying newsprint; the Chicago subway excavations and the freight tunnel.

FOURTH OF JULY CROWDS POUR IN AND OUT OF CITY

Merrymakers Are Urged to Keep Holiday Safe.

The annual Fourth of July holiday exodus of Chicagoans to points in every direction and by every manner of transportation began yesterday. An estimated 1,500,000 persons are expected to be trekking out of or streaming into the city during the holiday period, traffic officials estimated.

A fair and pleasantly cool Fourth was predicted by Forecaster Gordon E. Dunn. The temperatures today were expected to be in the lower '70s.

Safety Appeals Issued.

Civic and private groups and individuals joined in pleas for the exercise of safety precautions over the holiday, especially in the matters of dangerous fireworks, swimming, sun bathing, over eating, and motoring.

For motorists, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, issued four "Don'ts" which, he said, will help to prevent accidents:

DON'T overdo it—speed, distance, or too many people in a car.

DON'T pass other motorists on hills, curves.

DON'T expect only the other driver to follow this advice.

The preholiday toll from fireworks in Chicago rose to 34 yesterday as 17 more injuries were reported.

Fireworks Toll Estimated.

It is estimated that 200 or more persons will be injured in Chicago by fireworks this year if the toll approximates that of 1939, when 226 were hurt. In the whole state last year 458 were injured and one was killed.

Chicago's injury rate has been below those of New York City, Los Angeles, Cal., and Philadelphia, Pa., each of the last two years, except for Philadelphia's 1939 mark. Pennsylvania, where an antifireworks law went into effect last year, is a striking example of how such legislation cuts injuries and deaths. Six died and 1,702 were hurt by fireworks there in 1938, while last year there were no deaths and injuries dropped to 85.

A warning against using fireworks was issued by Col. John Stilwell, president of the National Safety council. He said "there is only one kind of safe fireworks—the kind you stay away from."

Holiday travel this year is expected to show a 25 per cent increase over that of last year. Plane, bus, and railroad reservations indicated that most of those lucky persons whose vacations will extend thru the rest of the week are making holiday trips out of town.

Extra Planes Scheduled.

American Airlines, United Airlines, TWA, and other air transport companies scheduled extra planes for holiday travelers. Heaviest demands, officials reported, were for reservations on sleeper planes bound for either California or New York.

All railroads and bus lines—especially those with trips to resorts and picturesque spots in Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, and Minnesota—added extra cars and sections.

The Cook county council of the American Legion will present a holiday show in Soldiers' field tonight which is expected to be witnessed by 60,000 persons. A parade, circus acts, a military demonstration, and a fireworks display will be featured. The Chicago Opera company chorus, led by Kurt Herbert Adler, will make its second public appearance, singing "God Bless America."

More than 75,000 persons are expected to attend hundreds of picnics in the forest preserves. The Chicago Park district is sponsoring holiday programs in neighborhood parks. At the band platform at Navy pier a 35 piece band led by Jack Bramhall, veteran bandmaster, will play a special holiday concert this evening.

MRS. LOUISE HYLER DIES.

Savanna, Ill., July 3 [Special].—Mrs. Louise Hyler, prominent Savanna resident and a descendant of the Pierces, first white family to settle here, died yesterday. She lived all her life in the same block on Third street. She was a graduate of the Chicago College of Music.

Fireworks Injuries

Heights of the firecrackers compare injuries in the last three years from fireworks in Chicago with those in several other large cities.

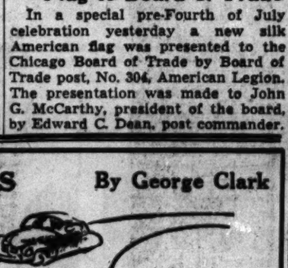

Diagram indicates how the Pennsylvania antifireworks law, which went into effect in 1939, has reduced injuries from that cause.

SEAPLANE DOCKS THRUOUT STATE PROPOSED BY NYA

Tentative plans for construction of 28 seaplane landing docks in Chicago and Illinois were announced yesterday by Mary Stuart Anderson, state administrator of the National Youth administration. The Illinois project is part of a national plan under which the NYA, coöperating with aviation organizations, proposes to establish a chain of seaplane docks thruout the country.

The purpose of the project, Miss Anderson said, is to furnish an added stimulus for aviation and provide a work experience outlet for the NYA. In Chicago the plan has been submitted to Mayor Kelly.

Cost of raw materials for a dock, estimated at $200, must be paid by the community in which the plane base is established. Construction work will be done by NYA crews.

Civil Aeronautics authority officials and the Illinois Aeronautics commission are coöperating with NYA officials in surveying possible dock locations. To obtain a dock, a community must have a body of water half a mile long, 200 feet wide and two feet deep.

Legionnaires Present New Flag to Board of Trade

In a special pre-Fourth of July celebration yesterday a new silk American flag was presented to the Chicago Board of Trade by Board of Trade post, No. 304, American Legion. The presentation was made to John G. McCarthy, president of the board, by Edward C. Dean, post commander.

INDIANA U. BEARS WILLKIE IMPRINT OF 30 YEARS AGO

Recalls Gangling Country Boy Who Won His Way.

BY MARCIA WINN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., July 3.—Indiana university has changed greatly since Wendell Willkie, now the Republican nominee for president, came to it in January, 1910. But not enough to remove the mark made on it by that violent, articulate young man.

It had 7,999 students last year, as against 2,350 when Willkie was graduated in 1913. Its rolling compus is studded with monumental palaces of Indiana limestone, which tower over the little Grecian well house, the angular clock tower, and the pudgy law library, which were its chief pride then.

Its faculty is heavy with men of learning, its libraries fat with books, but none are so august as to dissipate campus memories of a gangling country boy from Elwood, who 30 years ago first became an unpredictable political tornado—on a campus where politics was traditional.

McNutt and Minton, Too.

Few here now who were here then have forgotten Willkie, champion of the underdog, spearhead of the ignored, lusty antagonist of such delicately nurtured young scions as Paul V. McNutt, president of Strut and Fret—the "produce the best for Indiana" club—and his henchman, Sherman Minton, now United States senator from Indiana.

Willkie dubbed the pair "pompadoured plutocrats" and for three years led a lusty attack against them which prompted McNutt to say only two years ago, in retrospective admiration, "You could see then that Wen would be a great man some day."

Willkie was barely 18 when he came here, registering as "Lewis Willkie."

House Full of Willkies.

His brothers, Bob and Fred, and his sister, Julia, the university's most brilliant student, already were here, living together in a furore of words and disarray. Some people point out a rambling old frame house at 523 East Third street as their home here. Others say it was a little cottage now replaced by a filling station.

All say it teemed with spirit and argument and casual domestic routine, with sister Julia as housekeeper. This fact later kept her out of Phi Beta Kappa. "She isn't cultured," a professor arrogantly declared. "I saw her empty dish water in the back yard."

As in their Elwood home, meals were without schedule, and food was a nuisance.

"They ate when there was nothing interesting to do," Dr. Harmon recalls, "or when a discussion of some subject had palled. They lived with gusto and grabbed eagerly at a hand hold on the bustle of living."

"Just Country Boys."

From the day of his arrival Willkie was "always a part of the university," Dr. Harmon says. The campus then was ruled by the elegant, pompadoured few, members of fraternities, and Willkie, awkward young unknown, was not invited to join one.

"We were just country boys," says Dr. Harmon, "so we had to be proud to be barbarians—and we were."

Willkie's first move was to break the power of the fraternities. He decided to run Harmon for president of the sophomore class. As a starter, he took him to a campus meeting. When some one made a motion, he nudged Harmon. "Get up and second it," he commanded him. "I want you to get some recognition."

"He became my campaign manager," Harmon recalls. "It was the same sort of vote trading that goes on in major political conventions. Well, of course, after my election, Wen was the acknowledged champion of the barbarians."

Summers Spent At Labor.

Willkie did not work his way thru the university, as many seem to think. His father sold off a row of houses along the railroad tracks in Elwood to finance his children's education. He did, however, spend his summers at hard labor, as did his brothers. "Father," one of Willkie's brothers told Dr. Harmon recently, "always believed in pushing us out of the nest early."

The summer following his entrance at Indiana university, that of 1910, was spent with Harmon in Aberdeen, S. D., then supposedly booming into a second Minneapolis. Harmon worked as dishwasher, Willkie as barker for a tent lodging house, dragging in hoboes for 50 cents a bed.

"He would go out and get them," Dr. Harmon laughs, "come striding down the street bearing a customer, usually drunk, like a limp sack of meal, and heave him into the tent and his bunk. He kept the place full every night."

Toiled as Farm Hand.

The next summer Willkie followed threshers in Minnesota and the Dakotas. There he worked for a month as farm hand. At night, the farm library consisting only of a Sears-Roebuck catalog and the Bible, he attended revival meetings with the farmer's daughter.

The night he told her he had to leave, she looked at him brightly and said, "You know, this farm will be mine some day."

Nevertheless, he came back to the university here to become even more of a campus rebel. Stories told about him now are many and colorful. Once he broke into the Bloomington council meeting, to insist that students have a vote in city elections. They didn't get it.

In the words of Harmon, "He always welcomed a chance to defend any one with his fists or his tongue." Dr. Harmon cities a now historic theater fight in which the three Willkie boys led the other students, all seated in the gallery, in pursuit of a policeman who had arrested and wafted away a noisy student.

A Stab in the Back.

"It developed into a free for all," Harmon says, "and everybody took a swing. Everybody was mussed up considerably, but the gang was successful. We rescued the boy and went back to the show. Wen said to me then, 'I must have strained my back when I took that last swing. It hurts.' When he got home he took off his shirt and we discovered some one had stabbed him in the back."

Dr. Harmon cannot recall the name of the student for whom the future presidential nominee was stabbed, but another classmate, asked about it, said in surprise, "Why, I thought it was one of the Willkies."

On the campus proper, Wendell rapidly was becoming a power. His great rival was Paul V. McNutt, polished, easy of manner and speech, and handsome—"too pretty to be true," a former teacher commented today. McNutt, described as the finest speaker on the campus, apparently sought no offices. All were handed to him.

Always a Fighter.

Willkie, on the contrary, fought for every honor he attained. He was individual, independent, and outspoken. He had to make five attempts before he won a place on the debating team. John W. Bricker, now governor of Ohio, was a member of the opposition the day the Indiana team debated an Ohio State university team.

Willkie organized the Socialist club. He started the Boosters' club and became its first president. He even invaded the Jackson club, McNutt's Democratic stronghold, and managed to get elected to its board.

His greatest fight was to get more barbarians, as the unorganized men were known, on the union board, of which Minton was president. The barbarians outnumbered the fraternity men three to one, but were barely represented. Willkie failed, but he never failed to talk of it.

In the light of this, nobody can explain satisfactorily his defection, in his last semester as an undergraduate, to the ranks of Beta Theta Pi, whom he had blasphemed so eloquently for so long.

The Explanations Differ.

Some say he coalesced with McNutt to make McNutt class president. Dr. Harmon doubts this. "That voluble, dynamic pair was as diametrically opposed then," he says, "as they are now."

Miss Lillian Gay Berry, professor of Latin—on whom Willkie bestowed a kiss in 1938, when he came back to get an honorary doctor of law degree, with the comment, "She's the best teacher I ever had"—has another version. "It was a girl," she says wisely. "She wanted him to be in a fraternity."

Miss Berry is annoyed at the Bloomingtonians who prattle of Willkie's salad days here. "In class," she says, "he was a very mild mannered, sweet lad. He was an excellent student. He was modest, genteel, and smiling. I think people were always picking out the Willkies to pick on because they were so individualistic and independent—with ideas.

"But when I first met him I told him I didn't think I would like him. That was because I liked his sister, Julia, so much."

Latin for Relaxation!

Willkie recently wrote to her, she says, that he reads Latin for relaxation, so she is writing him a letter now full of Latin inscriptions from the walls of Pompeii. Two of the inscriptions, dealing with political candidates of that age, are "vicini rogant" [his neighbors nominate him] and "probus" [an upright man].

At any rate Willkie's picture appeared six times in the 1913 Arbutus, the campus yearbook. The face it shows was lean, solemn, rather bony. The now unruly hair was carefully slicked down. The long lashed eyes were solemn.

"And I don't know why," Miss Berry said today, "he never looked that way."

WILLKIE'S NAME: HOW IT GOT ITS VARIED SPELLING

Elwood, Ind., July 3 [Special.]—The spelling of Wendell L. Willkie's family name has undergone three changes since his forbears came to the United States.

When his grandfather, William Joseph Wilcke, migrated to this country in 1860 from Ascherleben, Bavaria, with his wife and four children he Americanized the name and spelled it "Willkie." The family first settled at Sheboygan, Wis., but later moved to Fort Wayne, Ind. There the name was misregistered on a deed as "Willkie." The seven children, including Herman F., father of Wendell, apparently adopted this spelling, altho there is evidence that the family name sometimes was spelled with only one "l" even after this.

Wendell's grade and high school records here spell the name "Willkie," but his official records at Indiana university, where he was a student, use only the one "l." When he entered the army in 1917 he enlisted as "Willkie," the spelling now used by him and his three brothers and sisters.

Willkie's full name is Wendell Lewis Willkie, but records show that he sometimes adopted Lewis as his first name. This was the case when he registered at Indiana university in 1910 as "Lewis Willkie." However, in recent years he has used the name Wendell L. Willkie.

PISZCZEK URGED AS HEAD OF NEW HEALTH SERVICE

Dr. Edward A. Piszczek was recommended yesterday for the new post of head of the county health service. The salary is $6,000 a year. Recommendation of Dr. Piszczek was made by Dr. A. C. Baxter, state health director, to Clayton Smith, president of the county board. The board will consider the position on July 18.

The new county health unit will provide health services in unincorporated areas and villages in the county which do not provide such service. State and federal governments will contribute $48,400 annually toward the cost. The county is expected to assume the remainder of the cost, $9,600. There is to be a staff of 28 persons.

Dr. Piszczek, who is the son-in-law of County Commissioner Frank Bobryszke, chairman of the hospital subcommittee of the county board, is 32 years old. He is a graduate of the Loyola university medical school, and holds a master of public health degree from Harvard university.

Aliens' Wives May Regain Citizenship Under New Law

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Native born American women who lost their citizenship thru marriage to aliens prior to Sept. 22, 1922, but who have remained in this country since that time, again may become citizens under a measure signed today by President Roosevelt. The law applies only to women who have remained married to the same alien husbands. An act of 1936 repatriated women whose marriages to alien husbands had terminated. The new measure was designed to give the same consideration to women still married as to those whose status had changed.

Kentuckians Earmark Delegation for Roosevelt

Louisville, Ky., July 3 (AP).—The 39 delegates which Kentucky will send to the Democratic National convention in Chicago July 15 will be instructed to cast the state's 22 votes for President Roosevelt—if he runs. If the President decides not to seek a third term, Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley will carry the Kentucky delegation's backing as a favorite son for the presidential nomination. A resolution so instructing the delegation was passed in the Democratic state convention at its closing session last night.

WILLKIE SINGLES OUT BASIC ISSUE —THE NEW DEAL

Pushes Plan for 3 Front Campaign Setup.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 3.—Wendell L. Willkie, Republican nominee for President, said today that the transcendent issue in the coming campaign is the New Deal philosophy of government, which is that of increasing power over the individual. Willkie said his nomination was proof of that fact and that he expected to win on that issue no matter whom the Democrats nominate.

The Republican nominee progressed today with his campaign organization plans, working in conference at his office at 20 Pine street, and announced that he intended to go to Washington over the week-end to confer with Senator Charles L. McNary, his running mate, and other leaders.

Plans Triple Front Campaign.

Willkie will spend a comparatively easy day tomorrow, but on Friday he will confer with a subcommittee of the Republican national committee, which has been empowered to name a new national chairman and make other decisions regarding the machinery of the campaign.

While the plan is still subject to change, it is regarded as virtually certain that the Republican campaign will be run by a triumvirate in active charge of three fronts under the personal direction of Willkie.

Heading the triumvirate will be a campaign manager who has not yet been chosen. The others will be the national chairman, whom the subcommittee has authority to name, and a third man to handle the volunteer Willkie organizations, irregular and independent in politics, which played such a strong part in the nomination of the candidate.

Connecticut Leader Mentioned.

Willkie has narrowed his choice of a personal campaign manager down to three or four names. The only one that has been mentioned is that of Samuel F. Pryor Jr., national committeeman from Connecticut.

Willkie probably will settle this and other organization matters after the Friday meeting with the national committee's subcommittee.

The candidate's idea as to the basic issue in the campaign came out in the course of a press conference in which he was asked whether, in the event of his election, he thought there would be any friction between himself and the legislative branch of the government.

"People are not divided today the way they used to be," he remarked. "Now there are certain basic beliefs on which the people divide; that is, largely on the philosophy of the New Deal. Today the issue is a preference for the New Deal or opposition to it. I think my nomination is proof of that fact."

Looks to People's Sentiment.

Party labels, in other words, are not going to count so much in this campaign as they have in other years, in the candidate's opinion. The world still is unsettled, he thinks, and people are looking for a leadership that they can trust.

Asked about the assertion of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. leader, that the only Democratic candidate who could win against Willkie is Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Willkie said:

"Let's put it this way: John L. Lewis agrees with me that Roosevelt can't beat me."

Willkie promised to make an intensive campaign, covering the entire country, either with the vice presidential candidate, or separately. That will be discussed at the Washington meeting with Senator McNary. Willkie talked on the telephone with McNary today.

In his organization of the campaign Willkie is working hard for complete Republican unity, taking in all the factions which opposed him in the convention. His choice of the advisory committee, headed by Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, is the strongest indication of this.

"My hope for Republican unity comes from a full heart," he said, "and the convention has not left a single sore as far as I am concerned."

CHAIN LETTERS URGE FINANCIAL AID FOR WILLKIE

New York, July 3 [Special].—A chain letter today was on its way to 10,000 small business men urging them to contribute 25c to $1.20 to the campaign fund of Wendell L. Willkie and forward the letter to 10 other "good American citizens." The letter was started by the J. A. Sexauer Manufacturing Company, Inc., which launched the "give us Willkie" chain telegrams just before the Republican national convention.

The letter repeats Mr. Willkie's remark that if those who sent telegrams urging his nomination would contribute the cost of such a telegram, the Republicans would have enough money to finance the race, and adds: "let the voice of the people again be heard."

Contributions, the letter states, should be sent to Stanley Resor, treasurer, Willkie campaign, Roosevelt hotel, Madison avenue and 45th street, New York City.

DemocraticConventionMay Lack Canal Zone Delegates

COLON, Panama Canal Zone, July 3 (AP).—There may be no Canal Zone delegation at the Democratic national convention in Chicago. A majority of the party's supporters here are government employés. Under the Hatch bill government employés are forbidden to engage in political activities. No convention has been held, no delegates have been selected, and the party's leaders are uncertain what to do about it.

MAYOR EXPECTED TO TAKE NASH'S COMMITTEE POST

Veteran Leader Reported Ready to Retire.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Mayor Kelly took on a new significance in Democratic circles yesterday following reports that P. A. Nash, co-leader of the local organization, would not be a candidate for reëlection as national committeeman. Party leaders said that if the veteran Democrat stuck to this decision the mayor probably would succeed him on the committee.

Nash was out of the city and could not be reached. The mayor said he knew Nash had wanted to get out of the national committee post for some time—he is in his upper seventies.

"We haven't discussed the matter recently," the mayor remarked. "But he and I usually agree on things, and we probably will agree when we discuss this matter."

Wanted to Retire in 1936.

Politicians said Nash wanted to retire from the national committee four years ago during the 1936 convention in Philadelphia, and would have done so had it not been for a touchy situation in the delegation.

In Philadelphia the wounds left by the choleric 1936 primary battle between Gov. Horner and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen were still unhealed and the delegation was in dispute over the various officers they were to select up to the time of the caucus.

Had everything been rosy then, the chances are that Nash would not have stood for reëlection, but his reelection was part of the program that eventually brought peace to the delegation. He was sent back to the committee and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey was reëlected national committeewoman. Gov. Horner had wanted that post for Mrs. Blanche Fritz of Bridgeport, now assistant director of public welfare. No opposition has appeared against Mrs. Conkey for reëlection at the 1940 convention.

Elected to Succeed Cermak.

Nash, county chairman as well as national committeeman, has held the latter office since shortly after the assassination of the late Mayor Cermak in 1933. He was county chairman at the time and had been selected by local leaders to fill Cermak's shoes.

Later, when the choice of a man to fill out Cermak's term as mayor was the big question, Nash's name also received much consideration in the city council, which finally chose Mayor Kelly.

Nash was one of the old Roger Sullivan leaders. He was once a member of the now defunct board of assessors and later served a term on the equally defunct board of review, being defeated for reëlection in 1924.

RELIGIOUS SECT LOSES FIGHT TO CONVENE IN OHIO

Columbus, O., July 3 (AP).—The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, Inc., lost today an effort to compel Ohio to honor a contract permitting Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect which refuses to salute the flag, to hold its national convention at the state fairgrounds July 24 to 28.

Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood held that the society's suit could not be brought against a state. "A suit of this nature," he said, "is not in truth a suit to defend the constitutional rights of citizens; it is a suit for a specific performance of a contract, brought against a sovereign state in a manner and for a purpose prohibited by law."

The society contended the state, in breaking the contract, violated constitutional rights of freedom of assembly, worship, and speech. John T. Brown, state director of agriculture, said the contract was broken after he was informed of disturbances at meetings of the sect in other parts of the country.

U. S. BARES BIG MONEY DEALS OF GAMING BOSSES

Find 3½ Million Pay Roll; List Resorts.

United States Attorney William J. Campbell made startling new charges yesterday concerning the financial workings of the Chicago gambling syndicate. Campbell charges:

1. Total pay roll expense for five of the biggest gambling houses operated during a three year period was more than $3,500,000.

2. Jack Sommers, manager of the Horse Shoe club, 4721 North Kedzie avenue, alone handled over $3,000,000 in cash from 1936 thru 1939. [It was indicated that this money was the gross receipts from gambling in just a few resorts.]

New Charges Added.

The new charges are added to the district attorney's picture of organized gambling in the city and its environs drawn during a federal grand jury inquiry into the incomes of gamblers several months ago. They were made public in a bill of particulars filed in the United States courthouse in connection with the government's income tax conspiracy case against William R. Johnson, reputed head of the syndicate; William R. Skidmore, allegedly his political go-between, and 11 of their associates.

Johnson is charged with evading income taxes of $1,877,664 for 1936 thru 1939. The others, including Skidmore, are charged with plotting to aid and abet him in the alleged evasions.

A Butter and Egg Man.

The bill of particulars states among other items of interest that Skidmore, who operates several valuable farms in McHenry county, was the syndicate's butter and egg man. According to the charges, he sold most of his farm produce to Johnson's gambling joints as a sideline of their partnership.

Several weeks ago Johnson and Skidmore appeared before Judge John P. Barnes, before whom they are scheduled to go to trial Aug. 27, complaining they did not understand the words "income from gambling" in the indictment.

The bill which Campbell filed left no doubt as to the government's understanding of the case. It contains 72 pages of facts and figures drawn under the direction of E. Riley Campbell, special assistant United States attorney, by Paul Plunkett, Lawrence Miller, and John Kiely of Campbell's staff.

Charge 3 Million Income.

Johnson's gross income for the period of the alleged conspiracy is given as $3,380,829. The bill charges that the bulk of that income was "gains or profits derived by Johnson from the operation of a gambling business" and lists the names of 22 of Johnson's swankiest gambling establishments as follows:

Horse Shoe club.	Western club.
Casino club.	Select club.
Dev-Lin.	Mayfair club.
Lincoln Tavern.	Northland club.
Harlem Stables.	Club Proviso.
House of Niles.	4011 club.
D and D club.	2135 Pulaski road.
Bon Air Casino.	Lake Park club.
Villa Moderne.	Harlem club.
4030 Club.	11901 Vincennes club.
Southland Club.	406 club.

Figures on gambling house pay rolls, according to the bill, are based on the sworn returns of the operators themselves in connection with payment of social security taxes.

Sommers, who handled the most money, had the largest pay roll, paying out in three years a total of $1,437,466. His monthly pay roll often ran over $50,000 and he had as many as 400 employés at one time.

Other Pay Rolls Shown.

Pay rolls for other operators were given as follows for the same three years: Andrew J. Creighton, Southland club, 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue, $804,360; John M. Flanagan, 4020 club, at that number on Ogden avenue, $251,303; William P. Kelly, D and D club, 1205 North Dearborn street, $432,236, and James A. Hartigan, Harlem stables, 4301 North Harlem avenue, $583,482.

The bill also states that investigators had access to daily profit and loss statements of the gambling houses, ledgers kept by Johnson, and books and records of the currency exchange at 3424 Lawrence avenue, which served as a financial clearing house for the syndicate. This is the first time the government has revealed the extent to which it was able to follow syndicate operations.

A total of seven operators were indicted with their bosses. The bill charges that all committed perjury before the grand jury in contending they were the actual owners of their resorts in an effort to reduce the agents' estimates of Johnson's income. In every case, the government charges, they were merely front men who collected the gambling profits, converted them into cash, and handed them to Johnson.

Lawyer Accused Also.

William Goldstein, lawyer for Skidmore, is named as the manager of the currency exchange clearing house and of a second building at 4715 Irving Park boulevard, which was the syndicate's nerve center—the headquarters for telephone and teletype communication with the various resorts. He is also accused of testifying falsely before the grand jury.

The bill also describes numerous meetings between members of the syndicate at Skidmore's home, 3500 Lake Shore drive, and at his junk yard at 2840 South Kedzie avenue.

U. S. Cruisers End Visit of Good Will in Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, July 3 (AP).—The American cruisers Wichita and Quincy sailed today for an unannounced destination, ending their "good will" visit to Uruguay. They may cruise off Uruguay and Brazil pending possible establishment of a regular South Atlantic naval squadron. The vessels came here last month under special orders after discovery of an alleged Nazi plot against Uruguay.

Stassen in Chicago

Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Mrs. Stassen aboard Burlington Zephyr en route to St. Paul.

Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, who was floor manager for Wendell L. Willkie at the Philadelphia Republican convention, passed thru Chicago yesterday enroute from New York to St. Paul. The youthful chief executive of Minnesota followed Willkie to New York after the convention and on Tuesday was named to head the Willkie advisory committee which includes several Taft and Dewey leaders in its membership. Gov. Stassen was accompanied by his wife.

138 Vessels Building or Under Contract.

Battleships	15	10	9
Aircraft carriers	6	5	5
Heavy cruisers	18	4	12
Light cruisers	19	17	12
Destroyers	236	61	122
Submarines	101	41	40
Totals	395	138	200

Production schedules in American shipyards, federal and private, are far behind those of European nations. The United States launched the first of its new 35,000 ton battleships last month, more than a year after Britain had launched a similar vessel, the construction of which were announced at the same time.

Ask Longer Work Week.

American battleship construction schedules run between four and five years. Navy officers, seeking to cut schedules, have appealed to President Roosevelt to increase the work week above 40 hours, but he has refused.

Production costs also are greater in this country and have soared since the war. During the high priced period of the world war the U. S. S. Maryland, a 31,500 ton vessel, was built for $27,500,000. Today 35,000 ton battleships are expected to cost more than 70 million dollars.

The five vessels contracted for today are three aircraft carriers and two cruisers. The aircraft carriers are to cost $43,662,000 each and the cruisers $19,272,500 each. The awards all went to the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company.

In 1935 the navy department awarded a contract for an aircraft carrier to the Bath Iron Works for $20,737,000. In 1939 the Newport News company was awarded a contract for a single carrier at a price of $31,800,000.

Cruiser costs also have mounted rapidly. In 1927, bids for light cruisers in private yards were let for about 10 million dollars each. In 1939, light cruiser construction costs rose to $12,226,000 and last month contracts for two light cruisers went to the New York Shipbuilding company for $17,580,000 each.

YOU'RE MARRIED, STAY THAT WAY, JUDGE TELLS TWO

Judge Donald S. McKinlay yesterday dismissed the divorce suit of Dr. Don C. McCowan, 70 years old, a physician. The judge also dismissed the separate maintenance action brought by Dr. McCowan's wife, Hallie, 49, of 5932 Kenwood avenue. "Your eyes should have been open when you went into this marriage," the judge told them both.

Dr. McCowan complained that his wife lived with him only 22 days, that she cooked only three dinners and two breakfasts, refused to wash dishes, and scratched him "like a wildcat." After their marriage, he added, she "went into a brown study, more commonly known as a pout."

Mrs. McCowan was fined $100 recently for filing an alienation of affections suit against Mrs. Mabel Perry, Dr. McCowan's former office assistant, altho the law bans such suits. Mrs. Perry then sued Mrs. McCowan for false arrest. A jury found Mrs. McCowan guilty, but assessed no damage against her.

Psychiatrist Is Wounded in Home by Former Patient

Cleveland, O., July 3 (AP).—Dr. Louis J. Karnosh, 48 years old, noted Cleveland psychiatrist, lay critically wounded today. He had been shot by a disgruntled former patient who called at his home shortly after midnight. A man who gave his name as Abraham Vartanian, 40, of Akron, O., surrendered at police headquarters and reported he had done the shooting, officers said.

POWER OF REDS AT YOUTH PARLEY CURBS U. S. GROUP

Congress Has No Room for Pro-Americans.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Geneva, Wis., July 3.—The American Youth congress opened its sixth annual meeting tonight on the lush shores of Lake Geneva against a background of alleged communist control.

With the support of Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion, Murray Plavner of New York arrived to organize a pro-American goup to expose if not break this Red control. Plavner found it tough going.

Reservations for a headquarters room at College Camp had been requested by wire Saturday in Tunney's name. Today there was no space available for the pro-Americans at the large convention camp. B. H. Bentzen, resident manager, said he simply didn't have facilities.

Moves to Williams Bay.

Plavner set up headquarters in nearby Williams Bay. He expects a substantial number of delegates from Michigan to back him, notably from the Young Republicans and Young Democrats organizations. Only one showed up early.

F. Stephen McArthur, president of the Young Democrats of Kearney, N. J., appeared with a letter authorizing him to serve as a delegate for the purpose of introducing an anti-communist resolution. Executive Secretary Joseph Cadden politely but firmly denied him a delegate's credentials on the ground that he did not represent a national organization.

Kenneth Goff, a young minister of Delavan, Wis., who testified before the Dies committee that the American Youth organization is controled by communists, also was refused a delegate's badge. He formerly was a member of the American Youth congress executive board and a leader in the Wisconsin Young Communists' league, but broke with them when he made his accusations.

How Delegates Are Named.

Delegates to the congress are selected on the following basis: Each national organization, four delegates; each Boys' state assembly or legislature, four delegates; each community, city, county or regional council, three delegates, and one delegate for local branches of national organizations in communities where no local youth council exists. Organizations not included in these brackets may send one delegate. In addition, 75 delegates represent the rural youth of the country.

Credentials are ruled upon tentatively by congress officials. Protests against these rulings are considered by the congress credentials committee, which meets tomorrow.

"It seems that you have to get the approval of the local communist group," said the Rev. Mr. Goff, who represents the Church of Christ. "I was a delegate without difficulty at five previous meetings."

He contended that rules have been changed in order to bar persons opposing the Reds.

Sample of Membership.

A typical sampling of member organizations follows: National Intercollegiate Christian council, Young Women's Christian association, American Student union, which has been accused of radicalism; Southern Negro Youth congress, Ladies Garment Shipping Clerks' union, Packing House Workers' Organizing committee, and the National Student league.

Others are the American Law Students' association, National Council of Jewish Juniors, Association of Medical Students, Young Negro Cooperative league.

Sheriff Joseph A. Dorr of Walworth county was on hand today. He denied that any one had requested his presence, but on Tuesday, Gov. Julius P. Heil said he had asked Dorr to maintain order.

Serious convention business is not to begin until tomorrow, when still more delegates and visitors are expected.

TWO WHO KILLED WOMAN CAPTIVE SLAIN IN BATTLE

Kingsville, Tex., July 3 [Special].—Two youthful desperadoes were shot to death today on a lonely border of the Great King ranch after a 48 hour reign of terror. Earlier they had killed a woman hostage and seriously wounded a night watchman.

The gunmen, who were unidentified, reached the Rio Grande valley Monday morning, deliberately crashing their heavy sedan into a highway patrol car four miles north of Edinburg and escaping into the brush. The patrolmen had been watching for two men wanted for a Nacogdoches robbery.

P. L. Barnhill, 77 years old, the night watchman, encountered the pair here last night and one of them shot him thru the stomach. Two hours later they forced Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Davis and John Bowden to drive them to Corpus Christi. When the three captives tried to escape, Mrs. Davis, who was 35 years old, was shot to death.

Six hours afterward Deputy Sheriff B. B. Ballard and Highway Patrolmen R. M. Arnold and Earl Nichols came on the fugitives in a parked truck.

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE.

Dennis, Mass., July 4, Thursday.—Gertrude Lawrence, English actress, and Richard S. Aldrich, producer and manager of the Cape playhouse here, were married at one minute after midnight today in the garden of Raymond Moore, founder of the theater.

The marriage was the second for both Miss Lawrence and for Mr. Aldrich. Aldrich's first wife, the former Miss Helen Beals of New York, obtained a divorce in Reno in 1936. Miss Lawrence, born Gertrude Klasen, divorced Francis Gordon Howley, theatrical producer, in London in 1928. It was explained that the hour of midnight was fixed for the ceremony, because Miss Lawrence expressed the wish to be married on her birthday, July 4.

The couple will take a brief honeymoon before Miss Lawrence opens in "Skylark" in Los Angeles July 18.

Miss Lawrence met Aldrich, Harvard graduate and a producer in New York since 1928, thru work for British relief agencies. Aldrich was born in Boston on Aug. 17, 1902. Miss Lawrence was born in London in 1898.

TOWNSEND PLAN ONCE BACKED BY SENATE: DOWNEY

St. Louis, Mo., July 3 (AP).—Senator Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.] told the 8,000 delegates at the Townsend national convention today that "before the war hysteria hit Washington, a substantial majority of the senate was ready to vote for the Townsend plan."

The old-age pension program of Dr. Francis E. Townsend, who is 73 years old, calls for a 2 per cent gross income tax to finance payments to citizens over 60, with an ultimate maximum of $200 a month.

Downey called the present social security act "a tragic, stupid failure," and said that in recent debates "no senator had the courage to defend that charter of misfortune and poverty." Altho Downey is recognized as the leading Townsendite holding public office, he did not refer to the third party hints made at the convention.

Sen. Vandenberg Qualifies in Race for Re-election

Lansing, Mich., July 3 (AP).—United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, who failed in his fight for the Republican presidential nomination, qualified today as a candidate for another term in the senate. Petitions bearing sufficient signatures to enter him for renomination were filed with the secretary of state. Vandenberg has served in the senate since 1928.

TAX WOES JOLT M'NUTT BID FOR VICE PRESIDENT

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—Senator Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, and Gov. Lloyd C. Stark of Missouri stood forth today as the leading contenders for nomination as President Roosevelt's running mate if he seeks a third term.

There was much speculation here today regarding the chances of Federal Security Administrator McNutt in view of the story published in Indianapolis that he has settled income tax deficiency claims against him for $3,000, and that the assessment was levied on "winnings at cards which he had failed to schedule."

Privately McNutt has admitted that he has settled the treasury claims, but denied that gambling profits were involved. All he would say for publication was:

Report Slush Settlement.

According to the Indianapolis story, Bowman Elder, treasurer of the Indiana Democratic two per cent slush fund, founded by McNutt when governor, has settled with the treasury with a payment of $83,000. Elder also has declined to comment. He had refused to explain to the treasury the source of certain large payments in the slush fund and their disposition. The treasury claims against Pleas Greenlee, former patronage secretary of McNutt, were said to be still pending.

Treasury officials declined to discuss reports of the settlement with McNutt and Elder. The Indiana slush fund was under investigation by 40 treasury operatives for several months. A couple of months ago, when it was apparent that the involvement of Elder in the scandal was compromising the McNutt presidential candidacy, of which Elder was a leading promoter, President Roosevelt summoned Internal Revenue Commissioner Guy T. Helvering to the White House for a discussion of the affair.

Helvering Later Rebuked.

On leaving the White House, Helvering told reporters that the incomes of the Indiana Democratic leaders were under investigation and that eventually a statement would be made clearing any who were found innocent.

Because of the adverse effect of the scandal on his candidacy, McNutt was extremely eager to obtain from the treasury a clean bill of health, but none was ever forthcoming. When Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. was asked about the matter, he rebuked Helvering for making the statement he did, which was a violation of the law imposing secrecy on income tax administration.

Subsequently McNutt abandoned his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for President on the ground that the drafting of Mr. Roosevelt for a third term had become a national necessity. He left his lightning rod up, however, for the vice presidential nomination, and considered his chances extremely good because geographical considerations would impel the party to go west for Mr. Roosevelt's running mate.

Indiana's Status Influenced.

Since the nomination of Hoosier born Wendell L. Willkie for President by the Republicans, Indiana has become more than ever a doubtful state. The Democratic ticket would be strengthened if an Indiana man were chosen for Vice President. That consideration enhanced McNutt's chances. Now the politicians are wondering whether the McNutt candidacy has been sunk by the episode of the income tax deficiency.

The campaign to nominate Senator Lucas for Vice President was formally launched today by Representative Laurence F. Arnold and James M. Barnes, both Illinois Democrats, in a letter sent to every delegate and alternate who will sit in the Democratic national convention in Chicago two weeks hence.

"Roosevelt and Lucas will make a great Democratic ticket," the congressman said in their letter.

Praise Lucas Statesmanship.

"We, who know Senator Lucas personally as a neighbor, fellow Democrat, and as a colleague in the congress of the United States, earnestly attest that Senator Lucas is a true American and a loyal Democrat and a man who in every respect merits the high confidence of fellow Americans."

Asserting that in urging that Senator Lucas be nominated for Vice President they are motivated by the "highest patriotic impulses," the two Illinois congressmen declared of Senator Lucas that "as a public leader he has demonstrated those qualities of statesmanship which are now needed for wise guidance of our national destinies."

COMMISSION SELLS MAIL LINERS JACKSON AND GRANT TO NAVY

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The maritime commission said today it had sold to the navy department the former American Mail liners President Jackson and President Grant.

The vessels each have gross tonnage slightly in excess of 14,000 tons. They and the President McKinley and President Jefferson are laid up at Bremerton, Wash. Commission officials said the President McKinley and President Jefferson still were owned by the commission, and were not involved in the transaction.

Navy officials, declining to confirm or deny the deal, would give no hint as to what use would be made of the vessels.

Three Oregon Children Die in Farmhouse Fire

Portland, Ore., July 3 (AP).—Two boys and a girl, children of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chase, died in a farmhouse blaze at Jasper, 10 miles southeast of Eugene, Ore., today. The cause of the flames, which broke out while the parents were away, was not determined immediately. Flames starting at the dock of the abandoned Eagle Lumber company today burned 12 of the 15 houses in West Timber, leaving 10 families homeless.

JULY 4, 1940.

Independence day celebrates the establishment of a nation, separate from all other nations. We had been an aggregation of colonies subject in some degree to the will of a government overseas. On the first Independence day we declared ourselves out of that régime and seven years later the claim was validated as the result of a victorious war.

Because of our independence we succeeded in avoiding an immense amount of trouble and loss. Before 1776, every time Europe indulged in one of its periodic wars America had necessarily been a party to it. Depending largely upon what happened on European battlefields and around European conference tables, the political map of North America was subject to change. To the English, the Dutch, the French, and the Spanish, all of the North American colonies were stakes in a game. The desires and welfare of the colonists were secondary considerations. It was part of the game to set Indians against white settlers and encourage the natives in unspeakable brutalities. When the going got tough for one side or another in Europe, the peace settlements would be made without much regard for anything except the desires of the European victors.

The first Independence day declared an end to that régime. From that moment on, the people of this country were as free of European power politics as they cared to be, and as their power of defense enabled them to be. We were no longer colonies; we were a nation, separate and distinct, with our own interests to pursue and our fate in our own hands. As the years passed, we spread across the continent, eliminating one after another of the European claims which might have halted our growth and divided our loyalty.

By remaining aloof for the most part from Europe's quarrels, we were enabled to concentrate on the upbuilding of America with results which astounded the world. We were enabled, also, to establish here a unique system of ordered liberty which attracted millions from all the nations of Europe, millions who were eager to escape the oppressions and wars of the continent.

There are people in this country today who talk and act as if a great mistake had been made in Philadelphia 164 years ago. They want our country to behave as if it were still a colony of Europe, bound to participate in wars which have their origins overseas. It is interesting to observe that it is not the sons of recent immigrants who are shouting for war. The self-appointed committees for intervention are made up for much the most part of old stock Americans, busily repudiating the independence which their own ancestors won for all of us. July 4 has lost its meaning for these war shouters. If they had their way, America would return to colonial status with all of America's power in men and wealth to be thrown into the European quarrel.

The election this year will be decided very largely as a vote of confidence or lack of it in the men who signed the great declaration in Philadelphia. Do the people of this country wish to continue the system of government which independence made it possible for us to institute? Do the people of this country wish to remain outside the sphere of European power politics?

The New Deal has been advancing toward state domination of the individual citizen and toward dictatorship and war. The Republican party in Philadelphia reaffirmed that this is an independent country, under no obligation to enter the European war, and determined to remain a nation of free men. The issue is sharply defined.

THE PASSING OF THE SOUTHERN DELEGATE.

In the excitement over candidates and platform at the Republican convention, the action of the rules committee to clean up the southern delegate situation escaped the attention it deserves.

Hitherto every congressional district has been allotted one delegate to the convention, with an additional delegate if it cast 10,000 or more Republican votes in the last presidential election. In 1944 and thereafter, under the new plan, a district is denied any delegates unless it has cast at least 1,000 Republican votes in a previous presidential or midterm election.

There are about 75 congressional districts, almost wholly in the solid south, that consistently have failed to meet this minimum requirement. Republican convention representation from those states will hereafter be confined to the four delegates at large allowed every state.

The nature of these voteless Republican machines in many of the southern states and the caliber of the men who run them are too well known to require extended comment. It is sufficient to say that they have been a determent to decent men who otherwise might have made a sincere attempt to rally votes for Republican candidates and principles.

The proposed plan makes it incumbent upon Republican organizations to make some showing in the way of vote getting before they are allowed any substantial voice in the convention. This in itself should attract better leadership.

The issues that have bound the solid south to the Democrats have long been threadbare. They seem bound to disappear before the rapidly changing conditions of today. The new delegate plan opens the way toward giving the south a substantial and responsible Republican organization, and with it the two party system that most Democrats, even, will admit would benefit the south.

MR. WILLKIE MAKES A GOOD START.

In the selection of his advisory committee and in the rules he has laid down for campaign contributions Mr. Willkie is living up to the expectation that he will conduct an energetic and honest campaign.

While each of the twelve members of the advisory committee is a man or woman of recognized ability, two of the appointments are particularly gratifying. Mr. Ingalls was manager of Senator Taft's pre-convention campaign and Mrs. Simms co-manager of the Dewey campaign. Their early appearance in Mr. Willkie's organization indicates the harmony within the Republican party and at the same time testifies to Mr. Willkie's tact in promoting that harmony.

At the same time, in the rules he laid down for campaign contributions, Mr. Willkie served notice that those who take part in his campaign are expected to do so because of their faith in the principles of the party and not in any hope of personal advantage. His announcement that diplomatic appointments are not to be auctioned off for campaign contributions was most timely. Most of Mr. Roosevelt's un-American ambassadors came to him more highly recommended by Jim Farley and the treasurer of the Democratic national committee than by Secretary Hull.

In limiting campaign contributions to $5,000, Mr. Willkie throws back in their teeth the challenge of the New Dealers who thought they could amend the pending Hatch clean politics bill to death by inserting just such a provision. Failure of the Democratic congress to pass that bill becomes, from now on, a confession that the Democrats intend to wage a corrupt campaign. The Republican candidate has already given assurance that his will be an honest one.

ANOTHER LOUISIANA PURCHASE.

A new and important sidelight on the relations of the New Deal to corruption in Louisiana is provided by Alva Johnston, writing in the Saturday Evening Post for June 22.

It will be recalled that when Huey Long was alive and baiting the New Deal, federal indictments were brought charging income tax frauds by his gang. After Long was killed the inheritors of his machine made their political peace with Mr. Roosevelt. The indictments were thereupon dropped. That dirty chapter is entitled the Second Louisiana Purchase.

A great deal was written and said about it and the administration in Washington was stung into action. Accordingly, Mr. O. John Rogge, a young man of great ability, was sent into Louisiana to make amends. He has succeeded in convicting a good many of the Long grafters under the statutes covering mail frauds. The New Dealers have boasted of these achievements as proof that the Roosevelt administration was not permanently corrupted by the Second Louisiana Purchase. The corruption was only transitory. The New Deal was bought, but it didn't stay bought.

It is at this point that Mr. Johnston's testimony should be read. He writes:

"A political storm began to rage against Rogge in Washington as indictments and convictions succeeded each other in rapid succession. Senator Ellender of Louisiana and other members of the Long machine began to bombard President Roosevelt and Attorney General Murphy with complaints that Rogge's activities were interfering with the coming gubernatorial campaign in Louisiana.

"Early in December of 1939 the attorney general passed on recommendations that no further trials or indictments should take place before Jan. 16, 1940, the date of the first primary. Rogge did not take kindly to these suggestions. Against the attorney general's remonstrance, Rogge prosecuted and convicted the Shushan group. Shortly after that Attorney General Murphy sent word that President Roosevelt had indicated that it would look as if the department of justice was allowing itself to be dragged into factional politics if any more indictments were returned before the primary; and that he, Murphy, agreed with the President."

In short, Mr. Roosevelt and his attorney general, who has since been elevated to the United States Supreme court, were actively engaged in an attempt to arrange a third Louisiana purchase. They were trying to protect their corrupt political allies. They were bringing wholly improper influences to bear upon the government's prosecutor in the hope that a corrupt machine would continue in control of Louisiana.

THE LION'S TOOTH.

[Providence Evening Bulletin.]

Beautiful little flower, the dandelion, so yellow, so compact. So prolific! Tennyson called it the flower "that blows a globe of after-arrowlets." Nice bit of observation by the bard. Hits it off perfectly.

Being a bard, he looked upon it dispassionately. Lots of us can't. Not now when the year's at the increase with such a vengeance. It's that globe of after-arrowlets that upsets us. Every beautiful little dandelion will be progenitor to a thousand other beautiful little dandelions in no time, carpeting the lawn, carpeting the neighbors' lawns, stretching over hill and dale as far as the eye can reach.

So we dig 'em. Get a kitchen knife or a gadget and go after 'em. Dig, brothers, dig! We knew a fellow once who dug 10 and stopped. He was abnormal. Everybody else who digs 10 is lost. He's got to keep on. Digging 'em becomes an obsession, a mania, a form of madness. Thrust, twist, grasp, pull, and into the basket. There is the harvester crawling on all fours like a beast of the field. His fingers ache, his back aches, his arms ache; he is one large ache. He sits back to rest and what does he see? Dandelions!

And then the after effects—hours after. The digger closes his eyes. Now what image haunts his retina? The dandelion. There it floats, its jagged leaves embracing the earth with the instinct of preservation.

The digger walks forth washed and brushed, his labors ended. A sense of accomplishment suffuses his stiff members. Yonder blows a globe of after-arrowlets! He fights down the impulse to wrest it from its place. A thousand arrowlets to carpet the earth! Terrific little flower, the dandelion.

Even the exit of the homegrown strawberry shortcake has its compensations. Doesn't it mark the beginning of the cherry pie season?—Christian Science Monitor.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

EDITORS OF LIBERTY.

The Declaration of Independence, adopted by the second continental congress on July 4, 1776, was preceded by a resolution of independence, passed on July 2. Perhaps that is the reason why firecrackers begin to explode as early as June 20.

The drafting of the document was assigned to a committee, which promptly elected Thomas Jefferson as its chairman and permitted him to do most of the work. John Adams and Benjamin Franklin did some copyreading on Jefferson's text; the other committeemen, Roger Sherman and Robert B. Livingston, merely lent dignity.

Franklin's strokes of revision were few but effective. In "We hold these truths to be——" he substituted "self-evident" for Jefferson's "sacred and undeniable." He made five other minor changes, among them the words "destroy us" for "deluge us in blood."

Other alterations were made by congress itself. Censure of the British people and a denunciation of slavery were omitted; appeals to Providence were inserted; and certain redundancies were blue penciled. Altogether, it was a good job of copyreading, altho Jefferson shuddered a bit as the operation was performed.

"I was sitting by Dr. Franklin," he afterward recalled, "who perceived that I was not insensible to these mutilations." Franklin then told Jefferson that he himself avoided, whenever possible, the duty of drafting papers that were to be reviewed by a public body. He continued with a story which is the only bit of comedy associated with the Declaration. It was about a man who opened a shop with the sign, "John Thompson, hatter, makes and sells hats for ready money," and a figure of a hat. He asked for his friends' opinions, and when they had finished the sign carried nothing but the name, John Thompson, and the hat.

The great document, now on permanent exhibition in the Library of Congress, has had an adventurous career. It has found shelter in 10 cities and 5 states; twice it was nearly captured by the British; and twice it narrowly escaped destruction by fire.

THE MESSAGE OF THE BELL.

There's an old bronze bell—and you know it well—
With a tongue which forever is stilled;
There's a deathless pride which will ever abide
For a day when the world was thrilled
By a valiant band in a frontier land
Who battled the king's best men,
In bitterest strife, for a way of life
Which we love, as they loved it then.

"Now hear what I say," says that old bell, today,
"You may gather and talk as you please;
"You may raise your voice to the God of your choice;
"Your flag floats o'er mountains and seas;
"But guard well your right, for the Forces of Night
"Are loosed in a tempest of Hate;
"If you want to be free, then harken to me,
"Lest one day you may be too late."

So let us mark well what the Liberty Bell
Repeats as the warning of years,
And guard shores and skies from the coveting eyes
Of a world that is governed by fears.
Our place in the sun by our fathers was won
With heartache and bleeding and strife;
Let's hold hard and fast to the die that they cast—
The American Way of Life!

Meditation at Balbo's Column.

I stood before a single marble column erected on the spot where the Italian building had been during A Century of Progress fair. It had been taken from Ostia, the port of ancient Rome, to be presented to Chicago. Many great men and warriors had passed before it, and if it were a scroll of all who passed we would find among the latest additions to the list the name Balbo.

The picture of his great fleet of planes is still vivid in my memory. I watched them as they soared out of the sky to alight as gracefully as a gull on the waters of our lake. They passed so close to me that I could see the men who had made the perilous journey with such skill and courage. I honored them as great men doing a fine constructive act. And Balbo, their leader, I have been told, was as gracious as his planes were graceful.

Wherever you may be, Balbo, I wonder what you are thinking. For somewhere along the road you took the wrong fork. You took the road to destruction and missed the constructive way that held so much more for you and your men. Surely the road was well marked. It always has been. Perhaps you had no other choice. I would like to believe that. Ward Monte.

THE CALL FROM GALILEE.

While mighty earthquakes rock the world's foundation,
And chaos threatens empires and their kings,
While men of strength lie stricken in the wreckage,
And men of wisdom cease their utterings,
While darkness menaces man's puny striving,
And newborn terror haunts the land and sea,

Lament for "The Hole in the Wall."

Demolition of old buildings doubtless is necessary if our city is to prosper, but we view with alarm the razing of certain special landmarks. "The hole in the wall" at Tooker place, thru which patrons of the Dill Pickle club were forced to squeeze on their way to meetings, is gone. The aperture was not really a hole but a narrow space between two buildings. It was so narrow in fact, that only lean and hungry Dill Picklers could pass. Portly ones like Doc Reitman had to go around. The opening was, at one time, nationally famous, justly celebrated and properly cherished for sentimental reasons. But now it has disappeared.

The fact that the Dill Pickle club passed out some time ago doesn't make any difference. The members have memories, haven't they? And now even memory hasn't a hole in the wall. How long are we to permit this slaughter of sentiment, this massacre of memories, this base attack on the portals of the past? Newcomer.

On this day 50 years ago we knew all the joys of a dictator. We spent 15 hours of it with explosives and a toy cannon, and gloated over the smell of burned powder and the shattered corpses of the imaginary slain. CHARLES COLLINS.

MOLDS BLAMED FOR HAY FEVER.

BEFORE long, the second division of our hay fever enemies will be upon us. Not the ragweed contingent—which is scheduled for later in the summer—but a large force which will bombard us from the sky.

We can tell almost to a certainty whether we will have a bad experience or not. It all depends upon the rainfall. If the weeds receive plenty of moisture they will grow luxuriantly and produce huge crops of pollen. Then—with a few clear days, a high temperature, and a fair breeze—the vicious particles will be carried hither and yon ready to be breathed in by susceptible persons. Between now and August timothy, redtop, and rye grass will bloom. In addition, lamb's-quarters, pigweed, and English plantain may blossom at almost any time.

Despite attempts to protect ourselves against particular offenders only recently have we been able to explain the continuance of symptoms. This lies in the discovery that the spores of molds exist in the atmosphere during most of the warm season. They have no special flowering period and will form their seeds within a few days after growth has begun. Most housewives realize now abundant they are, as a bit of moist bread, lemon or orange peel, or clothes that have been sprinkled for ironing cannot be left for long.

Now, observation has shown that many patients who have won a victory over pollens will not be benefited. The discomfort continues and—when tested for sensitivity to fungi—they react violently—some to one species, others to several. Damp weather is especially helpful to these plants, as they do poorly when it is dry. In stubborn cases, therefore, checks for mold offenders [including also rusts and smuts] are made.

Curiously enough, the symptoms are the same and every victim presents the characteristic sneezing, itching, bleary eyes, profuse nasal discharge, and obstruction to breathing. Not infrequently, in recurring attacks, both bronchial and asthmatic manifestations are exhibited. Almost without exception we may say that the more pollen and spores in the air, the more severe the distress.

When the nose is examined the mucous membrane will appear swollen and covered with a profuse, watery secretion. But the patient knows what the trouble is and all he wants is relief. It makes little difference to him whether the physician demonstrates eosinophiles in the mucus or not.

But this double-barreled allergy [pollens and molds] requires two kinds of extracts. That it is not uncommon is indicated by reports showing that around 30 per cent of all sufferers will respond to both forms of irritants. The percentage of improvement after a course of the vaccine made from the fungi seems to be greater. Even in children, 25 per cent of a long series of cases reacted positively to molds. When treated with emanations of plants alone the results were unsatisfactory, but when the second material was included more than 80 per cent were helped. Thus it is that the doctor has two weapons immediately at hand.

But what can we do for the 20 per cent who are not aided? Some perhaps are affected by a type of pollen which is not present in the "shots." Others may evince a food origin; while still others may be protesting against house dust or some obscure element in the environment.

It should be clear that vaccination is worthless when substances to which the individual is not sensitive are employed. Regardless of the quantity given no relief will ensue. Nevertheless, it is always wise to try the ordinary culprits first, proceeding gradually to those that are more unusual.

We must not forget also the importance of dustproofing the sleeping room as there is much to be gained by reducing the mass attack with adequate filtration. Devices are now available by means of which the entering air may be strained if not freed entirely from these toxic factors.

THUMB TROUBLE.

B. P. writes: I have a fistula on my thumb. How should it be treated?

REPLY.

The bone may be diseased and complete surgical eradication of the infection is essential. Skilled aid will be required.

MOUTH BURNS.

Mrs. A. F. writes: What causes burning and redness of the tongue and the roof of the mouth?

REPLY.

Any one of several factors may be responsible. Lack of hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice, anemia, vitamin deficiency, a mouth infection—all should be investigated.

ARM EXERCISE.

V. F. writes: Is exercising with pulleys and weights dangerous to the heart?

REPLY.

SNUFF FOR SNIFFLES.

A. H. writes: Will acquiring the snuff habit help a hay fever victim?

REPLY.

Doubtful. You might be sensitive to tobacco and thus add to your troubles. Nicotine has no neutralizing effect upon sensitivity.

SCARLET FEVER.

Mrs. C. F. writes: Is there a sure preventive of scarlet fever either by vaccination or in tablet form?

REPLY.

Small doses of scarlet fever toxin may be injected in the hope that immunity will be established. Protection, however, is not permanent. This is valuable procedure—but not 100 per cent successful. If a child is actually exposed, antitoxin may be employed.

TODAY IN HISTORY

July 4, 1776

The Liberty bell in the belfry of Independence Hall in Philadelphia rang out news of the independence of the American colonies. The declaration committee was composed of five members, with Thomas Jefferson as the moving spirit. The document was adopted on this date, altho the signing did not take place until a month later. Independence was still opposed by commercial classes, who feared that their trade would suffer.

TIRED OF HYPHEN BUSINESS.

Park Ridge, Ill., July 1.—As an American born citizen of German descent, I protest against the German day celebration at which Mayor Kelly spoke, flanked by both the American and Nazi flags.

I am weary of this hyphen business. One is either an American citizen or he is not. If he IS an American he does not need any hyphen in the title.

I am suspicious of any one who tells us that we need not fear any fifth column and scouts the idea that fifth columns played any part in the destruction of certain European countries. And I see no justification for flying the German or any other foreign flag at an American meeting.

One wishes that Mayor Kelly could have resisted the temptation to win German-American votes by his presence at a hyphenated meeting, brushing his shoulders against the Nazi flag. This is no time to encourage foreign loyalties. It is a time to insist on undivided respect for and loyalty to just one flag—the American flag and that for which it stands.

A. P. HAAKE.

EVIDENCE OF LOYALTY?

Chicago, July 2.—The 50,000 some odd Germans who rallied to Riverview park Sunday to express their loyalty to America, and their German consul general who denounced the existence of a fifth column in the United States, showed how really loyal they are when they flew the Nazi swastika flag next to our Stars and Stripes and cheered when mention was made of Hitler's steel war machines.

I hope there were F. B. I. men present at Riverview park Sunday to give Mr. Dies more material for his "fairy tales."

A LOYAL AMERICAN.

MAYOR KELLY AND THE SWASTIKA.

Chicago, July 2.—Monday papers carried the news of Mayor Kelly celebrating with German groups at Riverview park. This affair was scheduled as a picnic, but it proved to be a general celebration of the achievements of Hitler. The speakers gloried openly and there could be no mistake about the actual purpose of the gathering.

There on the platform stood our famed Mayor Kelly beside a swastika. The crowd in front of him with hands upraised in the Nazi salute acclaimed the achievements of Hitler both by words and song, notwithstanding the fact that beside Mayor Kelly stood the American flag, reminding him that we are in America and all are Americans. What a tragic sight for our citizens who try during these Nazi saddened days to imbue our blessed American principles to the world as the beacon light to freedom, tolerance, and justice! P. B. L.

CALLS IT A DISGRACE.

Chicago, July 2.—I see that on Sunday, German day, our mayor was flanked by two flags, our own Stars and Stripes and a Nazi swastika. I consider it a shame and disgrace for the latter to be seen in our country.

Had I been alongside of the mayor I would have requested that it be taken down, and had my request not been granted, I would have taken it myself and torn it to pieces.

A LOYAL AMERICAN.

OR WILL IT?

Chicago, July 3.—With two Republicans ready to be seated in the New Deal cabinet, Mr. Willkie's task of selecting a cabinet will be simplified—or will it?

BRAZIL HOOSIER.

FLAG HAS A NEW MEANING.

Chicago, July 2.—As I sat looking thru my window at home last evening I saw in the splendor of the setting sun a magnificent flag flying high above the streets. Altho I was born an American and have pledged allegiance to that flag many times, this was the first time in my life that I came to the full realization of what that flag represents — my country, my home, and myself. That flag was an American flag, my flag. I am proud to be an American, and pledge myself to do everything in my power to keep it flying in this, my country, the land of the free.

EDWARD GARLIN.

BOOTLEGGED NOISE MAKERS.

Chicago, July 2.—Why bootleg cannon crackers when we have laws, and why must the average citizen listen to a seven day celebration when July 4 contains 24 hours only?

Three cheers for our Keystone police!

ONE BET SHE'LL MAKE.

Chicago, July 2.—I'm not a gambler, but in case Mr. Roosevelt runs again, I am willing to bet that he leaves Mr. Willkie as far behind as the horses that my husband has been betting on during the last 16 years. MRS. G. L.

BUILDING REPAIRS.

Chicago, June 13 [Friend of the People]. I am appealing to you for assistance, as we are not politicians, therefore we are out in the cold so far as our representatives are concerned. We have appealed to them time and again without any return whatever. I come to you knowing that your valuable paper will do whatever is possible for us before something awful happens to our children. When some one is killed or hurt then and not until then will our ward representatives do anything.

I refer to a building [two flat] at 5707 of our street. This building is on the verge of collapse and our children invariably go there for the excitement. The doors, windows are all out, and plaster is falling constantly. Please use your best influence to have this building taken down or put in such a way that our children cannot enter or play around it.

Then, too, we have a store at 5708 whose manager carries all boxes, barrels, papers, and rubbish out in the vacant lot near this "tumbled down" house and burns everything, causing smoke and burned paper to fly into our homes. It is bad now, but how will it be in summer with our doors and windows open. He could get a wire holder or other holder to hold such rubbish while it burns. As it is now the fire is all over the vacant lot and alley. M. N.

Our inspector reports that this two story brick building is structurally safe at this time, altho windows, doors, and some of the interior partitions have been removed.

The owner has been notified to board up all openings of the building to prevent unauthorized persons from entering.

If this work is not done at the expiration of time allotted in our notice we will proceed according to law.

TRUST ESTATE.

The trustee was also the executor of the estate of the person who left me the legacy. The trustee collected a commission on the entire estate. Could he under Kentucky law collect a second commission on my legacy when he turns it over to me? F. C.

In general, where a will creates a trust, the testamentary trust is regarded as separate from the probate. Presumably the testamentary trustee would be entitled to some compensation. What that would be would depend on the nature of the assets and the extent of his service.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

COL. KNOX WINS COMMITTEE O. K. AS NAVAL CHIEF

Open Fight on Nomination in Senate Monday.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 3.—Denying that he is either a war monger or an interventionist, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago today obtained approval of the senate naval affairs committee as President Roosevelt's nominee for secretary of the navy. The vote was 9 to 5.

Henry L. Stimson, former cabinet officer in two Republican administrations, was approved by the military affairs committee yesterday as Mr. Roosevelt's nominee for secretary of war. Senate consideration of the two appointments will begin next Monday.

Altho there will be strong opposition to the two nominees, both of whom were read out of the Republican party on the eve of its national convention in Philadelphia, their confirmation is assured.

Walsh Issues Statement.

After the naval affairs committee had voted today, Chairman David I. Walsh [D., Mass.] issued a formal statement saying the members had heard many reports to the effect that Col. Knox is an interventionist and that the committee was disposed, if these reports were found to be true, to oppose his confirmation.

"After listening to the testimony," the statement added, "the committee is of the opinion that, altho Col. Knox has expressed extreme views in favor of aid to the allies, he also has declared emphatically his opposition to entering the European war and favors only 'moral and economic' aid to the allies by our citizens as differentiated from economic aid by our government. He stated his opposition to extending any governmental aid that would involve us in the war or would in any degree impair our own defenses, which cleared up the principal issue before the committee."

Five Discount Assurances.

Chairman Walsh was speaking for a majority of the committee, but Col. Knox's assurances apparently were not satisfactory to the five members who voted against confirmation—Senators Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.], Rush D. Holt [D., W. Va.], and Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.].

Voting for confirmation were Chairman Walsh, Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.], Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], Peter G. Gerry [D., R. I.], Charles O. Andrews [D., Fla.], Allen J. Ellender [D., La.], Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.], Frederick Hale [R., Me.], and Warren Barbour [R., N. J.].

Senatorse Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.] and James J. Davis [R., Pa.] were absent and unaccounted for.

In his enthusiasm to persuade the naval affairs committee that he is not a war monger, Col. Knox went so far as to condemn as acts of war two specific proposals made by his prospective cabinet colleague, Mr. Stimson.

Proposes Opening of Ports.

On June 18, two days before his appointment, Stimson proposed in a speech at Yale university that American ports be opened for the servicing of allied warships and that war supplies be sent to the allies "in our own ships and under convoy." At his hearing before the military affairs committee yesterday, Stimson denied that such steps would constitute acts of war. He said they would be acts of "unneutrality necessary for our self-defense."

Senator Bone reminded Col. Knox at today's hearing that the late Admiral William S. Sims stated in a widely quoted address that if the United States ever undertook to assert the doctrine of freedom of the seas "we would have to send our ships in convoys escorted by the navy and that means war."

Asked whether he agreed with that opinion, Col. Knox replied: "I do. Convoys are subject to attack without warning."

Uninformed on Proposal.

Chairman Walsh asked Col. Knox whether he knew anything about reported efforts to open the ports of the United States to British warships. Knox said he knew nothing about it, but that he would oppose such a proposal.

Senator Lucas induced the witness to state for the record that he is neither an interventionist nor a war monger. Lucas quoted a statement by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], made in the senate on June 20, that Knox and Stimson were chosen because of all the interventionists in the Republican party, they stand foremost.

"My understanding is that an interventionist is one who advocates intervening by force," Col. Knox replied. "I'm opposed to that."

Lucas then quoted Wheeler's statement in the senate that the Knox and Stimson appointments would be pleasing to the war mongers.

"Are you a war monger?" Lucas asked.

"I am not," Col. Knox replied.

Blames Term for Hysteria.

Lucas thereupon solemnly expressed the opinion that the use of the term "war monger" is doing as much as anything else to create war hysteria in this country.

Lucas further took exception to a statement in the senate by Senator Holt that "England need not fear today that there will be no coöperation on the part of either Mr. Stimson or Mr. Knox. Such assurance was probably had before they were named to the cabinet."

When Col. Knox denied that any such assurance had been given by him, Holt interposed: "It was the understanding of the President when you were appointed that you favored giving all possible aid short of war to the allies. Wasn't that what England wanted?"

"Unquestionably," Col. Knox replied. "I assume they want even more."

Questioned in Wreck

John L. Wymond, tavern owner, as he appeared at inquest yesterday into the deaths of six teen age merrymakers who were killed in a train-auto crash. He was charged with selling liquor to minors.

TAVERN OWNER ACCUSED AFTER SIX DIE IN CRASH

Faces Charge of Selling Liquor to Minors.

John L. Wymond, owner of a tavern in which three girls and three boys drank free beer shortly before they were killed Tuesday night in a train-auto crash, was charged yesterday with selling liquor to minors. His place, the After Hours club at North avenue and River road, was ordered closed until his case is disposed of.

Bonds of Wymond were set by Police Magistrate Elmer J. Tone of Morton Grove at $2,000. The closing of the tavern was carried out by Lieut. George Le Grue of the county highway police.

An inquest into the six deaths was opened in the Maywood village hall in the morning and was continued after several witnesses testified. One witness, James F. Kelly, 18 years old, 5440 North avenue, told of seeing the six young people in the club. He said that he was one of those who drank free beer by invitation of Wymond, who was giving his annual "appreciation party."

Leave When Girl Becomes Ill.

The accident victims were Lorraine O'Leary, 19 years old, 839 Lombard avenue, Oak Park; Lorraine Norris, 17, of 906 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park; Catherine Clark, 19, of 1204 North Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park; Joseph Santo, 19, of 1251 North Mason avenue; John Brennan, 18, of 5411 Hirsch street, and Francis Frehe, 19, of 1406 North Luna avenue, the driver of the car.

Kelly said all the members of this party had left together when the O'Leary girl complained of being ill. It is believed Frehe started east, then turned around and drove west again to take Miss O'Leary to a hospital in Melrose Park. She was subject to attacks of appendicitis.

As the car approached the Soo Line tracks in North avenue, only a few hundreds yards east of the After Hours club, a train was coming from the north at 50 miles an hour. Herbert R. Wetherell, 224 North Mayfield avenue, testified that several cars had stopped in obedience to a flashing signal, but that the Frehe car pushed past them and was in the center of the track when it was struck.

5 on Invitation List.

Investigators learned that all the dead young people except Frehe were on Wymond's invitation list for the free beer party. The tavern keeper said he didn't know whether they attended or not, and that the free refreshments were cut off at 10 p. m., a half hour before the accident.

The state law makes it a revocable offense for a tavern owner to give as well as to sell to minors.

At a meeting of the west area council of the Chicago Motor club, a campaign was started to have automatic gates established on the Soo Line crossings of North avenue, River road, and 1st avenue in Maywood.

Divorcee at 17

MRS. MARY ANN HUTTON.

Wed at 14, She Spurns Alimony.

Mrs. Marion Taylor Hutton, a bride at 14, looked forward yesterday to life as a divorcée at 17. She decided her experience as wife of a man 27 years her senior hadn't soured her on matrimony, and, as an attractive girl, she foresaw that there would be other suitors.

So, to Judge Rudolph Desort, who granted her a divorce on grounds of desertion from Carl J. Hutton, 44, a lawyer with offices at 9008 Commercial avenue, she expressed the desire that an order for $6 a week temporary allmony entered a month ago be terminated.

"I could use the money," she said, "but I don't want to be handicapped in future courtships. I don't want people pointing me out as an alimony golddigger. That would discourage young men from coming around."

Judge Agrees with Her.

The judge agreed with her viewpoint and granted her request. He also issued an injunction asked by Marion's attorney, Norman Becker, restraining Hutton from persisting in attempts to see her.

"He's too old," said Marion, doubtless reflecting that an ex-husband of mature age might prove just as much of a damper to young swains contemplating matrimony as an order for alimony.

Tells of Desertion.

Marion testified that she was married Aug. 25, 1937, in Crown Point, Ind. She met Hutton when he was acting as counsel for her mother, Mrs. John Taylor, of 9307 81st avenue, Palos Park, who at that time was meditating starting divorce action. Mrs. Taylor, however, abandoned the idea later.

While living with Hutton, Marion continued her studies at Calumet High school. On May 1, 1938, she said, Hutton deserted her.

Attorney Alfred O'Connor, representing Hutton, said Marion actually was 19½ years old, not 17, and that his client had a birth certificate to prove it.

CHICAGO DRIVER KILLED, 3 HURT IN MICHIGAN CRASH

Woman Dies in Fall from Moving Car.

One Chicagoan was injured fatally and three others suffered serious injuries yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding went out of control and crashed against a tree on route 12 a few miles south of St. Joseph, Mich.

Ernest S. Hough, 5335 Magnolia avenue, the driver, was killed. He was vice president and treasurer of the American Cross Arm and Conduit company. Those injured are Mrs. Hough, Mrs. Florence Brown, 4429 North Beacon street, and Miss Ida Trumbull, sister of Mrs. Hough.

Killed in Freak Accident.

Mrs. Dora Brown, 51, 1421 South Lawndale avenue, was killed on route 20, 18 miles east of Gary, while trying to prevent her small grandson from falling from an automobile. Both she and the child, Norman Adler, 3, fell to the pavement. The boy was not seriously hurt.

Joseph Kaufman, 158 South Pulaski road, driver of the car, told police the child apparently opened the rear door and Mrs. Brown was thrown out while trying to grab him. Kaufman and Mrs. Rose Adler, mother of Norman, also of the Lawndale avenue address, were in the front seat.

Passengers Are Shaken.

Forty passengers were shaken up when a northbound Halsted street car and an eastbound Greyhound Lines motor bus collided at Washington boulevard and Halsted street. James Hession, 75, of 3515 Seminary avenue, the street car motorman, was treated at Alexian Brothers hospital for a wrenched back and lacerated right arm.

O. L. Hermans, 4711 Drexel avenue, driver of the bus, told police that he had started across the intersection on a green light when the street car crashed into the bus. Thirty of the passengers were on the bus and the rest on the street car.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 429 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 321 were killed in Chicago, where 11,300 persons were injured in the same period.

SUICIDE INQUEST WITNESS SENT TO STATE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Juanita Thulin, 27 years old, who was a witness at the inquest June 25 into the death of Clinton H. Beckwith, business executive and war hero, was committed to Kankakee State hospital yesterday. A sanity hearing was held in Psychopathic hospital by a commission headed by Probate Judge Paul H. Reis of St. Clair county.

Mrs. Thulin, a divorcée who is a registered nurse, lives at 61 East Goethe street. She collapsed last Thursday night in a restaurant at 1207 North Dearborn street. Physicians said she had taken either poison or an overdose of sedatives.

Beckwith was found dead in an apartment at 5125 Kenwood avenue on June 24 and police said his death resulted from an overdose of sedatives. At the inquest Mrs. Thulin said Beckwith loved her and contemplated divorce. Beckwith's widow, Dorothy, denied this.

Circuit and Superior Courts Start Summer Recess Period

The 36 branches of the Circuit and Superior courts ended their court year yesterday and entered the summer recess period. They will reopen Sept. 4, but each court will operate an emergency branch thru the summer. Cornelius J. Harrington, retiring chief justice of the Circuit court, said six branches of the Criminal court will remain in session.

Sunglass Bandits Raid Theater, Flee with $500

Two gunmen, both wearing sunglasses, entered the Sheridan theater at 4038 Sheridan road yesterday and forced Edward Sauer, the assistant manager, to open the office safe. The bandits seized $500, placed the money in a shopping bag and fled.

SCALISE'S TRIAL ON SIXTY COUNTS SET FOR AUG. 12

New York, July 3 [Special].—Trial of George Scalise, former president of the Building Service Employés International union, who is under indictment on charges of grand larceny, embezzlement, and forgery, today was set for Aug. 12 in General Sessions court before Judge Jacob Gould Schurman Jr.

In assigning the date Judge Saul S. Streit said he wanted "no delay further, even tho there is a change of counsel." He granted a motion by Murray I. Garfein, assistant to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, for a special panel of 250.

The indictment contains 60 counts, the most ever recorded in General Sessions. Scalise is charged with stealing $60,087 from his union during the last three years. He is at liberty in $45,000 bail.

Scalise also was indicted April 25, a month before the 60-count indictment was handed down, for allegedly extorting $97,150 from his union owners and cleaning contractors.

WOMAN IS SENT TO PRISON FOR PENSION FRAUD

Mrs. Dorothy Parks, 38 years old, of Bensenville, was ordered yesterday to serve one year in the women's prison at Dwight by Judge William J. Fulton for obtaining money under false pretenses. She pleaded guilty. Mrs. Parks and her husband, Arthur, were indicted by the Du Page county grand jury last month on a charge of forging old age pension checks totaling $684. They were accused of having cashed the checks, sent to Parks' mother, Alva, after she moved to Michigan in 1937. Parks is held for further investigation.

PAROLE OFFICER SUSPENDED FOR KILLER'S ESCAPE

Warden Alfred F. Dowd of the Michigan City, Ind., prison yesterday announced the suspension for 10 days of Frank Hildenbrand, veteran parole officer, for permitting a recaptured lifer, convicted of murder, to escape June 27 as he was being returned from Hazard, Ky. The lifer, who is still at large, is William Denton, a former trusty who first fled June 15.

Hildenbrand went after Denton when he was caught in Hazard and, his report to the warden said, failed to handcuff him because he had left the handcuff keys at home.

Denton leaped from Hildenbrand's car at night, a mile south of Michigan City. Warden Dowd said the suspension was given because Hildenbrand had failed to take proper precautions to prevent the escape.

Country Clubs Make 4th Safe for Youngsters

BY JUDITH CASS.

HOW to give children their Fourth of July thrills in a safe and sane manner has been solved by the various country clubs in the Chicago area. Nearly all of them have planned special children's events for the holiday, and club members who plan to make the Fourth a family affair at their club may relax in comfort on golf or tennis courts while the "young fry" are amused in safety.

Members of the Lake Geneva Country club, however, are not so much concerned with fireworks today as with their appetites. The 41st anniversary of Lobster day is being celebrated there. More than 100 members and guests will gather for the famous luncheon at which lobster, served in various forms, both hot and cold, will be the pièce de résistance. The club chefs use the traditional recipes first concocted in 1899 by Tracy Drake, the late Charles L. Hutchinson, and the late Martin L. Ryerson, three men who, while renowned, did not win their distinction in the culinary arts.

The first important golf and tennis tournaments of the season will be held during the morning and afternoon, the tennis tournaments to continue thru Sunday.

There'll Be No Fireworks for Golf Club Youngsters.

Youngsters from 2 to 6 years old, who annually are invited to the Fourth of July party at the Chicago Golf club, have been found to fear fireworks. Therefore their entertainment will be limited to games, ice cream, and cake during the afternoon. Older children will stay on for the fireworks display when it grows dark.

All of the children in the neighborhood of the Dunham Woods club will gather on the club lawn to watch the fireworks tonight. Each young guest will be given sparklers, but rockets will be shot from a safe distance across the road. The club will hold its annual midsummer dinner-dance on July 13.

Pony rides from 3 to 6 o'clock and a special program of entertainment from 7 to 9 o'clock will be the highlights of the day for the youngsters whose parents belong to the Exmoor club.

The Glen View club will cater to the tastes of all its young guests. On the program are swimming, a special luncheon, clowns, a Punch and Judy show, and a flag raising ceremony.

A magician will delight the children at the Barrington Hills club. Champion divers and swimmers will provide the entertainment at the Onwentsia. The Indian Hill will have children's swimming and tennis matches. There will be tea and dancing from 5 to 8 o'clock at the swimming pool at the Knollwood club. Motor boat races after colored balloons shot out over the lake will help while away the time at the South Shore Country club until the fireworks display and outdoor dancing in the evening.

Because of the festivities planned for the Fourth a dinner-dance scheduled for tomorrow at the Tavern club has been postponed until July 12.

Leander McCormicks Give Up Trip to Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander McCormick have given up plans for a trip to Mexico this summer. They are waiting anxiously to hear of the safe arrival in this country of Mrs. McCormick's uncle, the Vicomte de Fontarce, who is in Dublin awaiting passage to the United States.

The Vicomte de Fontarce, who is 78, has homes on the Champs Elysees in Paris and in Cannes. Seeking quiet he left France for Dublin, where he breeds racing horses, when the Germans entered his homeland. Accompanied by his Egyptian servant, Marmouth, who was born on the De Fontarce family estate in Egypt, he hopes to sail from Ireland in the next two weeks. He probably will go to Cuba for peace and quiet.

Miss Marie-Blanche McCormick is in New York for the long holiday week-end. She and Miss Byrd Littlefield went east on Monday for a whirl.

Eugene McDonalds Taking Fourth of July Cruise.

Fourth of July houseparties apparently are few and far between this year as the holiday inconveniently falls between working days. However, the Eugene McDonalds sailed last night in the yacht, Mizpah, with guests aboard, for a five day cruise in northern waters. They expect to land at Harbor Springs, in Michigan, at Mackinac Island, and the "Soo." Later in the summer the McDonalds will go for a month's cruise to Georgian bay. Their guests over this week-end are the junior Byron S. Harveys, the Burt Massees, and the Lloyd A. Laflins.

Miss Dorothy MacArthur will be entertaining guests at the summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, in Wausaukee, Wis. Mr. and Mrs. MacArthur, their daughter and her young friends, left by motor yesterday for the cabin. During August the MacArthurs' cabin will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Shepard M. Roberts and their family of Winnetka.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Guenzel Parents of Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Guenzel are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter, their first child, on June 27, at the Presbyterian hospital.

The debutantes will be sleeping late today after the gay dancing party Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Bermingham gave at their home in Lake Forest last night for their debutante daughter, Miss Harriet Bermingham. The dancing was held out of doors. Miss Bermingham, one of the most attractive buds of the season, entertained some of her contemporaries at dinner before the dancing started.

Have Fun Today but Be Careful, Sally's Warning

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Have a good time today, boys and girls—but be careful!

I don't want any of my party winners to show up at the baseball game next Thursday with burned fingers—or worse yet—not be able to come at all because of Fourth of July accidents. One hundred of you boys and girls—50 of each—will be out at Wrigley field with me one week from today, watching the Cubs play Boston, and we don't want any one to miss that party.

Too many children are hurt by firecrackers every year. Remember that you can injure your eyes permanently or lose a finger or hurt yourself in some other way if you're not careful. There are plenty of ways to have fun without injuring yourselves or others, so, once more—be careful!

The boys and girls who will be my guests at our baseball party July 11 have all been selected. I read all your letters yesterday, and the fortunate fifties who will receive personal invitations to our baseball party will see their names listed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

The announcement of our second party will be there, too, so don't miss it!

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., July 5.—"Those," said an obliging guide, "are the ones I feel sorry for—the extras." Everybody's been feeling sorry for the extras for years, but it didn't look so bad to your reporter. Anyhow, they were working.

They were working on a Warner set in a new James Cagney picture, "City of Conquest." The scene was Madison Square Garden, with Cagney, a fighter, doing some fighting. ["He trained for this one," confided an informant. "He runs nine miles from home to the studio every morning." As James might say it, C, yeh?] The extras were ringside customers—more women, I thought, than there'd be at the real Garden, and cuter blondes. All they had to do was sit there and read or knit or write home, and every 20 minutes or so make a noise like a fight crowd for a few seconds during takes.

There were a lot of extras—couple of hundred, maybe. And behind them was a curtain on which were lined the far reaches of the Garden—tiers and tiers of a painted throng. Every once in a while a spot of light would glow behind the curtain—a painted customer lighting a cigaret. Everybody was asked to smoke to make it good and smoky—but it wasn't enough. Two guys with smoke buckets went around squirting vapor and fanning it about with straw circus fans.

The number of extras was controled by the backdrop. It's a rule out here that you have to have one live extra for every four dummies or painted figures.

Lots of interesting movie jobs besides being an extra or a star or a man who knows where a body is buried. Twentieth Century-Fox, for instance, has a squealer—a small blonde named Helen McCoy. Miss McCoy is on the pay roll at a base rate of $25 a day, plus a cash amount per squeal when she works. She squawked in "The Return of Frank James," and her latest task was to yelp at the sight of mice and ra. in "Brigham Young." By sound dubbing her master works will come from the throats of Gene Tierney and Linda Darnell in the picture.

Another job that sounds interesting is that of tree-limb-holder. It's worth about $7 a day, just for holding a leafy limb so it will hang artistically in front of a camera. This is cheaper than a regular tree, which would run to $100, and is much more easily moved.

Then there is one John R. Phelps, an ice holer filler. Fifteen a day this pays, just for skating around a Sonja Henie rink with a pail of water and splashing places that have been gouged.

Another fascinating task is that of Clancy Britzstein, who still uses the same name. Clancy was the desert sweeper on the "Brigham Young" location. When Tyrone Power, Dean Jagger, and the others made their trek to Utah Britzstein cleaned up after them. Cleaned up their footprints; because, as in all movies, everything had to be shot over many times and it wouldn't do to have footprints showing ahead of such Mormons as Jagger and Power. Clancy got $25 a day and his helpers, for $7, would drag burlap over the open spaces the way they fix the infield at Wrigley field. Per square yard it was easier because there were only footprints—no pop bottles.

Between takes the lady sat in a chair marked "Bette Davis" and read a book and smoked. On her right little finger she wore a square of small diamonds which the late Jeanne Eagels wore when she made the first film version of "The Letter."

"I wish," said Miss Davis, "the Hays office would let us use the original version. But no—I've got to be killed in this one because I did a bad thing." The ring was lent to the star for good luck by Helen Broderick, who now owns it.

"No," said Miss Davis, "no summer theater for me after this picture is finished—unless I do a play in Hollywood for the Red Cross. The summer theater isn't what it used to be—and where would I be without it? It's too professional. No more kids playing their heads off in leading roles. A resident equity company, and perhaps a guest star from Hollywood who isn't doing too well."

The Housewife

A cookie jar that would make a handsome gift, one that doubles as a flower container, too, is of earthenware that has been given a beautiful semiglazed finish in pastel colors. The jar is ornamented by a spray of hand painted roses done in oils in a slightly raised effect. And the inner side of the jar is glazed. There's a nice wide opening, with lid at the top. We liked this item especially in pastel yellow with the flowers in rose, pink, and white. But it is lovely, too, in light blue, light pink, and green. And it's most reasonably priced.

Ethel Webster Becomes Bride of W. S. Monroe

In a pretty ceremony at 6 o'clock last evening in the Wayne home of Mr. and Mrs. William Stanton Monroe, their son, Henry S. Monroe, took Miss Ethel Webster as his bride. Only the families were present at the wedding and a supper, but a large reception followed at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride, the daughter of Mrs. Harry G. Webster of Chicago, was given in marriage by her brother, Robert F. Webster. She wore an off-white lace gown with a long train and short sleeves, and long lace mits. Her long veil fell from a cap of lace and flowers, and she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white sweet-peas and yellow marigolds picked from the Monroes' garden.

The three attendants, Miss Lucy Fairbank, Miss Marion Roe, and Miss Margaret Milne, wore pale chartreuse chiffon gowns that were smocked around the waist, and carried leghorn hats filled with white flowers. The Rev. Everett Carr and the Rev. Dudley Stark officiated at the service.

Fred J. Wegg of 3000 Sheridan road announces the marriage yesterday of his daughter, Constance R., to Robert D. Tarjan, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Tarjan of Chicago. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Daniel Murray in the rectory of Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, and was followed by a small reception at the home of the bride's father. Mr. Tarjan and his bride will motor to Canada on a two weeks' wedding trip. They will reside in Chicago. The bride was graduated from the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Chicago and attended the University of Illinois, from which Mr. Tarjan was graduated.

At a military wedding last Saturday Miss Marie Udell Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nathaniel Edwards of Amagansett, N. Y., became the bride of Ensign John Burkhardt Jr., U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by Commander Frank Lash, United States navy chaplain in the navy yard chapel at Bremerton, Wash., and was followed by a reception at the Officers' club. The bride is a graduate of Cedar Crest college in Allentown, Pa. Ensign Burkhardt was graduated from Annapolis in 1938. He and his bride will be at home in Philadelphia after Sept. 1.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

Nine out of ten women prefer a lighter cleansing cream for summer use. The heavy creams that are so necessary in winter seem like too much of a muchness when the skin is inclined to forsake its habit of dryness.

One summer cleanser of which we have become very fond is not only a quick grime chaser and an inexpensive and light one but it's cooling to the skin as well. There's the barest hint of menthol in it and the effect against the skin is delightful.

The cream is pure white, with a peppermintish fragrance, and ever so frothy in texture. It's light but not thin and we have found it one of the most efficient cleansers on the market.

This comes in a huge jar. You can use it generously without feeling extravagant and our guess is that you'll list it as a favorite after the first try.

Feuermann's Private Performance.

There have been some exciting private musical evenings on the north shore since Ravinia opened. Last Friday evening, for instance, when Cellist Emanuel Feuermann, who delighted Ravinia audiences as soloist Thursday and Saturday evenings, played with an amateur string quartet at a friend's house. Mr. Feuermann amazed those present by playing the second violin part to a Beethoven quartet with the violin held like a cello and bowed as if it were a cello, every trill and run perfectly executed. A cigar in his mouth, too, if you would like to know all the details that reached your scribe.

About Alec Templeton.

Alec Templeton, who has been a frequent listener at the Ravinia concerts, went to a friend's house for supper after the concert last Sunday afternoon. The conversation turned to the confusion attendant upon the fact that there are three well known musicians named Serkin, Sorkin, and Sopkin—pianist, violinist, and cellist, respectively. Mr. Templeton went to the piano and improvised, on the spur of the moment, gay verses and music on the subject, beginning "Serkin, Sopkin, and Sorkin. . . ."

Today is, by the way, Alec Templeton's birthday anniversary, but he celebrated it yesterday, as he left the city today. Last night he gave himself and some friends he invited in a symphony concert on the victrola. The brilliant young pianist gives a series of such concerts thruout the season, choosing his programs carefully from his extensive library of symphony recordings. A nice idea other music lovers might adopt.

Fun for July.

Janet Fairbank has been rehearsing some songs by Remi Gassman, now of Chicago, a pupil of Hindemith's, that she will sing with Hans Lange's chamber orchestra in St. Louis tomorrow evening.

"St. Louis, July 5," exclaimed Miss Fairbank to her family when telling them about Mr. Lange's suggestion.

"Maybe the weather won't be so hot," said a member of her family, noticing her tone.

Today's Style Note: It's Red, White and Blue

BY REA SEEGER.

Climb on the bandwagon and beat the big red and gold drums for the American way of fashions . . . fashions in red, white, and blue costume accents. Patriotic jewelry is getting a tremendous ovation. Pin on your shoulders the effective new emblems, red, white, and blue unfurled flags, cocardes of red, white, and blue enamel ribbon, eaglets in size or the huge bald headed eagles with wide spreading wings, one of sapphires, the other of rubies [simulated, of course], and the body of rhinestones.

The flags come in all sizes, from wee affairs scarcely visible to the large lapel pins or clips, or strung on a fine link bracelet to jingle merrily around the wrists. Old-fashioned bar pins or brooches are new because they're of red, white, and blue stones in a row. A pair of flags, complete to the golden colored tassels, are of enamel or the simulated sapphires and rubies.

Vanity cases, flat coin purses, cigaret cases, and even earrings, along with belt buckles, blaze with the three liberty colors. Handbags of snowy white use a flag design on the front face, and while this sounds somewhat showy the result is not.

Belts of red, white, and blue ribbons are matched to hat bands. Bow-knots of red, white, and blue ribbon in enamel and circlets of the same three color combination are available in pins or clips. Wear them on lapels, pocket flaps, on jacket cuffs, or pin to your handbag.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

Nothing is more important in the play of a hand than to maintain one's line of communication from dummy to exposed hand, and vice versa. This being so, it naturally follows that the opponents can do no greater service to themselves than to break that line of communications whenever possible. In the deal below West overlooked a clear opportunity to do some wire-cutting.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 heart	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 no trump	Pass	2 spades
Pass	3 spades	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

Responding to South's takeout double, North had a close choice between one spade and one no trump. He decided in favor of the latter because of the balanced nature of his hand and also because a no trump bid would announce some strength [at least a trick and a half], whereas a one spade bid would be entirely noncommittal. South was not particularly fond of mentioning a four card suit at the two level, but figured that this was the safest procedure. If North felt like dropping the bidding at two spades South would at least have a good, solid suit with which to work and 100 honors for insurance. After North supported the spade bid South then showed the balanced nature of his own hand by returning to no trump, but North, fearing that there might not be a heart stopper in the combined hands, insisted on a trump contract.

West opened the heart king. Declarer won and drew the adverse trumps in three rounds. Now, since declarer could well afford to lose two club tricks if by so doing he avoided the loss of a diamond, and moreover, since he was fairly sure that the club finesse would not succeed [due to the fact that West had opened the bidding originally and East had made no response], he made no effort to enter dummy with a dismond in order to take the club finesse, but instead laid down the club king from his own hand. West won and returned the queen and jack of hearts. Declarer ruffed the second of these and now, with a silent prayer, returned the club jack. The prayer was answered. West could not resist taking the trick, and after he had done so the hand could be laid down. Obviously, with a club left in dummy, declarer could reach his own hand and discard dummy's losing diamond on the fourth club, thereby holding his losses to one heart and two club tricks.

As a matter of fact this contract was impossible of fulfilment against reasonably good defense. If declarer failed to draw all of East's trumps before establishing the club suit East could get a club ruff for the setting trick. The only way of making the hand was to receive substantial aid from West. It was all right for the latter to accept the first club trick offered him, but it required practically no imagination to lay off the club jack and by so doing use up the last club communication card in dummy. There was no reason for West to fear that South had started with only two clubs, the king and jack, and that he was very long in diamonds. If this had been the case South scarcely would have played the clubs as he did, but would have gone right out after the diamonds. Declarer's actual holding should have been superobvious to West and the proper defense should have been likewise.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Madge Darmeny, a childless widow, finds she has but a few months to live and sends for her nearest relatives, her own niece, Leda, and her husband's nephews, Frank and Geoffry. She wants to select the most deserving heir unbeknown to them. Pretending to retrench financially, she suggests they all live with her on her large estate. Amelia Pennyfather, a distant cousin, and an eavesdropping old maid, already lives with Madge. Leda is married to Frank, but is having an affair with Geoffry, who is unprincipled, but has managed to become Madge's favorite thru his flattery. Frank has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by a former marriage, and Shirley Westall, Madge's secretary and close neighbor, is acting as Betsy's governess. Frank, miserable because he suspicions Leda and Geoffry, sees the sweetness of his first wife in Shirley and falls in love with her, the because of his high moral standards, he does not declare his love. Shirley, devoted to Betsy, sympathizes with Frank and soon finds her sympathy turning to love. Madge, anxious for Geoffry to settle down, suggests that he marry Shirley. Geoffry, tiring of Leda, and anxious to stay Madge's favorite, pays court to Shirley. Leda gets jealous, and after a number of fits of rage, Madge begins to see her and Geoffry in their true light and decides to change her will in which she has left Geoffry most of her estate. Amelia eavesdrops and hears about the new will and about Madge's ill health. Having a crush on Geoffry, she tells him what she has heard. He gets Madge's keys to her safe and reads both wills. The new one which is to be signed that week has left the estate to Frank. Geoffry is wild and in a fit of temper starts out to the Westall cottage to see Shirley. Frank, who has been there to see Mr. Westall, who is an old friend of his, comes out of the house with Shirley. Geoffry waits for him until Shirley goes back in the house, then waylays him and threatens to get Shirley as he got Leda. Frank knocks him down, loosening Geoffry's front teeth. Leda in one of her tantrums admits to both Frank and Madge her love for Geoffry. Geoffry goes to the city to see his dentist, and Madge waits up for him, wanting to talk things over with him.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

OVERDOSE.

Poor Geoffry would feel that he had been kicked out of Beechbourne by the aunt who professed to love him so dearly. Amelia bitterly regretted having told him what she had discovered. All very well for dear Madge to say that Frank could be trusted to deal fairly by Geoffry. Could any one deal fairly by a man he hated as Frank hated Geoffry? And that Alfred Barnes, too; he had no use for Geoffry, either.

The eleventh hour . . . but it still wasn't too late. If Geoffry would only try he might be able to get around his auntie.

And then Amelia's heart began to pound like mad.

A car was turning into Beechbourne. Not noisily, but almost as tho it was crawling in, hoping not to be noticed.

It must be Geoffry; it couldn't be anybody else at this time of night.

Amelia craned cautiously over the bannisters, but drew back when she heard the study door open.

"Is that you, Geoffry?" Madge called out.

"Yes, it is," he replied thickly.

"Will you come in here a minute?"

He shrugged and seemed to hesitate. Then he said: "Certainly, if you wish it."

Geoffry hadn't been drinking tonight, but he presented a ruffianly appearance.

His mouth was cut and swollen, and obviously he had spent considerable time with the dentist, who had erected a sort of superstructure for his loosened teeth that made speech difficult.

"Shut the door," said Madge.

He did so, but refused to take up the traditional position on the mat. He didn't have to be even civil to her any more.

He lounged ungracefully into the chair reserved for Alfred Barnes or some other privileged visitor.

"Geoffry, I can't tell you how sorry I am this has happened. I've been so uneasy about you. And now . . . Leda."

"To hell with Leda. And why should you be uneasy about me? You've fixed things fine for me, haven't you?"

Madge leaned forward.

"What exactly do you mean by that?" she asked, taking no account of his rudeness.

"This new will you've told Barnes to draw up for you. Tomorrow is the happy day, isn't it? I must think of some way to celebrate."

"Who told you about my intentions to make a new will?" Madge asked sharply.

"Amelia, of course."

"How did she know?"

"Ask me another. Apparently she did know. I supposed you had told her."

"This is all very mystifying," Madge said. "Nobody knows but Frank and Alfred—at least, I told nobody else, and I only told Frank yesterday. I can't imagine how Amelia came to know about it."

"She knows pretty well everything. It would be a miracle if anything managed to escape her. But the fact remains, that after all these years, after leading me on to believe that Beechbourne would be mine some day, including the means to keep it in running order, you've ratted on me. You plan to set the man I hate more than anybody else in the world in my rightful place."

"Not your rightful place, if you're not fit to maintain it. It is no more your rightful place than it is Frank's. I had you both come here so I could see for myself and choose between you. I am arranging that you will be provided for properly. You're not being left destitute."

"Be careful, please."

"Oh, you can cut me out of the whole damn business, for all I care. You're doing it, with your 'mercy clause.' I'm to be dealt with at the discretion of your precious Alfred and Frank! They're to give me what they think I deserve, and I wonder how much you think that will be?"

"How do you know all this?" Mrs. Darmeny demanded. "How did you get hold of these details? Amelia couldn't possibly have told you. They've never been discussed verbally."

She half turned and glanced over her shoulder at the old-fashioned safe.

"My keys . . . that morning I thought I must have left them here. I put a rough draft of the changes I proposed to make in that safe. Is it possible—is it remotely possible that you or Amelia Pennyfather——?"

"You'd better ask Amelia," Geoffry said. "How would I know?"

"Oh, Geoffrey, I can't believe that either of you would stoop to anything so low."

"Amelia happens to be fond of me. I can't at the moment, think of anybody else who is. I suppose nothing I can say or do now would induce you to reconsider this act of unpardonable injustice you are contemplating?"

"If anything—what has happened tonight only convinces me how very right I am. You are not fit for such a responsibility. That doesn't mean I don't love you, my dear. In spite of your abominable behavior, and rudeness, I'm still very fond of you, but Beechbourne is too big, too important——"

Geoffry saw the gesture

"Oh, yes, and Amelia told me too, that some big doctor has said you're likely to crack up any time," he said cruelly.

There was a hungry, gloating look in his eyes, but Madge Darmeny appeared neither to hear nor see him.

Her attention at that moment was withdrawn. There was something more she wanted to say; something about Leda. It was very, very important.

"Geoffry—in the cabinet on the table behind me . . . there's a bottle of those drops I take. You'll find a glass and a jug of water. Measure ten drops into a little water, please. There's a medicine dropper."

He got up with an appearance of reluctance; his eyes fastened on her face—so gray, as tho powdered with ashes.

And then suddenly he remembered something else Amelia had told him. That medicine was very powerful; an overdose might be dangerous, even fatal.

"Please hurry," Madge said in a shaky whisper.

"Ten drops?" Geoffry asked.

He held the bottle poised in his hand. He had no intention of bothering about the medicine dropper.

There couldn't be a better time for her to die. She was doomed, anyway.

"Yes," she said faintly. "Ten drops. No more. Hurry, please."

"I am—but I have to measure out the drops," he said.

He had almost his old manner of tenderness as he supported her head and held the glass to her lips.

"There, you'll feel better presently."

"Thank you, Geoffry," she gasped.

She seemed to rouse a little, and, then suddenly she gave a great cry and her body stiffened; one arm flew out and dashed the glass from his hand. It fell to the parquet with a musical crash.

"Geoffry, what have you done to me?" Madge cried. "You've killed me—you've killed me!"

It was over in that instant.

Her body slumped heavily over the arm of her chair, inert, lifeless.

July 4, 1940.

Universal Day—This is a 7-day, bringing the realization of spiritual values, so "Independence" ought to have a deeper significance.

Month Ahead—July is a 5-month for those born today, but since they are in a 7-year the freedom usually felt will be restricted somewhat. It is the best month for taking a trip to new scenes and making new contacts. An excellent time for "seeing America first." Don't seek the crowded resorts this year even tho you may crave a little excitement this month. Remember this is your quiet year.

Year Ahead—A 7-year calls for study, reflection, and self-analysis. There is plenty wrong with the world. How much have you contributed to the foggy thinking?

Good Morning!

Wacky, but FUN—this adaptation of Thorne Smith's screwy book!

The story's about a pair of young marrieds, each of whom thinks the other's life a bed of roses. . . . They wish that they could change places—and are enabled to do that very thing by Mr. Ram, an Egyptian idol, who occupies a niche in their bedroom and comes alive at psychological moments. . . . Retaining their individual appearance, each is vested with the personality of the other. . . .

You can imagine the consternation in Tim's office when the dynamic boss comes flittering and fluttering to his he man job, AND the horror of her servants and friends when Madame shouts at them in a deep bass voice, climbs poles, and otherwise is NO LADY. . . .

Each learns secrets that never would have been divulged to the other half [if my writing seems complicated wait till you see the cinema] and as for the finale—WELL! . . .

All of the acting is tops and, judging from the chuckles and shrieks with which an Apollo audience greeted this merry so and so, "Turnabout" is definitely "box office."

See you soon.

First Group Departs Tomorrow for Camp of Salvation Army

Two hundred mothers and children will leave Chicago tomorrow evening via the Soo line railroad for a 10 day vacation at the Salvation Army's Wonderland camp, near Antioch. The group is the first of five of similar size which will attend the camp this summer.

The oldest woman in the group is a 57 year old grandmother accompanying her 7 year old grandson, an orphan. The youngest child is two months old. She will go with her mother and a three year old brother. A group of 20 crippled children will depart Monday for a summer long stay at the camp, making the trip by bus.

The Children's Memorial hospital, the Municipal Social Hygiene league, the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county, Evanston charities, and the Association House all aided in choosing the campers who depart tomorrow.

Painting Helps Both House and Householders

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Psychologists have asserted for a long time that the wise use of cheerful colors, in and around a home, stimulates our sense of well being. In these war clouded days, home tonics, administered in the form of new painted surfaces, can even counteract the effect of disquieting news! For color is a potent antidote for fears and apprehensions. And whatever we do for our own rooftrees, which are safe and stable refuges in troubled times, is satisfaction and inspiration for the entire family group.

But color isn't the only important object of paint: its prime purpose is to preserve. The main object of all types, whatever their shade or lack of shade, since some oils and varnishes are colorless and transparent, is to protect the surface.

If this protective work is to be satisfactory, not only must good quality paint be selected, and properly applied, but the paint must be suitable for the job it is to do.

A good paint dealer will be able to advise on type to use—and how it is to be used.

For kitchens and bathrooms and laundry rooms, high gloss enamel and egg shell are suitable surfacings, since they offer protection from steam as well as from spots and spatters of grease. But for other interior walls of a house there are the lovely velvety flat paints which can add to the beauty of a room, whether applied over plaster, wood or wall board. Such paints, however, would fail utterly if they were applied to a floor where traffic is heavy and punishment must be taken.

These days are fine days for outdoor painting of all kinds. Naturally, your outdoor furniture needs a different finish from your indoor pieces, and your brick or stucco or wood exterior walls demand a different treatment from your inner woodwork, walls and trim.

If you want to waterproof exterior walls, invest in a good colorless coating. For dampish interior and exterior masonry surfaces, use a paint with a cement base. This type of paint is also good for a cement floor. There are excellent deck and porch enamels also, for cement or wood floor that is thoroly dry.

For an interior wall which is absolutely dry and no damp resistant surfacing is necessary, calcimine is an inexpensive treatment. Casein paints can be used on either plaster or masonry. If you want a textured finish on some room there are special plastic paints to use, and many varnish stains are available for all manner of small pieces as well as for floors and trim.

Spar varnish is a fine, clear protective finish for out of door use, on metal or wood furniture as well as porch floors, and it can also be used on wood drainboards in your kitchen.

Improvements without end have been made in the manufacture of paints in the last few years, and the value of renewing old paint coatings cannot be overstressed—when need for that renewal is evident.

Child Should Rest During a Summer Trip

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

From one who has taken many day's jaunts to the country or the seashore with young children, take this hint if you're planning such outings:

Manage somehow, to make them rest or sleep at least once during the long, sunny, windblown day outdoors. And I mean a real rest, not just a few minutes of sitting still. Your whole jaunt will work out better, and when the homeward trek starts you're less apt to have a dragging weary child on your hands.

Children will go until they drop. Their verve, their eagerness, their enthusiasm for play will carry them on until they reach the end of their rope. At least, this is true of most children. Therefore, those who are in charge of them must intervene.

If you have a little girl or boy who is of the "live wire" type before whose pleas you weaken on a day's trip, harden your heart and insist on a resting time. After the picnic lunch is eaten, insist that they either sit quietly or lie down in a shaded place—a beach parasol or under a boardwalk at the shore, under a tree or near a stone wall in the country. They need the rest and they also need the cooling effect of quiet on a warm summer day.

You might tuck their favorite book into the picnic basket and bring it out and read to them for the first part of their rest time. The whole day will be more fun for them in the end—and for you—because nothing is more disturbing than a hot, tired child.

("Care of the Baby in Summer" is the name of a leaflet gladly sent to you upon receipt of a stamped, envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.)

It's the Fourth of July, a holiday, and if you're not going to the beach or to a picnic, perhaps you'd be interested in a little kitchen fun at home, fun such as making a batch of fudge for the family.

The two important rules of good fudge making are [1] boil the mixture to the proper temperature, usually about 234 degrees, which is the soft ball stage, and [2] cool the sirup to lukewarm before beating it.

If there's much candy made around your house you need a candy thermometer, which gives an accurate check on cooking and eliminates the guesswork which so often produces unsuccessful candy.

"Simple Homemade Candies," 5 cents by mail, is a booklet full of helps and delicious recipes for the candy maker. The first recipe in this group is from the booklet.

Easy Fudge.

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
¾ cup milk
2 tablespoons light corn sirup
2 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Add chocolate to milk and heat over low burner. Cook until mixture is blended, stirring constantly. Add corn sirup, sugar, and salt. Stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling, without stirring, to 234 degrees, the soft ball stage. Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla. Cool candy until lukewarm. Beat until it begins to thicken and lose its gloss. Turn at once into a greased 8 by 4 inch pan. Cut in squares when cold.

VARIATIONS.

1. Add ¾ to 1 cup broken nutmeats just before pouring.
2. Cut marshmallows into fine pieces with wet scissors and sprinkle chopped nuts and marshmallow bits over the bottom of the greased pan before pouring fudge.

Maple Honey Fudge.

1¼ cups sugar
¼ cup honey
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon maple flavoring
1 cup broken nut meats

Combine all ingredients except nuts. Cook to 238 degrees [still the soft ball stage] and cool to lukewarm. Add flavoring. Beat until creamy, add nuts, and pour into greased pan.

Chocolate Honey Fudge.

2 cups sugar
1 square chocolate, cut in pieces
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup evaporated milk
2 tablespoons butter
¼ cup honey
1 cup broken nuts

Boil sugar, chocolate, salt, and milk mixture for 5 minutes. Add honey and cook to 235 degrees. Add butter and cool to lukewarm. Beat until creamy, add nuts, and pour into buttered pan.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

By WYNN

Thursday, July 4.

Strong concentration today of forces leading to better things. Face and solve problems, if any, with superiors or inferiors. Use evening hours to look ahead on matters of business and finance; make good plans.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from this to next birthday will find you progressing and succeeding, or falling back and losing in proportion to what you have earned from other people, older and wiser. Danger: Oct. 17-28; Feb. 23-March 8, 1941.

Tomorrow.

Do you want an individual interpretation for your own personal date? Every important period is indicated for you, according to the laws of astrology. Send 10 cents to Wynn, Tribune Astrologer, 286 Fifth avenue, New York City. Write plainly your name, date of birth, and address.

Versatile Summer Pattern

MISS' SUMMERTIME PATTERN.

It may be a daytime frock, an informal "date" dress, or a housecoat which you need. In any case this pattern obliges. The waistline is the salient factor of this design. Notice how it points down into the skirt in both back and front. The skirt itself is paneled for graceful flare. As for the neckline, it's optionally styled, with the wide and round or the square styles the favorites. Sleeves may be long or short, and in both instances are slightly puffed at the shoulders. A couple of "fake" pockets at the waistline is a decorative touch.

The original of the frock is created in printed cotton and is trimmed with ready made ruffling. Buttons, too, are used for trimming. The housecoat version uses rickrack braid at neckline, on sleeves, and in bands around the hemline of the full skirt.

Style No. 3361 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 2¼ yards of ruffling for street dress; 4⅝ yards, with 12 yards of braid, for the housecoat.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

STARS AND STRIPES DRAWS FIELD OF 15 TODAY

CUBS BEAT PIRATES, 7 TO 5; SOX ROUT TIGERS, 12 TO 7

MATTICK'S HIT IN EIGHTH INNING BRINGS VICTORY

Passeau Scores 8th Triumph.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, after frittering away a nice comfortable lead and thus getting so close to a beating that they were feeling uncomfortable, got around to some serious work yesterday in the eighth inning. Lady luck did them a few favors, whereupon Bob Mattick bashed a clean single to right with the bases filled. The result was a 7 to 5 victory over Pittsburgh's Pirates for the rubber decision of the three game series in Wrigley field.

In the course of an exhibition that dragged on like a political speech, Claude Passeau attached his season's eighth victory, bringing him back to the .500 mark. His pitching, however, wasn't exactly of a deceptive variety, the Pirates having one or more on base in all except one inning. Their persistence about getting to base, one way or another, not only chiseled away Passeau's early three run lead but put him in arrears in the seventh. Double plays rescued the ex-Phil from two of his tightest jams.

They Finally Chase Bauers.

Truett Sewell started for the Pirates, but the Cubs intervened in his behalf, and he was excused early. He retired in favor of John Lanning in the third, by which time hits by Bill Nicholson, Phil Cavarretta, Jim Gleeson and even Passeau had put together a 4 to 1 lead. But in the next inning the Cubs went into a sudden decline, due to the expertness of Russ Bauers, who held them to one hit in four innings, only to tumble from his perch in the eighth, when three infield hits loaded the bases with none out. This was where Mattick stepped in with his single after two had been retired.

The Cubs gave Passeau a one run lead in the second, which Nicholson opened with a single to center, later going to second on Augie Galan's tap and home on Cavarretta's double to right. With the assistance of Umpire Jorda, Bob Collins beat out a hit to Lee Handley, after which Mattick grounded into a double play.

Mattick Tosses Away a Run.

The Pirates recovered the run in the third, Handley opening with a single to right, going to third on infield outs and scoring when Mattick threw wild on Arky Vaughan's grounder. Elbie Fletcher then walked, but Passeau got out of difficulty by fanning Maurice Van Robays.

Passeau was responsible for setting up the three run lead he couldn't hold. He opened the home third with a triple to right. The next happening was free passage for Stan Hack. Herman flied to Vince DiMaggio, Passeau scoring, and when DiMag's throw-in went wild Hack traveled all the way to third, whence he counted on a single by Gleeson. Gleeson sprinted to third on Nicholson's single and scored while Nicholson was being forced on Galan's grounder to Frank Gustine.

The Pirates took away one piece of Passeau's lead on Spud Davis' double and Handley's single in the third, but they weren't quite that gentle with the ex-Philly in the next inning. Bob Elliott led off with a hit to Mattick in deep short. Vaughan

TIGERS RECALL PITCHERS SMITH AND HUTCHINSON

Detroit, Mich., July 3 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers sought to strengthen their pitching staff today by recalling two youngsters from the minors.

Fred Hutchinson, for whom the Tigers paid Seattle of the Pacific Coast league a reported $70,000 before the start of the 1939 season, is being brought up from Buffalo of the International league. Hutchinson has won five games and lost three.

Clay Smith, a member of the Buffalo club last year, is to join Detroit from Beaumont of the Texas league. He has won 12 games and lost four this season.

At the same time it was announced that Lynn Nelson, veteran right hander obtained from the Philadelphia Athletics last year, would join Buffalo subject to recall on 24 hour notice.

Marvin Ward Off for Western Amateur Today

Spokane, Wash., July 3 (AP).—Marvin Ward, national amateur golf champion, will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis to enter the Western Amateur golf tournament there next week.

Rest Easy, New York—You Won't Get Baer-Louis Match

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 3.—Max Baer probably has put Tony Galento out of work permanently by his eight round technical knockout of the tubby bartender last night in Jersey City.

Baer plodded along, punching his puffy foe at will, but for all his efforts, he scarcely demonstrated adequate reason why he should be the next opponent for Joe Louis, heavyweight champion. Somewhere along the primrose path Baer has lost the punch which once made him the heavyweight ruler.

However, if Baer and Galento both were removed from the pugilistic scene Louis also might be out of work. Consequently Promoter Mike Jacobs today was preparing for his annual September title production with Maxmilian Adelbert Baer in the cast. Just why Baer should be happy over this misfortune will remain a mystery. Louis saw last night's grudge match. He seemed uninterested.

New York Is Scared.

Two years before Louis became champion he stopped Baer in four rounds in Yankee stadium. All will admit that Baer cannot have improved, altho against Galento Max did display courage that was missing when he faced Louis and took a humiliating beating in 1935.

New York fans are predicting Baer and Louis will fight in Chicago in September. Their insistence borders on demand and stems from fear that the fight might be thrust upon unwilling Manhattan. New York sat thru two Louis-Arturo Godoy fights and watched the unfortunate bout between Johnny Paycheck and Louis. It has lost its desire for heavyweights.

Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois Boxing commission, conferred with Jacobs today and any day now you can expect to read a formal announcement that the fight has been awarded to Chicago.

There Are Mysteries.

Last night's show left some questions important to Promoter Jacobs and the fighters which are unlikely to be solved in public. These include the shrinkage in attendance. If Roosevelt stadium seats 35,000, as Jersey City claims, at least 30,000 saw Baer lick Galento. Paid attendance was 22,711, which only can be explained by an unusually large complimentary list.

While there were only five press rows, which included two for nonworking gents with political and social connections, there were tickets marked "Press" that called for 12th row seats. From personal investigation we also know that one section was marked "ringside messenger" with tickets as far back as 15 rows. These tickets escaped federal and state taxes.

Receipts were announced as $98,004. Baer and Galento each received 27½ per cent of the net receipts of $70,846, which amounted to $19,269 apiece. With less than a fifth of Galento's purse going to Herman Taylor and Harry Mendel, his managers, Tony will be able to pay for the alterations to his Day Street saloon.

Mike May Hold Bag.

Tony also may have lawyer's fees since last night relatives of the late Joe Jacobs, who originally signed for the Baer bout as Galento's manager, took the first step in effort to collect on the theory Jacobs' share should go into his estate.

Ten stitches were taken in Tony's face last night and his left hand was placed in splints today. X-rays of the injured hand, Dr. H. W. Smith of Orange said, revealed the second knuckle had been broken.

Baer expects to spend the next few days at Asbury Park with his wife and child, who arrived yesterday. On Monday he will return to California.

Runnin' Wild!

There's always the chance that one of the great backs on the College All-American or the Green Bay Packers football team will run wild thru a broken field to win the game when these two teams meet on Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28. But whether a player achieves this fame or not you'll want to see the seventh annual charity contest sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., for there's action aplenty ahead. Send your check or money order, made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., to All-Star ticket manager, Tribune Tower. The prices:

WHITE SOX SCORE SEVEN IN NINTH; HIT TWO HOMERS

Wright Delivers with the Bases Filled.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—The White Sox, spurred, perhaps, by Manager Jimmy Dykes' tremendous and highly justifiable grouch, today knocked the Tigers out of first place, the spot in which they so graciously installed them yesterday. The Sox won, 12 to 7, in a contest in which 11 of the 19 runs were scored in the ninth inning.

The Sox were rampant in two innings, the fifth, in which they scored four runs and knocked out Dizzy Trout, and the ninth, which featured a pinch homer with the bases loaded by Taft Wright, followed by a homer with one on by Bob Kennedy. Jack Knott, who had lost six games and won none since his 1 to 0, two hit masterpiece here on May 11, achieved his third victory of the season. Jack had to be relieved for the last putout of the game. John Rigney went in and fanned Rudy York to halt a rally, which had mounted to four runs when Hank Greenberg cleared the loaded bases with a double, the 12th hit off Knott.

Kuhel Gets Four in Row.

Wright's four run homer in his rôle of pinch hitter for Eric McNair, the earnest nervous wreck, was the highlight of the encounter, but Joe Kuhel's bat was a more prolonged factor. After being called out on strikes in the first inning, Joseph knocked four singles, three of which figured in run production.

After Trout had struck out at the start of the Tigers' third, Dick Bartell walked and stopped at third on Barney McCosky's double to right center. Charley Gehringer flied to Mike Kreevich, Bartell scoring the first run of the game.

The Sox tied the score in the fourth. With one down Kuhel singled to center. Julius Solters singled to right, putting Kuhel on third, and when the ball got thru Bruce Campbell, Kuhel scored and Solters reached third. Larry Rosenthal walked for the second time, then McNair grounded into a double play started by Red Kress.

Sox Go Ahead.

This is the way the Sox took the lead in the fifth: With one out, Kennedy drew the second of his three passes and advanced on Knott's sac-

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

An overturned fishing boat probably cost Louisiana State's squad the undisputed national intercollegiate golf championship last week. . . . Henry Castillo, captain of the Bayou Tigers, threw his right arm out of its shoulder socket in pushing the aforesaid skiff toward shore last spring. . . . He shot a 73 in the first qualifying round at Ekwanok last week, then tossed the shoulder out of whack again in swinging to the fifth green of the second round. . . . He wound up in the middle 80's and L. S. U. had to share the team trophy with Princeton. . . . The July issue of the University of Illinois Alumni News, circulation 65,000, carries a ballot to support the candidacy of Mel Brewer, Jim Reeder, and Bill Lenich for membership on the All-Star football squad. . . . The mutuel handle during the first week of the Arlington meeting showed an average daily increase of $73,000 over the same period last year. . . . Bobby Lowe, first player to make four homers in a major league game, lives in Detroit. . . . Bob Haak, former Indiana tackle, has signed to play with the Brooklyn Dodgers eleven again this fall but he is not certain whether or not he will return to the pro ranks. . . . He is operating a bowling alley in Bloomington, Ind. . . . Harold Carlson's Colorado university baseball teams have won 102 games and lost only 31 since he started coaching there in 1928. . . . Eddie Cicotte is manager of a semi-pro league team in Dearborn, Mich. . . . Joe Klugman, second baseman with the Cubs in 1922, is chief of police at Moberly, Mo., a candidate for sheriff of Randolph county in the November election and still finds time to promote an amateur league for the American Baseball congress. . . . While Promoter Mike Jacobs has made no definite announcement, you can put it down that Joe Louis will defend his title against Max Baer in Chicago in mid-September.

Carl Snavely of Cornell, a member of last year's All-Star coaching staff, recently told a summer school class that he never wanted to see one of his receivers catching passes over the shoulder. . . . Paul Szakash, Montana university half back who has signed to play pro ball with the Detroit Lions, suffered a broken leg while sliding into a base in a Montana State league game last week. . . . It's 35 miles from his home on Russian hill in San Francisco to the Stanford campus in Palo Alto. . . . Marion Pugh, quarter back who is scheduled to fill one of the few vacancies on Texas Aggies' football team, is attending summer school for the purpose of lightening his scholastic work next fall. . . . The Western league has only four cities and they are all in different states. . . . They are in Norfolk, Neb., Sioux Falls, S. D., Sioux City, Ia., and Worthington, Minn. . . . Three famed athletes have sons attending Duke university. . . . They are Lefty Grove of the Red Sox; Tommy Armour, Chicago golf pro, and Doc Prothro, manager of the Phillies. . . . Copping the Cream.

The news tales of Wen Willkie's youth
All stress the fact, 'twould seem,
That when he was a lad back home
He loved to steal ice cream.

Come a social in the neighborhood,
Young Willkie, playful geezer,
Never failed, the sagas say,
To swipe the ice cream freezer.

So all you lads now growing up,
Every youthful resident,
Hark you well to the trait that may
One day make you President.

Whenever you hear of a party,
Just purloin the old ice cream,
And one fine day the White House
May be your home, 'twould seem.

Independence Day.

Americans for many years
Regarded this their day of days,
Made it a symbol in their lives,
Held sacred in their hearts always;
And orators thruout the land
Reminded all their debt to pay
To those who followed Washington
Thru bitter night and darker day.

They "waved the flag"—and proudly, too,
In sincere tribute to the past—
To soldiers and to pioneers
And patriots who'd long since passed.
They spoke of honoring the flag,
Of what "Old Glory" meant to all;
Declaimed with patriotic zeal
The Stars and Stripes would never fall.

But passing years have wrought a change
Among Americans today.
Sophisticated folk reject
The phrases of another day.
The "wavers of the flag" are bores—
To be avoided or dismissed
By some who take this nation's gifts
But on more "modern" thoughts insist.
Americans, again arise
And proudly raise up to the skies
The flag which stands for this great land—
A land where freedom never dies.
A beacon in a mad, sad world,
Let's see its stars and stripes unfurled,
Inspiring us, as those of yore
When winds of hate around them swirled.

*Woolford farm entry.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The biggest holiday crowd of Chicago's racing season will gather at Arlington Park this afternoon to watch Charles S. Howard's Advocator, W. E. Boeing's Porter's Mite, Woolford farm's Joe Schenck, and other stake performers match their speed in the $13,000 Stars and Stripes handicap, one of the traditionally colorful features of the meeting.

Fifteen were named in the overnight entries for the 12th running of this event. Advocator, which showed definite signs that he has returned to the form which carried him to six consecutive victories in the east, is expected to be established as the favorite. His celebrated stablemate, Seabiscuit, attempted to win the Stars and Stripes in 1938, but was beaten by Mrs. Emil Denemark's War Minstrel in one of the startling upsets, which have marked many of Arlington's famous stakes.

James to Ride Advocator.

Advocator has appeared twice before Chicago's race fans during the present meeting. He went into the Inaugural handicap as the 2 to 1 favorite, but could do no better than second to Technician after racing wide most of the way. In that seven furlong sprint he finished powerfully, coming from fifth place at the head of the stretch.

Trainer P. F. Dwyer sharpened him up with another seven furlong dash in an allowance event several days after the Inaugural. Again he began slowly but came on so fast in the stretch that he got up to beat Calumet farm's Easy Mon by nearly a length. The distance of a mile and an eighth will give him much more leeway in which to operate this afternoon. Jockey Basil James will fly out from New York to ride Advocator.

Porter's Mite, which became a member of the aristocracy by winning the Belmont Futurity of 1938, has failed to live up to the prestige that goes with a victory in that event, but he has shown enough ability to make him dangerous in today's handicap.

Woolford Pair to Run.

The Woolford farm stable will be represented by Joe Schenck and Unerring. The latter, which was one of the country's best 3 year old fillies last season, made a sluggish effort in the Matron stakes last Saturday, finishing seventh to Shine O'Night. She had not been racing much recently, however, and many of her followers believe that she needed that one start to get set for a more serious effort. Her stablemate, Joe Schenck, was a stake winner during the Lincoln Fields meeting and finished third to Technician and Advocator in the Inaugural at Arlington.

Trainer Roy Waldron will send the Milky Way farm stable's No Competition into the Stars and Stripes. Tho this horse ran indifferently in the Inaugural, he has shown improvement in subsequent workouts. Kirby Ramsey's Mucho Gusto, winner of two stakes at Lincoln Fields, is among the Stars and Stripes entries.

Charlton Clay's Colosseum and Joseph E. Widener's Plowshare won the two divisions of the Downers Grove purse, a six furlong dash which headed yesterday's program. Both were well backed, Colosseum returning $8.80, $4.60, and $3.20, and Plowshare $6.40, $3.60, and $2.60.

It's Colosseum in a Romp.

Colosseum moved up gradually on the turn, overtook the pacemaker, One Witch, at the eighth pole, and drew out easily to win by more than three lengths. Alhalon took third money.

In the second division of the race Barre Granite, a high grade colt making his first start since last fall, cut out the pace under strong challenges by Jeanne D'Arc and Arched. The latter gave up on the turn, but Jeanne D'Arc held on with determination under a handicap of being in close quarters along the rail. In midstretch Plowshare came up swiftly, got to the front in the last sixteenth, and won drawing away. He crossed the finish line more than two lengths ahead of Barre Granite.

HAWAII'S BOXING CHAMPIONS OPEN TRAINING GRIND

Invaders Are Confident of Defeating C. Y. O.

BY FRANK MASTRO.

The Hawaiian amateur boxers, confident and well mannered, yesterday started workouts in C. Y. O. center gymnasium for their bouts with Catholic Youth organization color bearers in Soldiers' field Wednesday night.

The visitors, who arrived in Chicago on Tuesday, completing a 4,679 mile journey from Honolulu, were in great form. George Medeiros, heavyweight member of the squad, and Ray Quintal, captain and light heavyweight, were especially confident.

"We expect to win," the 192 pound Medeiros said. "If we don't win we will be sad."

Quintal chipped in with this comment:

"This is a fine, well balanced team we brought to Chicago. I cannot see why we can't take home the bacon, as you say in this country."

They Like Their Work.

After these declarations the young men resumed their training chores. Each boy went three rounds of three minutes each. The intersectional encounters are scheduled for three rounds at two minutes.

"The added minute to each round during drills will help our boys travel at full speed in the fights," Coach Dan Gonzales said.

Previous to yesterday's workout, the invaders did roadwork in Grant park. The lads will follow this routine daily until the day before the matches when they will do only light exercises. They train at 3:30 p. m.

"You mean to say you will have the boys work out today, the Fourth of July?" the coach was asked.

"Yes sir," Gonzales replied. "Holiday or no holiday, the boxers must be given every opportunity to hold the fine edge they had when we left Honolulu. Our followers in Hawaii expect us to win. We cannot win if we are not in the best possible condition."

Boxers Watch Bike Races,

After dinner last night the team was escorted to the C. Y. O. amateur bicycle races in Humboldt park. Tonight the delegation will attend a fireworks display in Soldiers' field.

Meanwhile, 54 C. Y. O. representatives are encamped at Renehan's lodge in Round Lake, Ill., fighting it out for the 10 places on the intersectional team. One of the most conscientious workers on the squad is Cornelius Young, 1940 Golden Gloves and 1939 C. Y. O. heavyweight title holder. Young, who left for camp on Sunday weighing 204 pounds, 14 more than his fighting weight, is trying to beat out James Stitt for the right to oppose Hawaii's Medeiros. Bim June, Dave Brown, and Hubert Hood are among the light heavyweights striving to earn the encounter with Quintal.

HOMER BEATS GIANTS.

New York, July 3 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers blasted six runs in the ninth inning today, four on Peewee Reese's homer with the bases loaded, to beat the New York Giants, 7 to 3, and strengthen their grasp on the National league lead. Joe Medwick touched off the explosion with his second home run in two days. The Dodgers pushed across another run to tie the score and then Rookie Reese broke up the game. The Giants got only six hits off three pitchers, all in the second and third innings. Score:

U. A. A. U. SWIM MEET WILL OPEN ON COAST TODAY

Santa Barbara, Cal., July 3 (AP).—More than 60 aquatic stars gathered today for the National A. A. U. men's outdoor swimming and diving meet.

The athletes will begin a drive for new records and old titles tomorrow. Among the candidates are Adolph Kiefer, backstroker, and Otto Jaretz, sprinter, of Chicago.

Lone absentee among the defending title holders was Ralph Flanagan, who has become an instructor and married in Los Angeles. Flanagan, a sensation at the 1939 A. A. U. meet in Detroit, gives up the 440, 880, and mile freestyle crowns.

A highlight of tomorrow's opening schedule will be renewal of the Al Patnik-Earl Clark rivalry in the three meter springboard event. Patnik won the title in 1939 in a close finish with his Ohio State university roommate, but Clark captured the 10-meter platform title.

Kiyoshi Nakama of the Hawaiian team is favored to retain his 200 yard free style title tomorrow but he may run into rugged opposition from Gus Sharemet of Michigan, intercollegiate champion, Andy Clarke of Wayne university, or Rene Choteau of Yale. The other event scheduled is the 330 yard medley relay, which pits the defending champions of the Detroit Athletic club against the Hawaiians, Los Angeles A. C., and Pasadena A. C.

HARRIDGE MAKES NEW STATEMENT ON REPLAY RULING

William Harridge, president of the American league, who Tuesday announced that the protested game between the White Sox and the New York Yankees on June 20 would be replayed, yesterday issued another statement clarifying his decision. The Sox won the game, 1 to 0, but the Yankees protested a foul fly hit by Bill Dickey and handled by Outfielder Julius Solters. Harridge's statement follows:

"From the statements made by Manager Jimmy Dykes over the recent finding in the Chicago-New York protested game of June 20, there seems to be a misunderstanding as to the facts of the case.

"The American League office, under the rules, cannot entertain any protest involving umpire judgment. The protest of the New York club was registered in the belief that Dickey's foul fly, handled by Solters, was not a caught ball under Section 3 of Rule 44, and the interpretation placed upon this rule by the major leagues, with which all managers, players and umpires are fully acquainted. Umpire judgment did not enter into the protest. My decision, allowing the protest, was based strictly on Umpire John Quinn's misinterpretation of this rule."

GREENBERG GAINS QUARTER-FINALS IN EASTERN MEET

Montclair, N. J., July 3 [Special].—Seymour Greenberg of Northwestern university today stroked his way to the quarter-finals of the eastern intercollegiate tennis tournament with a straight set triumph over James Wade of Stanford. Wade paired with Larry Dee to win the national collegiate doubles title last week. In winning, 6-1, 6-3, the third seeded midwesterner continued the smart game which has made him a dark horse contender for the eastern title.

Dee, seeded fourth, was the victim of a straight set upset by Myron McNamara of Southern California. Winner of the eastern freshman title here last year, the Stanford ace fell, 6-4, 6-2.

George Toley, lanky Southern California star, swept thru two matches to catch up with the field. He eliminated Robert Low of Stanford in a hard tussle, 1-6, 7-5, 8-6, then whipped Charles F. Rider of North Carlina, 6-3, 6-2.

White Sox's 7 Run 9th Beats Detroit, 12 to 7

rifice. Skeeter Webb walked, then followed successive singles by Kreevich, Kuhel, Solters, and Rosenthal, and Campbell's second fumble for a net of four runs and a bath for Trout. Lynn Nelson went in with runners on third and second, and McNair bounced to Bartell.

The Tigers got going a bit in the eighth. McCosky opened with a single to center and stopped at third on Gehringer's double to right. Kreevich ran far back for Greenberg's smash to dead center, McCosky scoring and Gehringer taking third. York grounded out to Webb, Gehringer scoring. Campbell popped to Kennedy.

Kuhel Starts Trouble.

Kuhel's fourth straight single drove in the Sox's sixth run and touched off further fireworks in the ninth. Kreevich drew the eighth Sox pass and stole second. He got home on the aforesaid Kuhel hit. Solters singled to left, putting Kuhel on third. Rosenthal was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Wright batted for McNair and knocked the ball into the upper deck of the right field stand, his third homer of the season, scoring Kuhel, Solters and Rosenthal. Mike Tresh beat out an infield single and Kennedy scored him with a home run, his second of the year, into the left field stands.

The Tigers helped their individual records, but nothing else, by making four runs on four hits in the ninth before Rigney went in and struck out York.

PLAY AT HOME TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 3.—Two able lefties, Thornton Lee and Eddie Smith, will pitch for the White Sox in tomorrow's St. Louis-Chicago double header in Comiskey park. John Niggeling and Emil Bildilli are the Browns' nominations.

Luke Appling and Taft Wright, resting Sox sluggers, will appear in the lineups tomorrow. Manager James Dykes urgently invited them to play today, but each declined. When Appling returns to short, Skeeter Webb will replace Eric McNair at second.

Manager Dykes, sore at the world in general and some of his White Sox in particular, served notice today that all players are to remain in Chicago during the three day respite granted by the All-Star game in St. Louis. Some of the more weary players had asked to leave on pleasure jaunts.

MILLS AND COALS MEET TODAY IN DOUBLE HEADER

The Mills will play the Spencer Coals in the third and fourth game of their six game series for the city semipro baseball championship in Mills stadium, this afternoon. The first two games were won by the Coals.

Howard Berg, former University of Illinois right hander, will pitch the first game for the Mills. Berg in his last appearance yielded only five hits for a 9 to 7 victory. He probably will oppose Bill [Lefty] Stevens. In the second contest Al Lecomte will pitch for the Mills and Slim De Lion for the Coals.

A Smooth Idea Glides to Town —Ice Vanities

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Roman candles and skyrockets would seem more suited to the eve of the Fourth of July than figure eights and spreadeagles, but last night found 2,500 citizens of our town liking the latter as the Ice Vanities opened a two months' summer run on the slick skating surface of the Chicago arena.

The Vanities are something of an innovation, for the talented cast now appearing at the compact near north side arena constitutes the first major company to play a full time hot weather engagement in Chicago. The cast had only three days' rehearsal prior to last evening's premiere, and there were a few rough spots in the early stages of the production, but the performers' work augured well for a successful season, based on modest admission fees.

Show Well Balanced.

It's a well balanced show, this Vanities party, with a chorus of 12 lissome gals, three fine pair teams, and two feminine soloists who will make you look twice. These last named are Hertha Grossman of Hungary, and Frances Johnson, a Minneapolis blonde who also does a pair stunt with Paul Gassner, the Hungarian star who directs the show. Bill O'Brien, the genial Irishman who has sponsored the professional careers of such as Red Grange, Suzanne Lenglen and Bill Tilden, is the impresario of the Ice Vanities, working with Harry Radix, president of the Chicago Figure Skating club.

Now about those pair teams. Probably the smoothest of all was the combination of Lou Pitts of Chicago and Ruth English of St. Louis, who won the western pair title and twice were runnersup for the national championship. Last night they brought the crowd up cheering with a skating rendition of "The Darktown Strutters' Ball."

Lee, Slagle Steal Show.

Another able twosome in the Vanities cast is composed of Duke and Noble, who in their first appearance did a thoro job of deceiving the customers into thinking that Duke was a tipsy client and Noble an usher detailed to rescue him. The third pair act involved Tommy Lee and Charley Slagle, who, after a routine cop and robber opening, came back to steal the show with a takeoff on the famed Frick and Frack that was a near perfect duplication of that Swiss twosome's contortions.

Don Condon and Muriel Keddie, another pair, not only turned in a double act, but also obliged with singles. Condon's solo was probably the best of the night, a number in which he skated on stilts at the conclusion of the first portion of the show, Miss Keddie was alone in a Topsy skit. Director Gassner contributed a Spanish solo in the closing half of the two hour performance.

Dick Gordan is M. C.

O'Brien and Radix last night announced that they will reduce the performing surface of the Arena rink and thus make the show a more intimate one. The Arena skating surface is one of the largest in the country, measuring 21,000 square feet, with its length of 250 feet and width of 85 feet. Four spotlights will be used in the future instead of two, giving the audience a fuller view of the skaters than last night, when the operator had difficulty focusing the brace of spots on them.

Dick Gordan not only acted as master of ceremonies, but also contributed a number of vocal solos, to the accompaniment of Organist Edna Sellers.

The Vanities will be presented nightly, except Mondays, until Labor day. On Saturday nights, two performances will be given, one beginning at 8:30 and the other at 11. Mondays are reserved for the regular public skating sessions of the Chicago Figure Skating club.

IT'S A HORSE ON 2 MEN IN A HOUSE ON RACE STREET

The unsually fast information service some Chicago bookies have been getting was interrupted yesterday when detectives from the state's attorney's office, coöperating with Tom Kelly's race track police, raided a house which commanded a clear view of the Arlington Park odds board. Two men, Eddie Mangan and Andy Burns, were arrested. According to the police they had been copying winners and prices off the board and telephoning the information to bookmakers.

They were brought to the detective bureau and held in communicado. They will be taken to Capt. Dan Gilbert in the state's attorney's office today. They may be turned over to federal men for further questioning, inasmuch as the government agents are now engaged in a drive to cut off all sources of bookmakers' information.

The house in which the men were arrested is located at 956 Race street, Arlington Heights. It is approximately a quarter mile from the odds board, but with the aid of powerful binoculars the figures are visible.

Cubs Score 3 in 8th; Defeat Pirates, 7 to 5

The Pirates Go Ahead.

Vaughan came up with one out in the seventh and the Cubs weren't looking for anything out of the ordinary, so when he bunted, he didn't have any trouble beating it out. After Vaughan had moved to second on a passed ball by Collins, an intentional pass was handed to Fletcher. Debs Garms batted for Van Robays and singled to left, Vaughan scoring for a 5 to 4 Pirate lead. DiMaggio let Passeau off easy by grounding into a double play.

The Cubs' winning eighth inning opened with Gleeson beating out a hit to Bauers and Nicholson doing the same on a grounder to Fletcher. The luck continued when Galan beat out a bunt to Bauers, filling the bases with none out. Ken Heintzelman relieved Bauers and fanned Rip Russell, who batted for Cavarretta. Collins grounded to Handley and Gleeson was forced at the plate. Then Mattick furnished his single to right, Nicholson and Galan scoring and Collins taking third. He scored on a double steal.

Gabby Hartnett's 22 man club will be in St. Louis today to see what kind of fireworks the Cardinals plan to touch off in a double header. The Cubs' starting pitchers will be Larry French and Ken Raffensberger.

It may have been accidental but Claude Passeau's first pitch yesterday sent Lee Handley diving into the dust and a moment later Frank Gustine was hit on the right arm. Maybe it was a matter of retaliation when Truett Sewell let one go in the general direction of Bob Collins' head in the second inning.

Bill Lee of the Cubs' pitching department threatens to join the parade of players who recently have added spectacles to their working equipment. Bill revealed yesterday he had been making secret visits to an oculist.

HIT ALIEN MINDED TEACHERS USING LIBERTY AS MASK

Educators Urge Ban on School Agitators.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 3.—Some of the teachers who talk loudest about the sanctity of academic freedom are using it as a cloak for spreading un-American doctrines, William S. Taylor, University of Kentucky dean of education, told the general assembly of the National Education association today. Dr. Taylor is chairman of the academic freedom committee.

A restatement of the association's stand on academic freedom is to be made in the 1941 convention. Dr. Taylor epitomized it today as a declaration affirming the principles of freedom but asserting that it "must not and shall not be used as a shield for fifth columnists in the ranks of American education."

"Freedom" Causes Confusion.

The confusion of academic freedom with the opportunity to spread anti-American doctrines has been given much study by the Colorado Education association which sponsored a platform to be submitted to the convention. Read today by W. B. Mooney, Denver, it said:

"The exercise of the principle of academic freedom requires that the teacher in an American public school be a stanch supporter of the democratic form of government. It obligates him to explore and advocate more desirable procedures in the operation of our democratic process, but it does not give him a license to advocate another form of government as more desirable than that of the United States."

Preparedness Urged.

The question of subversive propaganda also was treated by the resolutions committee, which read its report to be submitted for approval tomorrow. The resolutions advocate a state of national preparedness. They point out that peace is the normal status among nations but at the same time enough preparedness is needed for the country adequately to take care of itself. "The ultimate line of national defense," the resolution reads, "is to be found in the loyalty, intelligence, health, technical skill, self-discipline, and character of the citizens and not in regimentation of youth characteristic of totalitarian nations."

About propaganda, the resolutions continue: "The association strongly condemns subversive propaganda which seeks to undermine our democratic ideals. Schools should continue to turn the searchlight of truth on alien ideologies so that Americans may know wherein democracy is superior. This search for truth will enable us to locate weaknesses in and to strengthen our democracy.

"The association advocates full protection of the liberties guaranteed to all citizens by the Bill of Rights, at the same time recognizing the principle that liberties are preserved only by the acceptance of accompanying responsibilities."

Stress on Similarities.

The report of the committee on international relations urged that emphasis be placed on similarities rather than differences among people as the chief factor in promoting world good will. It favored exchange of teachers among nations, correspondence among pupils of neighboring countries as an opposite to totalitarian methods of training.

Teachers are increasingly becoming their own bankers, the committee on credit unions reported. One credit union has 5,000 members and $1,800,000 in assets, and there are more than 500 credit unions. Teachers are good credit risks, the report observed. All money received by a union is lent to members. The loss amounts to less than two-tenths of 1 per cent.

A desire to rule rather than coöperate is a major cause of war, the committee on coöperatives observed. "A society built around consumer coöperatives would automatically dispense with basic economic causes of war," the report said.

Teachers' salaries should be based on professional and academic qualifications rather than on the grade level of the pupils, the committee on salaries advocated. Salary should compensate teachers for their teaching load, experience, and preparation, in the opinion of the committee, with no differentiation in amount between women and men. The cost of maintaining a suitable standard of living should also be considered in basing salaries, the report said.

WIFE WHO FOUND $3,700,000 MINE DIES IN FLAMES

Flagstaff, Ariz., July 3 (AP).—Mrs. Hallie Holmes Haynes who, with her then husband, George Holmes, found the multi-million dollar Silver Queen mine in the Mojave desert in 1935, was burned to death today in a tourist camp cottage.

Her body was found in the bathroom shower. Her chauffeur, William H. Peters, told officials he searched the cabin shortly after the fire broke out, found Mrs. Haynes' bed empty, but did not look in the shower.

Shortly after she and Holmes discovered the mine they sold it for $3,700,000 and moved from their prospectors' shack to a Beverly Hills mansion. But their happiness soon was marred by lawsuits and domestic troubles. She divorced Holmes in 1936 and married Robert D. Haynes, operator of an auto rental agency at Glendale, Cal.

TRAFFIC TANGLE IN N. Y. OVERCOME BY SUPERROADS

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 3.—Manhattan, by the construction of multimillion dollar tunnels, bridges, elevated highways, and superparkways, has overcome its natural barrier to automobile transportation—the water that surrounds this island of skyscrapers.

In express motor transportation, New York now surpasses Chicago, where natural advantages of a prairie terrain have been lost in the congestion and hazard of outmoded boulevards and thru streets. With facilities comparable to those of New York, residents of Chicago's outlying districts and suburbs could be saved many minutes, annoyances, and risks in daily drives between homes and downtown offices.

These and other facts which might inspire Chicago to build superhighways were developed in survey just completed in The Tribune road car.

Test Runs Compared.

Test runs with a stop watch were made from the loop to various outlying destinations with the coöperation of the Chicago Motor club. These were compared with similar drives over the superhighways on the banks of the Hudson river and the East river bordering this long, narrow island.

Local traffic, within the island, was slower than in Chicago. No point, however, is distant from a superhighway, because Manhattan, about 13 miles long, is only a mile to two and one-fourth miles wide. After getting on a superhighway the New Yorker is home in no time, pleasantly and with little risk, as compared with the hardships a Chicagoan endures.

The New Yorker does, however, encounter tolls—10 to 25 cents on bridges and 50 cents in tunnels. Because of geographic handicaps, the cost of providing fast and safe traffic arteries here is much greater than it would be in Chicago. Hence, there are tolls here that would not be necessary there.

10.2 Miles to Traffic Light.

From the south end of the west side elevated highway, near the tip of Manhattan, The Tribune road car was driven north for 10.2 miles before the first traffic light was seen, at an approach to the George Washington bridge over the Hudson. The light was green. The first stop, merely a rolling pause, was made at the Fleetwood 10 cent toll bridge in Henry Hudson parkway, 12 miles from the start.

These 12 miles without a stop were covered in 20 minutes, keeping the same pace as traffic—35 and 40 miles an hour. The second stop, also for a 10 cent toll, on the Cross County parkway in Westchester, was 20 miles from the starting point, with the total distance covered in 34 minutes. The third stop was in Connecticut, 35 miles and 57 minutes from lower Manhattan, practically all of the distance on pavements free of cross traffic, pedestrians, and parking.

A similar test run, starting on the East River drive, crossing the Triborough bridge, and heading east on Long Island, produced similar observations. A red light stopped us on an old section of East River drive 3.6 miles and 6.5 minutes from the start. We paused to pay 25 cents on the bridge, 4.7 miles from the start. The next traffic light was 33 miles from the start.

[A subsequent article will present a detailed report on driving times and conditions from Chicago's loop and from New York's Manhattan to various destinations.]

PARSON SCORNS MEDICAL AID FOR COPPERHEAD BITE

Knoxville, Tenn., July 3 (AP).—Preacher Jesse Pack stoutly refused medical aid today and relied on faith to save him from the venom of a copperhead snake which bit him five times while he handled it before his congregation.

The parson, who weighs 200 pounds, and is 53 years old, is a member of a mountain religious sect which handles snakes to demonstrate the power of good over evil.

"I haven't taken anything for it except faith," said Pack, whose arms and neck are swollen a third again their normal size. "I know I won't die."

He was handling the serpent at a service at Briceville, Tenn., Sunday when it struck him repeatedly on the hands.

PACKARD PLANS MAKING BRITISH PLANE ENGINES

30 Million Expansion Program Studied.

Detroit, Mich., July 3 (AP).—A $30,000,000 expansion program for the Packard Motor Car company, contingent upon its acceptance of an order for airplane engine motors for the United States and England, was reported probable tonight by Max M. Gilman, Packard president.

M. M. Gilman

Gilman, returning from Washington conferences at which Packard tentatively agreed today to furnish 6,000 Rolls Royce engines for England and 3,000 for the United States, said the directors would meet Monday or Tuesday to consider a contract.

Ford Refused Order.

The 9,000 engine order was that which Henry Ford had refused. Gilman said he believed the Packard board would approve the order if the contract would "protect" the company. Ford had turned down the proposed deal with the assertion that he would make war materials in his plants in this country only for the United States government.

Production of the motors would begin 10 months from the day the contract is signed, Gilman said.

"We'll build about 120 engines the first month," he said, "and five months after that we will reach a peak of 800 a month."

Gilman said the expansion would involve the hiring of 14,000 skilled workers to add to Packard's present pay roll of 10,000, construction of testing sheds, and extensive preparations in tooling and machinery. He said Packard had "almost enough" building space.

Insists Upon Profit.

"We won't take the job, however, unless we can make some money out of it," Gilman said. "We're not going into this thing for our health."

The Packard president emphasized that the airplane engine order would "in no way affect our car production; we're coming out with a new model in the fall."

Gilman said the Ford Motor company had shown a "splendid attitude" and had been "very cooperative." He said he understood that Ford engineers would make available to Packard their preliminary studies of the Rolls Royce engine.

Ford sources reported that experimental work on the engine had brought out methods for simplifying its production.

Gilman said he expected that several engineers would come here from the Rolls Royce plant in England to help in production. The engine, he said, should lend itself to mass production easily.

RATIO OF BROKER LOANS TO STOCK VALUES DECLINES

New York, July 3 [Special].—Collateral borrowings by members of the New York Stock exchange dropped to the lowest ratio to market value of listed stocks in the history of the exchange on June 29. Loans represented a ratio of 0.86 per cent. Aggregate market value was $38,775,241,138 and total net borrowings were only $331,853,505, the lowest since 1932.

Only twice before since the stock exchange began to compile ratio records has the figure fallen below 1 per cent—once last year and once in the early months of 1940.

When the figures were first compiled in 1926 the ratio had an annual range of 8.11 to 10.23 per cent. The latter was the highest recorded. The lower the margin, the more the broker must borrow to finance the transaction.

U. S. CONCILIATOR FLIES TO PREVENT ALUMINUM TIEUP

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 3 (AP).—John R. Steelman, chief of the federal conciliation service, rushed here today in an effort to prevent a threatened strike in the aluminum industry whose output is essential to the national defense program.

Steelman arrived shortly after representatives of C. I. O.'s aluminum workers and the Aluminum Company of America recessed a conference until Friday without announcing what progress had been made on union demands for a wage boost of 10 cents an hour.

Steelman said officials in Washington were concerned about the matter and that his six hour visit was to confer with the company and the union. Declining further comment, he returned to Washington.

'L' Passengers Gain Nearly 2 Million in Half Year

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] yesterday reported an increase of nearly 2,000,000 revenue passengers for the first six months of the year over the corresponding period in 1939. The company carried 75,172,943 passengers to June 30, compared with 73,265,431 a year earlier. Passenger totals declined slightly in June, with 11,596,240, against 11,693,988 a year ago.

Defense Plans Prod Industry to Fresh Gains

Prodded by government defense orders, industry stepped along at a brisk gait yesterday with airplane engines, shipbuilding docks and power construction in the vanguard.

The navy department announced that contracts for construction of shipbuilding docks in government navy yards at a cost of $16,175,000 were let to three companies as a joint venture. Companies awarded the contracts on a cost-plus, fixed-fee basis, are Spencer, White and Pentis, Foley Brothers, and Merritt, Chapman & Scott, all of New York.

Acting Secretary of War Louis Johnson announced that a $1,488,272 contract for aircraft engines has been awarded to the Wright Aeronautical corporation, Paterson, N. J.

Power Big New Bombers.

The engines, Johnson said, will be used to power new four motor bombers recently ordered from the Boeing Aircraft company, Seattle, Wash. The number of engines involved in the contract was not disclosed.

Four tractor manufacturers submitted bids at the Rock Island, Ill., arsenal on 621 heavy and 290 medium tractors for use by the army.

International Harvester company, Chicago, bid low on only 500 of the heavy type tractors with a figure of $4,495 per unit. Other bids on the entire lot of 621 were Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company, Milwaukee, Wis., $5,023 per unit, and Caterpillar company, Peoria, Ill., $5,179.

Allis-Chalmers was low on the medium type tractor with a bid of $2,367 per unit. Other bids were Cleveland Tractor company, Cleveland, O., $2,442, and Caterpillar, $2,650.

British Place Rail Order.

The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation is sharing in an emergency order from Great Britain for 112,000 tons of steel rails, it was revealed. The company's portion of the order, to be rolled at its Pittsburgh plants, is expected to total more than $4,000,000. The rails, it was understood, will be strung along every major railroad in England and Scotland to permit replacement in event of damage by German bombing planes.

Aluminum Company of America reported it has received an order for utensils and other equipment sufficient to equip 5,000 army ranges capable of feeding 1,000,000 soldiers. The amount of the order was not announced.

Plan Power Projects.

Nantahala Power and Light company, a subsidiary of Aluminum Company of America, has engaged contractors to build a 60,000 horsepower hydro-electric dam on the Nantahala river in North Carolina within two years, it was reported. In addition, a 30,000 horsepower water power project on the Tuckasseegee river in North Carolina is planned by the company. Cost of the projects was not announced.

It was reported in Detroit that the British purchasing commission is reviewing the 10,000 motor truck order placed with Chrysler and General Motors corporation by the French. It was said the English may take over all or part of the order if the specifications fit British needs.

ILLINOIS MOTOR TAXES TOP ALL SOURCES OF 1922

Springfield, Ill., July 3 (AP).—In a statement urging that "the motorists' tax burden" be eased, G. A. Primm, secretary of the Illinois petroleum industries committee, said today that motorists paid more taxes to the state last year than the total tax revenue collected by Illinois from all sources in 1922.

Last year, Primm said, automobile and truck owners in Illinois "paid $63,352,000 to the state in gasoline taxes and registration fees. In 1922 the total tax revenue received by the state amounted to $27,125,047."

CHARLIE CHAPLIN SUIT CHARGES BOOTLEGGING SALE OF HIS MOVIES

Newark, N. J., July 3 (AP).—Charlie Chaplin has started federal suits against three New Jersey film dealers in an effort to halt "illegitimate bootlegging" of his previously made motion pictures.

Charles Chaplin.

Deputy United States marshals, acting on writs obtained by Chaplin's lawyer, Atwood G. Wolf, from United States District Judge Thomas Glynn Walker, seized films from the firms.

Gruber's Camera Exchange, Inc., Newark; Peerless Camera and Film Service, Passaic, and Cine Film Products, Paterson. He said suits would be filed against several others.

Soy Bean Feast Served 35 at Cost of $10.87

A full seven-course dinner—everything from "soy" to "bean"—was served 35 members of the Chicago chapter of the Society of Grain Elevator Superintendents. And yesterday the diners, while admitting that even a good thing can be carried too far, said they had no regrets.

The idea of a soy bean feast originated with Dean Clark, national secretary of the organization. Methods of preparing the round yellow bean were obtained from a California firm and the setting chosen was the Northwest Lions Club, 4300 West North avenue.

Here's the Menu.

The dinner was served Tuesday. Here's the menu:

Soy-carrot juice appetizer.
Hors d'oeurve
[celery stuffed with soy bean paste]
Soy-mince soup and soy wafers
Soy-vegelona "meat" course
[tasted like bologna]
Pineapple salad made with soy bean sandwich spread
Soy bean [100 per cent] bread
Soy butter
Ice cream made with soy milk and soy fruities wafer
Coffee with soy milk
Roasted soy beans
[for variety's sake]

To round out the evening, the superintendents were taken on a tour of the Glidden company's new elevator at 5165 West Moffat street—a soy bean extraction plant.

Clark said there were no "kicks" from the guests and that the plates were cleaned.

"But," he added, "I asked them to sample soy bean milk. A few of them didn't like that—maybe that was going too far."

Entire Cost $10.87.

The entire banquet cost—at retail price—was just $10.87, Clark said. He declared the reception given the meal has encouraged him to plan a similar dinner for 125 guests next October.

CEMENT CONCERN OUTLINES DEBT REFUNDING PLAN

The Pennsylvania-Dixie Cement corporation sent a letter to stockholders yesterday outlining proposals for the refunding of its 6 per cent bonds. It stated that interest the first year on the new bonds and notes would total $226,875, compared with $397,929 paid on the outstanding bonds last year.

Stockholders will vote on the refunding program at a special meeting Aug. 9. It provides for the issuance of $3,250,000 first 4½ per cent bonds of 1935 and $2,250,000 or 3¾ per cent serial notes due in one to five years.

Approval will also be sought for deferring the sinking fund requirements of the preferred stock until the new bank loan and first mortgage bonds and any additional bonds which may be issued under the new mortgage are retired.

SEC LETS OGDEN CORP. BORROW TO REDEEM SHARES

Will Get 4.4 Million Loan from Bank.

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange commission approved today an application by Ogden corporation to borrow $4,400,000 at 2½ per cent interest from Manufacturers Trust company, New York.

Ogden corporation, a holding company formed as part of the Utilities Power & Light corporation reorganization plan, proposes to use the borrowed money along with $541,000 from its treasury to redeem 96,414 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock, the only shares now outstanding. A similar number of shares was redeemed some time ago with proceeds from sale of common stock of Indianapolis Power & Light company.

Properties in Midwest.

The commission said that Ogden corporation was established "primarily to dispose of its utility assets and to utilize the proceeds from such sale to retire its securities which were given in exchange for the securities of its predecessor [U. P. & L."

Termed Interest Saver.

The proposed transaction, the SEC said, would save common stockholders $110,000 a year in interest.

In a dissenting opinion, Commissioner Edward C. Eicher said that the savings on interest was "the only justification offered" and that "in its essentials, the proposed action amounts to nothing more than incurring debt in order to retire preferred stock."

Chairman Jerome Frank, Commissioner Robert E. Healy, and S. T. Pike voted approval, but Healy reserved the right to file a separate opinion. Commissioner Leon Henderson did not participate.

CHICAGO AIRPORT TRAFFIC SETS A RECORD IN JUNE

Figures announced yesterday disclosed that passenger traffic in and out of the Chicago airport in June established an all-time monthly record.

Passengers flown into Chicago totaled 37,355, compared with 33,410 in May, the previous high month. Passengers leaving Chicago on commercial air lines numbered 37,558, against 33,318 in May.

Eastern Air Lines set a record when it flew an estimated 12,069,171 revenue passenger miles last month, an increase of 61 per cent over June, 1939, according to Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, president. United Air Lines flew an estimated 24,335,200 revenue passenger miles for an all-time record exceeding June, 1939, by 60 per cent, H. W. Ireland, general traffic manager, announced.

Treasury Lists 1-Day Deficit of 120 Millions

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The treasury started off its new fiscal year with a deficit of $120,674,733 on the first day.

Figures for July 1, made available today, showed this initial excess of spending which, because of the national defense program, may rise to more than $4,000,000,000 in the next 12 months.

The fiscal year opening also was marked by the increase of the public debt to more than $43,000,000,000. The debt, the legal limit on which recently was raised from $45,000,000,000 to $49,000,000,000, was at a record high of $42,061,138,000.

Differs from Others.

The July 1 treasury statement differed from all previous statements of this kind to the extent that it reflected for the first time a law enacted last year taking old age taxes out of the budget.

Starting on Monday, old age taxes began going directly into the old age reserve fund, except for a small portion needed for administrative expenses. The bookkeeping effect of this change is to make both treasury receipts and expenditures seem slightly smaller without altering the deficit.

Exclude Security Taxes.

For instance, the July 1 treasury receipts were reported as $20,767,262, while the actual cash receipts that day were $20,937,354. The difference of $170,092 represents social security taxes. Similarly, the reported expenditure total on July 1 of $141,441,996 did not include, as formerly, the same $170,092 social security item.

The first day deficit, however, was not due so much to ordinary government running expenses, as to the fact that this day was selected to make a periodic contribution of $93,520,110 to the pension fund for government employés.

CONSTRUCTION DIPS; PRIVATE AWARDS ARE UP

New York, July 3 (AP).—Contracts awarded for private engineering construction during the first half of 1940 totaled $484,244,000, or 24 per cent more than in the corresponding period last year, Engineering News-Record reported today.

The increase in private work, the publication said, was traceable directly to a revival in industrial building which more than doubled its volume for the same period a year ago.

A decline in public engineering construction, however, dropped total engineering awards for the first six months to $1,389,616,000, or 11 per cent less than in the first half of 1939.

For the eleven southern states, engineering contracts were 14 per cent larger than the record breaking volume of a year ago. In the far west awards were up 9 per cent, and west of the Mississippi they gained 2 of 1 per cent. Big declines occurred in the middle Atlantic states, New England and the middle west where volume decreased 31 per cent, 19 per cent, and 15½ per cent, respectively.

Petroleum Stills Freed from Alcohol Law Effect

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—Owners of petroleum stills will no longer have to register with the internal revenue bureau under a measure signed today by President Roosevelt. The original law required registration of all stills and attached penalties for failure to register. Committee reports emphasized that the law was designed to cover only alcohol stills and that failure originally to exclude the oil stills was a "nuisance both to the oil industry and to the treasury."

CAA DENIES TWA REQUEST TO BUY DETROIT ROUTE

Opposes 'Inflated' Sale Price.

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The Civil Aeronautics authority laid down a rule today against transfer of air line certificates at "inflated or speculative prices."

Denying an application by Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., to purchase Marquette Air Lines, Inc., for $350,000, the board said that the price "would be more than 15 times the value of the tangible property to be transferred."

"It would be clearly adverse to the public interest, as defined by the civil aeronautics act," the board declared, "to allow a certificate of convenience and necessity to be treated as if it were a speculative security, to be sold by the holder to the highest bidder, or as if it were possessed of a value of its own.

Has Detroit-St. Louis Route.

"The transfer of certificates at inflated or speculative prices would not foster sound or economic conditions in air transportation. It would not promote economical and efficient service at reasonable charges."

Marquette Air Lines, owned by John E. McKelvy of Pittsburgh, has a certificate for a route between Detroit, Mich., and St. Louis, Mo., via Toledo, Dayton, and Cincinnati, O.

Witnesses from cities on the Marquette route, the board said, testified that its schedules, which cover only daylight operations, were irregular, undependable, and inconvenient.

Calls Price Excessive.

It added that "it clearly appears from the evidence of record that the operations proposed by T. W. A. would promote service and result in the development of traffic possibilities along the route," but that it could not approve the sale at an "excessive" price.

In view of the lack of modern equipment, frequent and convenient schedules, or a record for successful operation, the board declared, "it is manifest that there is little goodwill or going-concern value inherent in the property."

T. W. A. contended that if it operated the Marquette Air Lines the Marquette's net revenues would be sufficient to enable T. W. A. to liquidate the purchase price out of profits in about six years.

UTILITIES VIEW DEATH ACT TEST SCHEME WARILY

New York, July 3 [Special].—Utility holding company circles are reported to be looking with suspicion on the latest developments pertaining to a projected test of the "death sentence" provisions of the public utility holding company act.

According to authoritative reports, arrangements are being worked out between the Middle West corporation and the Securities and Exchange commission for an argumentative approach on the controversial question of the application of section 11, the so-called "death sentence," of the act. With these arrangements completed, it is reported, the SEC will then proceed to broaden the issue and attempt to bring about an industry-wide test case in the courts of the constitutionality of section 11.

Many leading holding company executives declared today that such a procedure would not satisfactorily answer the integration section. It is felt that certain systems can present much stronger arguments than the Middle West corporation for the retention of operating properties.

American National Bank's Half Year Profit Is Higher

Earnings of the American National Bank and Trust company of Chicago in the first half of 1940 increased to $176,588, equal to $17.65 a common share after provision for preferred dividends, it was indicated yesterday. The estimated profit was computed by comparing the bank's condition statement for June 29 with previous balance sheets. Indicated profit in the first half of 1939 was $154,242 or $15.42 a share after preferred dividends. In each period, $40,000 transferred to the preferred stock retirement fund was considered part of the earnings.

British Pound Up 2 Cents at $3.82 in New York

The British "free" pound gained 2 cents on the United States dollar yesterday, closing at $3.82 in New York. The Canadian dollar picked up 0.9375 cent to close at 84.5625 cents and the Swiss franc gained 0.02 cent, closing at 22.68 cents.

Experts Claim Needed Metals Are Available

Cleveland, O., July 3 (AP).—The government's move to accumulate strategic metals brought comment from experts today that nearly every kind needed in defense and industry exists in this hemisphere or can be replaced by satisfactory substitutes.

Costs of using substitutes are sometimes much greater than materials they they replace, however.

Alloy Substitutes Cited.

William H. Eisenman, secretary of the American Society for Metals, cited tungsten—important in steel making and the manufacture of electrical products—as an example. It can be replaced largely by molybdenum, on which the United States has a monopoly.

Manganese, also used in steel manufacture, has been imported mostly from South Africa and Russia. But the United States, he said, could obtain sufficient quantities from large deposits in Cuba and South America.

Mercury also was mentioned by Eisenman. It has been imported from Spain and Italy, yet could be produced in this country from charcoal and mercury sulphid. At present high prices, domestic production is certain to rise, Eisenman said.

Magnesium Supply Unlimited.

Dr. Zay Jeffries, former president of the society, said magnesium, now used in airplane alloys, is unlimited in raw form. One chemical company removes it from brines of Michigan salt beds.

Dr. Jeffries noted too that stainless steel—heavier than aluminum alloys but stronger—is being used in greater quantities in airplanes.

E. E. Thum, editor of Metal Progress, journal of the metals society, said the typical airplane today uses aluminum and other nonferrous alloys, stainless steel, and other steels containing carbon, molybdenum, nickel, chromium, and vanadium.

Experiments with a plane using stainless steel for everything except wing and tail surfaces have been successful, he said.

PRESIDENT SIGNS NONSTOP MAIL PICKUP MEASURE

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP).—The last technical barrier to continuation of nonstop air mail service was erased today when President Roosevelt signed a bill authorizing the Civil Aeronautics authority to issue licenses for the pickup service.

The legislation was introduced after a C. A. A. examiner had recommended dismissal of an application for a license on grounds the service was wholly experimental.

Congress a year ago authorized the nonstop service in West Virginia, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, on an experimental basis. The postoffice reported the year's activities showed it was practical and efficient.

All-American Aviation, Inc., headed by Richard du Pont, Wilmington, Del., has proposed extension of the nonstop service to more than 200 towns in Kentucky, Ohio, New York, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware.

BANKERS AND SEC CONFER AGAIN ON 'WAITING' PERIOD

Washington, D. C., July 3 [Special].—Representatives of the investment banking industry today had their final conference with the Securities and Exchange commission on the SEC proposal to seek immediate legislation to relax the 20-day waiting period required between registration and issuance of new securities.

They are expected to report back to the commission early next week. If representatives of the Investment Bankers association withhold certain further law changes they desire until consideration of broader revisions of the securities laws in January, as is expected here, the SEC will move immediately to obtain the legislation it now plans.

The commission intends to ask congress to amend the securities act to remove the mandatory 20-day period and give the commission discretion to decide how long sale of issues must be held up after registration.

COUNTY'S AUTO SALES LARGEST IN LAST 3 YEARS

June Brings 6 Month Total Near Peak.

Sales of new automobiles in Cook county totaled 11,674 last month, the largest June total since 1937, and sent sales for the first six months of the year to 71,398, the second largest figure for this period on record, the Bureau of Motor Advice disclosed yesterday.

While the June figure represented a seasonal decline from the 13,353 cars sold in May, it was substantially above the June, 1939, sales of 8,934 cars. The bureau is a semiofficial agency which bases its reports on registrations with the secretary of state.

The six months' figure has only been topped by the 76,189 cars sold in the 1937 period. In the first six months last year, 55,172 were sold.

Leadership Maintained.

As in recent months, Chevrolet, Plymouth, Buick, and Ford led the June field in the order named. Chevrolet sold 2,438 units in June, against 1,629 in June, 1939, and 2,906 in May, 1940. Plymouth sales totaled 1,970 in June against 1,300 and 1,885; Buick sales were 1,241, against 779 and 1,305; and Ford sold 1,045, compared with 1,207 and 1,281.

World's Largest Market.

Cook county sales are watched by the industry as a gauge of the country's trend because it is the largest single market for automobiles in the world.

Chrysler corporation reported that domestic retail sales of its Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler divisions for the week ended June 29 were the largest in the history of the company. Sales were 31,982 passenger and commercial vehicles.

Hudson reported that June retail sales increased 57 per cent over 1939. Sales totaled 7,824, the highest June figure since 1937, according to George H. Pratt, general sales manager.

Week's Assemblies Decline.

Detroit, Mich., July 3 (AP).—Automotive News in its midweek estimate of automobile production today placed this week's assemblies at 53,087, compared with 84,758 last week and 43,450 this week a year ago. It said the decline was due to the completion of 1940 model output by several companies and the curtailment to three and four day schedules by others because of the July 4 holiday.

CLAIMS AGAINST FOLLANSBEE CO. SHAVED BY COURT

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 3 (AP).—Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today granted $297,112 of the $640,000 in final claims filed by reorganization officers and attorneys in connection with the six-year reorganization of the Follansbee Brothers company.

Part of the claims are to be paid in cash and part in stock of the new Follansbee Steel corporation.

Judge Gibson said the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which granted a $250,000 loan to the company for reorganization purposes, had specified the loan should not be reduced by payment of more than $150,000 in cash and an equal amount in stock to applicants.

New York Stocks.

New York, July 3 (AP).—A few leading stocks advanced sufficient fractions today to lift market averages, despite inertia on the eve of the July 4 holiday.

Wall street was far from crowded, as brokers and traders, harried with weeks of war worries, started an exodus to the country. Most of them won't be back until next Monday.

Some of the specialties were responsible for giving the market its steadiness, overcoming an early morning weakness toward noon.

Steel and aircraft shares, of late months the most active of the list, were quiet while traders awaited the opportunity to determine how they will be affected by the American rearmament program.

Leaders in the session's rising group were New York Shipbuilding, Loft, Certain-teed, Celotex, United States Gypsum, Johns-Manville, du Pont, United States Rubber, General Motors, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, American Telephone, Phelps-Dodge, and Packard, which rose ¼.

The market value of shares listed on the New York Stock exchange increased $2,228,657,000 during June, the exchange reported in a monthly compilation today. This was in contrast with a 10 billion dollar slump in May under the impact of the German invasion of the Low Countries and France.

As of June 29 stocks had an aggregate value of $38,775,241,138, against $36,546,583,208 at the end of May. Average price was $26.75, compared with $25.26 May 31.

At the end of June, 1939, stocks had a total value of $41,004,995,092, an average of $28.70.

Chicago Stocks.

Price trends were mixed yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in a 10,000 share session. The volume leader, Woodall Industries, was ¼ point higher. Commonwealth Edison, second in volume of sales, was up ⅝ point, but Middle West corporation, third in sales, and Chicago corporation, ranking fourth, each lost ⅛ point.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 3 (AP).—Bonds paid little attention to foreign news today but registered a cheerful sentiment on the domestic business situation. Closing prices were higher in most groups.

Many corporate issues, including a liberal sprinkling of rails, reached new tops for the recovery which started about June 10.

Most foreign dollar bonds kept in step with the upturn. Italian loans were exceptions, dropping back 1 to about 3 points.

The list generally closed near its best levels in spite of late profit selling by traders who wanted to travel light over the holiday.

All liens of the Great Northern railroad pulled ahead. Trading sources reported Wall street investment houses were negotiating with the Reconstruction Finance corporation for the purchase of $20,000,000 collateral trust 4s which the road recently sold to the federal lending agency.

United States governments moved up 1-32 to 15-32 on small turnover. Transactions totaled $4,601,500 face value, against $3,898,000 yesterday.

Bank Stocks.

First National and Northern Trust shares each rose 3 points yesterday as the Chicago bank stock market took an upward turn. City National was up 2 points and Continental Illinois a point. Other leading issues were unchanged.

WHEAT FUTURES SOAR ON REPORT OF CROP LOSSES

Closing Gains Reduced by Pre-Holiday Lull.

Wheat prices advanced 4 to as much as 7 cents a bushel on American exchanges at one time yesterday as a wave of buying developed following reports that the spring wheat crop in the American and Canadian northwest had begun to deteriorate rapidly.

Evening up for the July 4 holiday caused a recession from the best prices. Closing trade on the Chicago Board of Trade were 2⅞ to 3¼ cents higher. Minneapolis finished 4 to 4⅝ cents higher and the Duluth market closed with gains of 5¼ to 6½ cents.

Trading Volume Is Large.

Yesterday's upturn in wheat was the largest based on purely domestic conditions that has occurred in about a year, brokers said. They added that the volume of business was the largest in many weeks. European news was ignored thruout the day.

Additional estimates of harvests of principal grains were issued yesterday by private crop statisticians. The crop experts said the spring wheat crop is still uncertain, depending greatly on weather conditions of the next week or so. Deterioration in the northwest has begun and will continue rapidly unless needed rains come immediately, they said. The additional estimates raised the average winter wheat forecast to 499 million bushels and spring wheat to 222 million bushels, a total harvest of 721 million bushels.

The forecasts were not a strong factor in shaping the trend of the market.

Corn Follows Wheat Up.

Corn and other grains followed wheat into higher ground. Corn futures gained ⅝ to 1⅛ cents, and oats were ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher. Rye finished at gains of 1⅞ to 2 cents while soy beans advanced 1¼ to 3 cents, the latter on the new crop months.

Traders ignored the private estimates on the corn, oats, and rye crops. The average forecast of 2,440,000,000 bushels of corn was about in line with expectations, and compared with 2,619,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Grain Crop Forecasts.

The rye crop is estimated at 37 million bushels, or 2 million less than a month ago, and compared with 39 million bushels harvested last year. The outlook is for a yield of 293 million bushels of barley, or 17 million in excess of last year's harvest.

R. O. Cromwell estimated the spring wheat crop of the three western Canadian provinces at 391 million bushels and Donovan placed it at 440 million bushels. Estimates a month ago were 400 to 435 million bushels. Last year's harvest aggregated 460 million bushels.

Crop Outlook Clouded; Rains Vary from Too Much to None

Crop conditions are becoming less favorable in some regions, the weather bureau reported yesterday. Excessive rains in some areas and lack of precipitation in others, together with below normal temperatures on the whole, have clouded formerly bright prospects in several states.

Corn made fair to good progress in parts of the southwest, but in other areas in that section the crop suffered from lack of moisture and hot winds. Some of the most advanced corn in Iowa is shoulder high and the average is about knee high in South Dakota.

Wheat Needs Heat.

Sunshine and warmer weather is needed for ripening winter wheat in the eastern part of the belt, the bureau reported. Heads are filling well in most central and eastern sections, and some fields are beginning to ripen as far north as Minnesota.

Condition of spring wheat ranges from poor to excellent. In many sections where the weather has been dry, the crop is heading short. Oats and barley are being harvested in the southwest.

Rain needed; subsoil moisture badly depleted. Progress of corn mostly fair to good in south; good to excellent in north; average height two to three feet. Harvesting of winter wheat under way in south; some rust and lodging affecting returns. Oats mostly good; some cut in south.

Rainfall for the week ending July 2 and from April 1 to July 2 as reported by the weather bureau in inches and hundredths of inches, follow:

ILLINOIS 1939 STRIKE LOSS LEAST OF SIX INDUSTRIAL STATES

Strike figures for the six leading industrial states released recently by the United States department of labor for 1939 reveal that Illinois had a smaller percentage of "idle man-days" than the other five states. Chicago was lower than New York City, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Detroit.

Illinois had 74,017 workers involved in strikes during the year with a total loss of 606,953 idle man-days or 3.4 per cent of the total of 17,812,219 idle man-days in the country. Chicago had 49 strikes and 8,688 workers involved with a loss of 122,178 man-days.

The following table shows the number of workers involved in strikes in the six states, the idle man-days, and the per cent of the total idle man-days:

California	83,679	1,038,109	5.8

Chicago Railway Express Traffic Declines in June

Shipments of rail express in Chicago thru the Railway Express agency were 2.6 per cent smaller last month than in June, 1939, the company reported yesterday. The drop was attributed to unseasonable weather. Shipments numbered 1,573,423, compared with 1,615,423 a year earlier. Shipments in the first six months of 1940 numbered 10,541,258, an increase of 6.3 per cent over 1939. The agency's air express shipments were 6 per cent larger in June than a year earlier.

EFFECT OF ARMS BUYING ON STEEL OUTPUT DELAYED

Iron Age Hits Failure to Start Program.

Full force of the national rearmament program on the steel industry is not expected to be felt for 90 days, Iron Age said yesterday in its weekly summary.

The navy program is being accelerated, but military production of arms, airplanes, and other products is delayed in Washington, the trade journal said, despite the anxiety of manufacturers to learn what they are expected to do.

"The avalanche of news from Washington regarding appropriations has evidently created public acceptance of the idea that the program is well under way, so far as industry is concerned, but this is far from the fact," the publication stated.

Need 12 Million Tons.

Steel required for defense work will range from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 tons, probably spread over two years or more, according to unofficial estimates.

"Other than British requirements, export trade has flattened out considerably," Iron Age said. "Altho larger than the prewar average, it has recently been well below the peak months of last fall and early this year."

The magazine reported British purchase in this country of 112,000 tons of 90 pound rails for quick shipment. The rails are to be strung along all railroads in England and Scotland to permit speedy repairs in the event of damage by bombing.

Holiday Cuts Production.

Steel ingot production has declined this week to 75 per cent, it was stated, because of shutdowns for the holiday.

Scrap prices broke $1 a ton at Chicago, Iron Age said. Its scrap composite price declined 66 cents to $18.92. Resale of almost 60,000 tons of steel scrap by the Italian government put pressure on the eastern scrap market, the magazine said.

June bookings of steel orders were generally the best for the month since 1929, according to Iron Age.

Quotations on beehive furnace coke have advanced 50 cents a ton, following a scarcity of by-product coke, according to a dispatch yesterday from Pittsburgh. The new market price ranges from $4.50 to $4.75.

Other word from Pittsburgh reported that small sales of number one heavy melting steel scrap have been made at reductions of 50 cents a ton, establishing a range of $19.50 to $20 a ton.

POWER OUTPUT GAIN IS LESS THAN SEASONAL

Electricity output last week increased 0.2 per cent over that of the preceding week and 9.3 per cent over the corresponding 1939 week, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. The advance was less than normal for this time of year.

Production totaled 2,514,461,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 2,508,825,000 the week before and 2,300,268,000 a year ago. All major geographical sections shared in the increase.

The Commonwealth Edison company group reported its output at 148,040,000 kilowatt hours, against 151,467,000 in the preceding week and 140,652,000 a year ago.

DEFINE PRODUCTS PLACED UNDER EXPORT LICENSE

Defense Plan Clarified for Business Men.

Washington, D. C., July 3 [Special].—Confused business interests today flooded the department of state with inquiries on the extent to which basic materials and products are subject to license under the bill proclaimed yesterday by President Roosevelt for strengthening the national defense by keeping essential materials in this country.

The confusion was caused by the fact the list of materials and products subject to license was published without the definitions which, in effect, constitute qualifications.

List Affected Materials.

ALUMINUM — Metallic aluminum and alloys, crude, semifabricated, and scrap, containing in excess of 10 per cent aluminum.

ASBESTOS—Asbestos crude and semifabricated, if chiefly of fibres of three-quarters of an inch or more in length.

CHROMIUM— Chromite — Metallic chromium, chromium bearing alloys containing in excess of 10 per cent chromium, chromite refractories, and chromium compounds.

GRAPHITE—Flake graphite and graphite crucibles, retorts and stoppers.

Manganese Defined.

MANGANESE—Manganese ores or concentrates containing 45 per cent or more or metallic manganese, and alloys containing in excess of 10 per cent metallic manganese.

MAGNESIUM — Metallic magnesium and alloys, crude, semifabricated, and scrap, containing in excess of 10 per cent magnesium.

MERCURY—Mercury ores and concentrates and metallic mercury.

PLATINUM—Platinum group metals and alloys.

QUARTZ CRYSTALS—Piezo electric and optical.

QUININE — Quinine barks, cinchona, or others from which quinine may be extracted, and quinine sulphate.

RUBBER—All forms and types of crude, reclaimed, and scrap containing in excess of 5 per cent rubber.

Scrap Products Included.

SILK—Raw and waste silk.

TIN—Tin metal, alloys containing in excess of 5 per cent tin in crude and semifabricated form; tin plate scrap and other scrap materials plated with metal containing tin, and other tin or tin alloy scrap and wastes.

VANADIUM—Vanadium ores and concentrates; alloys containing in excess of 10 per cent vanadium, and vanadium compounds.

WOOL—Wool in the grease, or washed, wool scoured on the skin, or when pulled or sheared.

Except as otherwise indicated the terms used in these regulations shall not include completely fabricated articles or materials which are ready for ultimate consumption.

Must State Purposes.

Applicants for licenses to export the materials must state the specific purposes for which the materials are to be used abroad and the terms of sale.

An application becomes a license when stamped by the state department. It must be filed with the collector of customs at the port from which the material is shipped.

Exporters also must list the consignee and the purchaser in the foreign country, describe the commodity to be exported, and state its approximate net value.

Butter Futures Lower; Eggs Advance Slightly

Trading in butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange expanded moderately yesterday with butter closing 0.05 cent a pound lower and eggs unchanged to 1.10 cents a dozen higher. Restricted receipts and stronger wholesale demand for eggs lifted cash prices of some grades. The November butter future closed at 27.6 cents a pound and the October egg future at 19.1 cents a dozen.

Mint Plans Extra Shifts to Meet Demand for Coins

Denver, Colo., July 3 (AP).—The Denver mint is "running out of everything" so Superintendent Mark Skinner plans extra shifts to meet the demand for small coins resulting rfom national defense taxes. "We're shipping pennies, nickels, dimes, and quarters all over the country," Skinner said.

Argentine Wool Supplies Pile Up; Markets Are Lost

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 3.—Unsold wool stocks in Buenos Aires exceed 25,000 tons, according to the ministry of agriculture, which has asked the national bank to grant special loans to growers. The accumulation of stocks is the result of the loss of markets in countries invaded by Germany.

BATTERY MAKER REPORTS PROFIT GAINS FOR YEAR

I. T. & T.'s Domestic Earnings Rise.

Net income of the company, which has one of its plants at Chicago Heights, Ill., rose to $634,882, equal after preferred dividends to $6.10 a share on the common stock, exclusive of 15,000 shares not entitled to vote or receive dividends until all of the preferred stock is retired. In the preceding year profit was $29,648, equal to $4.77 a share.

The net income figure was computed after provisions for depreciation, interest, amortization of the cost of rental batteries, and federal income taxes.

European Plants Undamaged.

International Telephone and Telegraph corporation announced a gain in March quarter consolidated profits. The company reported that factories of its subsidiaries in Denmark, Norway, Belgium, and Holland were not damaged in the German invasion.

The earnings report did not include the European or Mexican units, or the cable or radio-telegraph subsidiaries, but included other subsidiaries. With the foreign units excluded, profit of the company for the quarter rose to $406,500, compared with $261,367 in the March quarter of last year.

The parent company alone had a March quarter net loss of $530,971, compared with a net loss of $206,928 in the 1939 period.

Operate on Smaller Scale.

"With respect to the properties of International Standard Electric corporation and its subsidiaries, the [parent] corporation's latest advices indicate that the factories of the subsidiaries in the occupied areas of Denmark, Norway, Belgium, and Holland have not been damaged and are operating, but on a reduced scale," Sosthenes Behn, president of International Telephone, said in the report.

Behn said French factories of the system were reported to be undamaged. Some of the machinery was moved out of Paris before the Germans entered the French capital.

Territory in Rumania occupied by the Russians contains about 10 per cent of the plant of the Rumanian subsidiary, Behn said. He reported that revenues from trans-Atlantic cable operations tumbled when German occupation of Holland, Belgium, and France interrupted cable service.

Murray Profit $983,583.

International Standard Electric, as a subsidiary of International Telephone, carries on the foreign manufacturing and export operations thru subsidiaries.

Murray Corporation of America, maker of automobile bodies, reported profit of $983,583, equal to $1.03 a share, for the nine months ended May 31. Indicated profit for the quarter ended May 31 was $323,852, equal to 34 cents a share, compared with $456,662, or 48 cents a share, in preceding quarter. No year ago comparisons were available.

BIG TEXAS CORP. ISSUE EXPECTED TO BE SOLD SOON

60 Millions in Refunding Bonds Awaited.

New York, July 3 [Special].—Investment banking quarters today expected that underwriters for the $60,000,000 issue of Texas corporation 25 year refunding 2¾ per cent debentures would place the issue on the market early next week, probably on Wednesday. This view was predicated on a stable market and no "bad news" from abroad over the week-end.

A spokesman for Dillon, Read & Co., managing underwriter, said that while no notices for underwriters to sign up have been sent out, the issue could be put on the market very quickly when the decision is made.

Since the success of the $38,000,000 Jersey Central Power and Light refunding issue, bond men have been more cheerful. The new issue market had been stagnant for eight weeks after the German invasion of the Low Countries and France.

Bid on Equipment Issue.

On Monday the $7,995,000 of new equipment mortgage bonds of the Pennsylvania railroad are up for competitive bidding and, with the new International Paper company and Cleveland Electric Illuminating company refundings, indications today were that July would be a big month unless upset by such news as a spectacular blitzkrieg against the British Isles.

The $60,000,000 refunding by Texas corporation has been in abeyance for several weeks, with the registration setting a due date of May 15, 1965. The new issue is to replace a like amount of 3½ per cent debentures of 1951.

Inasmuch as Texas corporation debenture 3s of 1959 are selling now at 105 for a 3.85 per cent yield basis on 30 year money, it is assumed that the forthcoming issue of 25 year debentures will retain the coupon of 2¾ per cent originally fixed.

Consider Utility Refunding.

It also was thought that underwriters might resume plans for the Iowa Southern Utilities company refunding next week. As registered, the deal includes $10,000,000 of first mortgage 4s of 1970 and $2,660,000 of general mortgage of 4½s of 1950. Some additional data is required before clearance by the Securities and Exchange commission. W. C. Langley Co. head the underwriters.

Scovill Manufacturing company is due out of registration next Tuesday with its $10,000,000 of 10 year debentures to be handled by Morgan Stanley & Co.

HARD COAL.

Where does the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company operate? I would like to have a comparison of its earnings over a period of several years. Is its stock in the dividend-paying class? Where is the stock traded?—F. M.

Answer: Lehigh Coal and Navigation company is the oldest mine operator in the Pennsylvania anthracite coal section. The enterprise was started in 1792. The coal is sold mainly for residential consumption in the New England area.

Coal sales provide the largest part of the company's gross revenues, but the narrowed margin of profit shrinks the net return from mining operations. Profits from railway properties and from a considerable investment in a public utility company are the main sources of net earnings.

Consolidated funded debt of the company and its subsidiaries totaled $32,114,401. There were 1,929,127 shares of no par capital stock outstanding. Dividends on the capital stock have been paid each year without interruption since 1881. The shares are listed on the Philadelphia stock exchange and are traded also on the New York Curb exchange.

In the last few years the company and subsidiaries have been able to earn barely enough to cover interest on their long term debt. Over the last eight years fixed charges have been earned 1.35 times.

1939	$206,946	$0.11	$0.40
1938	651,464	0.34	0.80
1937	*306,511	*0.16	0.80
1936	*46,815	*0.02	0.10
1935	18,674	0.01	0.10

*Net loss.

For 12 months ended March 31, 1940, consolidated net income amounted to $313,640, or 16 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $24,112 in the corresponding period of a year earlier.

SUBMARINE SIGNAL.

Is there a company known as Submarine Signal? What are its products?—G. S.

Answer: The Submarine Signal company was started in 1901 to promote a system of submarine warning bells. Developments since then have included a visual method of echo sounding, a device for signaling from lightships to submarines, direction finders, and systems of detecting the presence of submarines and other vessels. The company's office is in Boston, Mass. Capitalization consists of 71,690 shares of $25 par common stock, unlisted.

Fireman Edward Datz of Engine Company 5 demonstrating the art of "bunking," firemen's term for waking up, dressing, and getting down the pole to the truck before it pulls out of station. The practice will be demonstrated at the third annual Chicago Police and Fire Thrill show in Soldiers' field on July 14. Bunkers is the term applied to the rubber boots and pants. The fireman sleeps in underclothing and shirt. The bunkers are placed so he can jump into them.
